Promoter Is Hired as Economist.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 29.—The Dies committee, investigating un-American activities, today disclosed the records of 35 members of the Board of Economic Warfare which numbers among its functions the planning of postwar economic reconstruction.

All officials are members of communist front organizations, the committee revealed. Outstanding among them is Maurice Parmelee, principal economist at a salary of $5,600 a year.

Veteran of Nudist Camps.

Parmelee is the author of a number of books of revolutionary character. One is entitled "Nudism in Modern Life," published in 1931 after the writer, according to his own declaration, had spent several years in nudist camps in Europe.

Parmelee advocated nudism not as a fad but as a serious pursuit to be undertaken 24 hours a day—in office, workshop, and factory. Some precautions, he noted, should be taken in apartment buildings.

Facts Given to Wallace.

Facts concerning the men who have been assigned the task of planning what sort of country we shall have after the war were given to Vice President Henry A. Wallace, ex-officio head of the Board of Economic Warfare, in a letter from Committee Chairman Martin Dies [D., Tex.].

Wallace, after reading Dies' report, issued a statement tonight castigating Dies for "a malicious use of facts" and said the information was revealed in an "attempt to inflame the public mind." He promised an investigation.

Dies expressed surprise that Wallace did not know the character of the men comprising the board. He confessed particular astonishment regarding the case of Nudist Parmelee, who was born in Constantinople. Of Parmelee's writings he noted:

"'Nudism in Modern Life' is a book of 300 pages with 35 photographs taken in nudist camps, all of which are obscene. That the book is an attack upon the moral structure of our society and upon the church and religion is apparent from even a casual reading.

"Advantages" Cited.

"Mr. Parmelee advocates the widespread practice of nudism in this country. He does not offer it as a fad but quite seriously declares it should 'be practiced whenever feasible in office, workshop, and factory. The author professes to believe that nudism has the greatest advantages for the home and for society generally.

"In the nudist society which Parmelee envisages, 'convent and monastery, harem and military barracks, clubs and schools exclusively for each sex will disappear, and the sexes will live a more normal and happier life together.'

"Parmelee foresees some hesitancy on the part of rural folk in adopting nudism because, 'the church and its clergy are usually strongly intrenched in the country and exercise a powerful sway over its inhabitants.'"

Mixed with Economics.

Parmelee ties his philosophy of nudism in with his ideas of economics on which he has written extensively in other volumes. In the present volume he explains the relationship

'6 Japs Coming, So I Just Shot Them': O'Hare

BY ROBERT TRUMBULL.
[Special Dispatch to The New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

PEARL HARBOR, T. H., March 29.—This is the story of Lieut. Edward H. O'Hare versus nine Japanese bombers.

Lieut. E. H. O'Hare.

This 28 year old American naval flyer, flying in South Pacific skies as a guard over an aircraft carrier a few weeks ago, single-handedly tackled a squadron of attacking heavy planes, shot down five and damaged a sixth, and thus accounted for an estimated loss of $500,000 worth of enemy aircraft and 30 airmen.

Lieut. O'Hare is the son of Eddie O'Hare, promoter and head of Sportsman's Park in Chicago, who was killed in 1939.

Attached to Scout Squadron.

Attached to a scout squadron on a carrier, O'Hare was patroling his beat above a prowling task force. He had never been in actual combat.

"O'Hare was one of the few pilots we get out of training school who could immediately go up and do a good job in a practice dog fight," his squadron leader, Lieut. Comm. John S. Thach, said. The object of his praise, also present, sat silent, embarrassed.

On the morning of Feb. 20 the carrier was plunging along on her course, accompanied by her escort. Above her the ever watchful scouting planes constantly patroled. But O'Hare was not in the air.

O'Hare Held in Reserve.

"He was in reserve," his commander said.

Thach's section of two single seaters, ranging far ahead on a "snooper," ran into a rain squall about midmorning, suddenly got a startling glimpse through a hole in the clouds of a big enemy bomber cruising below them, apparently alone. The Japanese, as big as a large transocean clipper, and heavily armed, ran out of the squall.

Thach and his wing man overtook him, began firing, saw him crash and explode in the blue sea below. The "snoopers" high-tailed back to their ship, reported enemy aircraft in the vicinity, and routine was immediately under way to repel possible attacks. Four guard sections went up to patrol.

9 Jap Bombers Thunder Over.

The first Japanese attack wave of nine bombers thundered over the horizon not long afterward. They were twin-engined bombers, bristling with cannon and machine guns, and presumably from land bases. They were detected some 70 miles away, and came on at 200 knots straight for the prized carrier target. Six American fighters were in the air to meet them—O'Hare was still chewing his nails down on the flight deck.

The attack was ferocious, the defense was cold and efficient.

"We were like a team," Thach recalled. "They began dropping in flames like flies. A Jap flyer has plenty of nerve, but all he knows seems to be to go straight ahead. He's not so good as a United States pilot—he lacks the imagination, the skill, and intelligence. If his leader's gone, he's lost."

Four more fighters rose to battle from the carrier, and action moved slowly toward the ship, very high

AID RUSSIA! PLEA OF BEAVERBROOK

Fate of Allies Depends on It, He Warns.

Miami Beach, Fla., March 29 (AP).—Lord Beaverbrook, in the United States to speed lend-lease aid to the allies, tonight singled out the Russian front as the one on which "the hopes of humanity" are centered, and urged that all possible supplies be sent to this "most critical battlefront in the history of civilization."

"We recognize the opportunity presented by the epic battle of the Russians," Beaverbrook said in a broadcast to Canada.

A Cry for Action.

"If the Russian armies are scattered beyond the Urals, all our hopes would be scattered too. Nazi Germany would possess the sinews to fight a war that would be long indeed, and ravenous Japan would set new and distant horizons."

After suffering "all the vexations of defeat and retreat," Beaverbrook said, "the cry goes up now for offensive action. Action! This is the proper mood for great nations who are resolved to remain great.

"Such then is our mood today," he continued. "And it is in this mood that we recognize the debt we owe Russia."

Must Win in Field.

Addressing the Canadians, he said:

"You know, my countrymen, that the job cannot be finished in the factories. It must be done in the field.

"We may build airplanes and ships in great numbers. We may mass tanks and guns, and anti-tank guns and anti-aircraft guns. But unless we have resolute, determined, brave citizens, trained to handle the tanks and guns, taught to man the ships, then we cannot be blessed, we cannot be the peacemakers, we cannot inherit the earth.

"Singapore was not lost to superior equipment. On the contrary the weight of munitions was on our side.

"The story was told of Crete that it could never be taken, save by superior forces brought by sea borne invasion. But Crete was taken, by surprise, by decoy, and by swift movement."

MacArthur Held Sole Hope of Allies Keeping Australia

San Francisco, Cal., March 29 [Special].—The united nations have a "reasonable chance of holding Australia" under the inspired leadership of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, but "it is obvious that tens of thousands of American boys must die" in halting the Japanese conquest in the southwestern Pacific.

This was the considered opinion of Cecil Brown, CBS correspondent, expressed in a broadcast over Columbia's coast-to-coast network tonight five hours after landing in San Francisco from Australia.

Brown's arrival in San Francisco marked the completion of a round-the-world trip of more than four years' duration as a correspondent. High points of those years included his eviction from Italy by the axis powers, his barring from the air at Singapore by the British censor, his coverage of the war in the near east and North Africa, his narrow escape from death when the British warship Repulse on which he was a passenger, was sunk by the Japs.

Picture Not Bright.

"The picture in the Pacific is not very bright," said Brown. "It would be a distortion and inaccurate reporting to say otherwise, and it would be hiding the facts to say other than this—that the United States at this moment is in the most serious position in its history.

"I am reporting the situation with the deepest honesty, with the sum total of every moment of my training as a reporter when I repeat—America stands at the gravest second in her history.

"As dark as the picture is there is room for optimism, not false optimism but genuine reasons for seeing reasonable hope for our cause in the far east. The greatest single victory achieved by the united nations thus far in the far east was the appointment of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as commander in chief of the southwest Pacific.

Chance to Perform Miracle.

"Gen. MacArthur has the opportunity to perform a miracle to stop the Japanese and then hurl them back, because I am convinced that the Japanese will attempt to invade Australia," Brown continued. "There is every indication that the Japanese will attempt to take Port Moresby in New Guinea, they will go after Free French New Caledonia, they will be forced to attack the Fiji's. They will find themselves forced to assault New Zealand and to bomb, hammer away and then attempt to capture Darwin, Townsville, Sydney, and Melbourne.

"When I was in Melbourne Australians actually were screaming that Gen. MacArthur be named to command their forces as well. Here is the sort of man who has the chance to be the greatest military tactician of the twentieth century. MacArthur wants victory. Nothing else counts, or will count. He is a man of astounding courage.

Anzacs Hard Boiled.

"The Anzacs have been waiting for his type, anxious, yearning to be told what to do. MacArthur is operating from a base where there are 7,000,000 people quite similar to ourselves. They are tough, hard boiled, with great backbone, nor more apathetic than the American until he is aroused. Freedom is dear to him, too.

"MacArthur's chances of upsetting the cold, utter conviction of the Japanese that they are going to win this war depends a good deal on the support he receives from America. Thousands of American aircraft have to be at his disposal.

"Scores of thousands of trained—not partially trained, but expert—American soldiers must be at his side, and to win this fight it is rather obvious that tens of thousands of American boys must die. There can be no help for that.

AUSTRALIA WAR PLANS SPEEDED BY MacARTHUR

Allies to Decide Big Issues This Week.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

UNITED STATES ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, March 29.—Important plans for the defense of Australia are expected to be drafted at a series of conferences by American and Australian military leaders this week.

Sir Thomas Blamey.

Altho details have not been revealed, for reasons of security, an American army spokesman indicated that further developments in the organization of the unified high command probably would be announced as a result of the parleys to be held here as well as in Washington and London.

May Meet with Cabinet Again.

A spokesman for Prime Minister John Curtin said that the head of the Australian government hoped to contact Gen. Douglas MacArthur at his headquarters for a continuation of the discussions opened when the supreme commander in the southwest Pacific met with the war cabinet in Canberra, Australian capital.

It is considered likely that MacArthur will attend a meeting of the Australian war cabinet, slated for the next few days.

Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, commander of the allied land forces in Australia, conferred with MacArthur for the first time over the week-end.

Assignment of the newly returned Australian imperial force, brought home from other battle fields, is one of the important items on the agenda of this week's conferences.

Debate Use of Veterans.

In an interview upon his return here from the middle east, Blamey said he hoped the Australians would be used as a unit, since they have already had wide experience under fire and are likely to be more effective that way than if they are split up and placed among less experienced troops. However, a number of veteran officers of the Australian imperial force will be assigned to the militia in order to strengthen troops who have served only in Australia.

In this connection, The Tribune correspondent recalls that during the early days of the drive thru France the German high command scattered a number of World war veterans among the young soldiers with the idea that they would be a steadying influence. After the green troops had been in a few battles, the older men were withdrawn from the combat units.

EXPECT 'NEW WAR PHASE'

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 29 (AP).—The American-Australian air team is definitely calling the tune after sharply reducing Japanese hitting power and a new phase of the war in the Australian theater is about to begin, military observers said today.

Pointing to the growing weakness of Japanese attacks, Prime Minister John Curtin said only seven Japanese bombers made the attack on Australia's little northwestern port of Darwin Saturday and that two of them were shot down, another probably bagged and a fourth possibly accounted for.

When Japanese bombers attacked Port Moresby, key defense center of New Guinea, for the 21st time, heavily outnumbered Royal Australian Air Force fighters manned by young pilots shot down five of the accompanying fighter planes and routed the others, reports said. This left the bombers unprotected and spoiled their aim.

Reports on Surprise Raid.

Possibly 240 persons were killed in the first raid on Darwin on February 19, Curtin acknowledged today. Deaths in Darwin itself totaled 15. The other victims were in the harbor or in air fighting.

The prime minister was reporting on the inquiry by Justice Charles Lower into the surprise Japanese attack. The justice was asked to investigate after there had been criticism of conditions in Darwin and some comparisons with the surprise attack on Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

DIGEST OF MAJOR NEWS ON BATTLES THRUOUT WORLD

Latest war developments:

American-Filipino troops repelled a Japanese attack on Bataan peninsula in the Philippines with heavy losses to the enemy, the United States war department reported. American casualties were said to have been light. Simultaneously, guns of Manila bay fortresses smashed a concentration of small invasion boats opposite Fort Frank, defense bastion 10 miles south of Corregidor.

Chinese Hold in Burma.

In Burma, outnumbered Chinese forces still held Toungoo despite repeated Japanese attacks, according to a British communique from New Delhi, India. Some small villages, mortars, heavy guns and gas masks were reported captured from the Japanese in counter-attacks. Tokio claims, broadcast by Berlin, said the Japanese had continued their advance beyond Toungoo, driving the defenders northward along the railway to Mandalay.

"Free French" Hit Axis.

In the Libyan desert, "Free French" troops routed an axis force headed by seven tanks, the British reported from Cairo. The Rome radio, however, claimed Italian artillery had put British tank patrols to flight in the same area.

The Russians claimed to have routed a German force after five days of stubborn counterattacks on the Kalinin front northwest of Moscow, killing 2,450 Nazis and destroying 50 tanks and 22 planes. German planes raided Moscow, some casualties being acknowledged.

[Stories on pages 1, 4, and 5.]

U. S.-Filipino Troops Smash Bataan Attack

Washington, D. C., March 29 (AP).—American-Filipino forces have hurled back a new Japanese attack on the Bataan peninsula with "heavy losses" to the enemy, the war department reported today, while artillery fire from the island fortresses smashed a concentration of small, hostile boats off Patungan beach.

Heavy bombing attacks on Corregidor and the Bataan rear positions accompanied what the department said was a "heavy" attack on the right center of the American-Filipino line. Military observers here tonight thought the apparently synchronized activities of the enemy might be the forerunner of a long expected offensive.

Casualties Are Light.

A war communique said American-Filipino casualties on land were "relatively light" and the bombing damage slight.

The small boats, presumably an invasion fleet, had been assembled by the enemy almost opposite Carabao Island, site of Fort Frank, farthest outlying American fortification, and about 10 miles due south of Corregidor. A similar concentration of barges and small boats was hammered to pieces several weeks ago by the big guns of the fortresses.

Bombed for Fifth Day.

The Corregidor attack marked the fifth successive day that Japanese airmen have bombed this rocky island fortress but anti-aircraft fire from Fort Mills, the war department said, kept the planes at "extremely high altitudes and as a result the bombing was inaccurate."

To date, eight Japanese bombers have been bagged by Fort Mills' gunners.

DOMINION RULE PLEDGED AFTER WAR BY BRITIAN

Election Promised, Cripps Reveals.

NEW DELHI, India, March 29 (AP).—Sir Stafford Cripps, Britain's Indian freedom emissary, said today that the British war cabinet proposed to create after the war "a new Indian union which shall constitute a dominion, associated with the United Kingdom and other dominions by a common allegiance to the crown."

Sir Stafford Cripps.

Divulging the complete outline of the proposals on which he has been conferring with Indian leaders for a week, Sir Stafford told a press conference that the plan envisaged India as equal to Britain and the dominions "in every respect, in no way subordinate in any aspect of its domestic and external affairs."

The plan provided that any province not prepared to accept the new constitution could retain its present status and join the Indian state later if desired. This was aimed at solving the problem of the 77,000,000 Moslems who have threatened revolt should the plan place them under the thumb of the numerical preponderance of Hindus.

Gandhi Reported Skeptical.

Mohandas K. Gandhi, spiritual leader of the important All-India congress party, was reported as believing the proposal would prevent India from achieving full political integrity, but political circles envisioned the possibility of left and right wing leaders in the congress joining to urge acceptance of the plan. The Moslem league, India's second largest political party, was generally expected to agree to the proposals.

The plan is as follows:

"His majesty's government make the following declaration:

"[a] Immediately upon cessation of hostilities steps will be taken to set up in India in the manner described hereinafter an elected body charged with the task of forming a new constitution for India.

States May Participate.

"[b] Provision shall be made as set out below for the participation of Indian states in the constitution making body.

"His majesty's government undertake to accept and implement forthwith the institution so framed subject only to:

"Firstly, the right of any province of British India that is not prepared to accept the new constitution to retain its present constitutional position, provision being made for its subsequent accession if it so decided.

"With such nonacceding provinces, should they so desire, his majesty's government will be prepared to agree upon a new constitution giving them the same full status as the Indian union and arrived at by a procedure analogous to that here laid down.

Treaty to Be Signed.

"Secondly, the signing of a treaty which shall be negotiated between his majesty's government and the constitution making body. The treaty will cover all necessary matters arising out of the complete transfer of responsibility from British to Indian

FIND A NUDIST PLANS NATION'S POST-WAR WORK

Dies Hits Red Tieup of 35 on Economic Board.

"While gymnosophists [nudists] are not necessarily Socialists or communists, these colonies furnish excellent opportunities for experiments along communistic lines, some of which may be successful. To say the least, these colonies would be democratic in their character. Customary nudity is impossible under the existing undemocratic social, economic, and political organization."

Crackpot Plan, Says Dies.

Dies, in his letter to Wallace, stated:

"Surely, Mr. Vice President, there is no place in a postwar planning agency for a person who advocates such a crackpot and immoral plan. When I consider that this man is the principal economist of the agency which you head, I, like many others, wonder how it is possible that a person with Parmelee's background and views can secure such an important post when there are so many competent persons who are able and willing to fill this post, persons whose outlook on life is wholesomely American and not embellished with crackpot ideas of nudism, technocracy, communism or any other brand of revolution.

"It cannot be said, Mr. Vice President, that the government did not have notice of Parmelee's background, for as early as 1934 he was tried in the District of Columbia for bringing obscene matter into the United States. I should like to quote here what Chief Justice Wheat had to say concerning Parmelee's book:

"'The illustrations which are asserted to be obscene apparently have no relevancy to the written text at the place in which each of said photographic illustrations is set in the book. The said photographs or illustrations, upon examination, are obscene and within the condemnation of the statute under the authority of which seizure was made and the libel filed.'

Justice States Conclusions.

"In stating his conclusions of law, Chief Justice Wheat declared:

"'The said books contain obscene matter and are therefore properly subject to libel and should be destroyed.'

"Wholly apart from the final disposition of the case of Parmelee's book in the courts, I am obliged to state that the volume is obviously the work of a warped and unhealthy mind. I find it significant that Parmelee did not list the title of this book on his application for government employment. The question which I raise is not one of freedom of speech and press but of qualification for an important government position.

Authored Propaganda Book.

"I call your special attention, Mr. Vice President, to two other volumes from the pen of Mr. Parmelee. One is entitled 'Farewell to Poverty,' and the other 'Bolshevism, Fascism, and the Liberal-Democratic State.' These volumes have nothing of the objectivity of the scholar but are, on the contrary, propaganda treatises for communism. Together these volumes fill some 900 pages. Any one of thousands of passages could be cited from these volumes to show the communist viewpoint of the author, but I must be content to quote only the following:

"'The high technological development in the United States renders it feasible to introduce a planned social economy much more rapidly than has been the case in the U. S. S. R. The superficial paraphernalia of capitalism can be dispensed with more quickly than in the soviet union.'

"I may point out that the name of Maurice Parmelee appeared on the membership list of the American League for Peace and Democracy which our committee published two and a half years ago.

"Other employés of the Board of Economic Warfare were likewise affiliated with the communist-controled American League for Peace and Democracy. I cite the following records:

"C. Hartley Grattan, economic analyst of the Board of Economic Warfare, at a salary of $5,600, wrote an article for Fight magazine which was the official publication of the American League for Peace and Democracy.

"T. A. Bisson, principal economic analyst of the Board of Economic Warfare at a salary of $5,600, was a sponsor of the American League for Peace and Democracy.

On Pay Roll at $6,600.

"Kendall Foss, principal analyst, at a salary of $6,600, was a member of the American League for Peace and Democracy.

"Sigmund Timberg, principal analyst, at a salary of $6,600, was a member of the American League for Peace and Democracy.

"David Vaughn, head administrative officer at a salary of $6,500, was a sponsor of the American League for Peace and Democracy.

"Abe M. Draisner, assistant intelligence analyst at a salary of $2,600, was a member of the American League for Peace and Democracy.

"Eugene Staley, consultant, was a sponsor of the China Aid council of the American League for Peace and Democracy.

Analyst a $4,600 Pay Roller.

"Nathaniel Weyl, senior economic analyst at a salary of $4,600, was a member of the communist-controled Student Congress Against War which was in turn one of the forerunners of the American League for Peace and Democracy.

"I do not intend to go fully into the records of these employés at this time, Mr. Vice President, but I do wish to point out a few additional affiliations with communist organizations which the records of our committee reveal.

"In addition to his affiliation with the American League for Peace and Democracy which I have already cited, C. Hartley Grattan was both a contributor and an advisory editor of the magazine Champion. This periodical was an official organ of the Young Communist league and included among its editors such well-known and publicly-avowed communists as Angelo Herndon.

Sees World-Wide Communism.

"Grattan was also a member of the National Committee for the Defense of Political Prisoners, an organization which was an auxiliary of the communist party. Like Parmelee, Grattan has been a prolific author. In his book entitled "Preface to Chaos," Grattan predicts world-wide communism after the second World war. He then cites H. G. Wells as holding a contrary view and asks the following rhetorical question:

"As between Wells and Marx, what worthwhile men will hesitate in his choice?"

"In September, 1939, the month following soviet Russia's pact with Hitler, the communist magazine Soviet Russia Today published a manifesto which was described as 'an open letter for closer coöperation with the soviet union.' Some 400 prominent communists and fellow travelers signed this document. It should be kept in mind that this document appeared at a time when the 'line' of the communist party was in sharp conflict with the interests of the United States.

"Among the 400 signers of the document were T. A. Bisson, whom I have already mentioned as a sponsor of the American League for Peace and Democracy, and George B. Cressey, consultant of the Board of Economic Warfare on a $25 per diem.

"There will be no debate, Mr. Vice President, on the desirability of our having an agency to consider the grave problems of postwar planning and economic reconstruction. On the other hand, I am sure that the American people will be concerned to know whether or not such an agency is to have on its staff a large number of persons—or even one person for that matter—whose records indicate that they reject the American way of life in favor of this or that scheme for revolution.

"Recently it became my duty to expose the communist record of one Malcolm Cowley who was employed in the Office of Facts and Figures. After my exposure, Mr. Cowley resigned his post. I believe that the American people will now welcome numerous resignations—or dismissals—from the staff of the Board of Economic Warfare. I am sure that you will unhesitatingly agree that the interests of national unity would be furthered thereby. At least, there is no place in such an agency for an outstanding advocate of nudism."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 29.—Vice President Henry A. Wallace, replying tonight to Rep. Martin Dies' report to him linking 35 members of the Board of Economic Warfare to communist front organizations, denounced Dies' for "a malicious use of facts," but promised that the charges would be investigated.

Wallace, in his statement, did not deny the truth of Dies' exposure of the records of the men entrusted with the task of preparing the nation for the post-war reconstruction era. He devoted all his efforts to castigating Dies, the congressman responsible for exposing communist, Japanese, Nazi, and fascist activities in the United States.

Calls it Malicious.

Dies, said Wallace, is "seking to inflame the public mind by a malicious distortion of facts." Dies' charges, he went on, "might just as well come from statements of Goebbels himself. The effect on our morale would be less damaging if Mr. Dies were on the Hitler pay roll.

"If we were at peace, these tactics could be overlooked as the product of a witchcraft mind. We are not at peace, however. Any man who seeks to undermine faith in our government by a malicious use of facts is a greater danger to our national safety than thousands of axis soldiers within our border.

"A Few Isolated Facts."

"Mr. Dies has twisted a few isolated facts in an effort to create the impression that the Board of Economic Warfare is planning a nudist postwar world for the United States. In calmer times this would make him the laughing stock of the country. In these days of crisis and tension, however, we cannot tolerate deliberate and dishonest efforts to confuse the public. These are the most critical times in our history. Everything we treasure is at stake.

"It is the solemn duty of all patriotic citizens to fight the enemy within our gates who hide under many cloaks, the most insidious of which is a false patriotism.

"I trust that Mr. Dies and others of his kind with an intense itch for publicity will use their great talents to help the united nations to win this war, rather than stir up discord among patriotic Americans."

FINDS ATLANTIC BARE OF SHIPS ON TRIP TO PORTUGAL

Tribune Writer Tells of 12 Days on Water.

(David Darrah, a Chicago Tribune foreign correspondent who has just returned to Vichy, France, after a vacation in the United States, describes in the following dispatch his voyage thru submarine infested waters to Europe. Lisbon censors refused to release his story for transmission to this country and Mr. Darrah was compelled to take it to Vichy for filing.)

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LISBON, Portugal, March 10 [delayed].—Thru the submarine infested Atlantic and loaded with grain and about 50 passengers, the good ship Serpa Pinto, Portuguese owned and navigated, has just reached its home port of Lisbon after a 12 days' voyage from New York.

Route of Darrah ship.

During the 12 days, no submarine conning towers were sighted, altho every one knew they were not far away. The only incident in the voyage occurred March 4 when a British warship overhauled the Serpa Pinto in midocean and put a landing party aboard which made a careful search of the ship's papers and asked if there were any suspicious characters aboard.

Halted for Two Hours.

For two hours the Portuguese ship heaved to under cover of the guns of the British patrol ship which remained at five miles distance while 25 British seamen came aboard in a launch. They were in charge of a red bearded petty officer with cap and chin strap. Two big pistols hung from a strap around his waist. All wore life preservers.

The episode caused a commotion aboard, for none knew if the approaching warship was German or British, since it carried no flag. When the search ended, the Serpa Pinto continued toward the Azores.

The steamer had put out from New York at the end of February and headed into an Atlantic wilderness which has never appeared more lonesome. Shipping has disappeared, practically, except for the guarded lanes, and the Pinto was crossing straight thru midocean.

Prepares No Passenger List.

Leaving New York is not what it used to be in the old days when scores of liners poured thousands of travelers and tons of goods into Europe.

In these days few cargoes are going out and the passenger list is so small the purser does not even bother to print a list. Among the Serpa Pinto's passengers was a group of American diplomats. Aboard also were a few Swiss, French, Swedes, and one Englishman.

Added to the equipment of the New York port authorities now is a censorship organization which goes thru all papers, books, and documents before customs officers examine the rest of the trunks, suitcases, and bags.

Everything is checked for information and documents and such data as spies might be taking back to Europe. Non-Americans must have special sailing permits.

Finally, with all clear, the ship dropped down the harbor at dusk, passed Ambrose lightship, and in a few hours reached complete isolation from the warring world except for contacts in the radio office up forward. In the midst of the Atlantic wastes there is a sort of precarious peace once more.

Sail with Lights Ablaze.

The ship navigated with blazing lights. A Portuguese flag was painted on each side and covered by floodlights. Lifeboats were lowered in readiness from the davits.

There was only silence for seven days, with no special anxiety on board. No lifeboat drill was ordered, and life preservers were left untouched under the bunks. An orchestra played while dinner was served. Passengers walked the deck and peered into the gray wastes to watch for seacraft, having always in mind that a conning tower might pop up any time. But they saw nothing, not even a dolphin or a porpoise.

At noon on the seventh day, the monotony was broken. Passengers were pacing the decks, working up an appetite for noon lunch. The luncheon gong sounded, then suddenly a vessel was sighted off the port side. Every one rushed to the rail. The ship was a tiny speck on the horizon. Those with binoculars said she was bristling with guns. Is she a German raider, or a British patrol ship? That was the question.

The Serpa Pinto steamed on and the gray speck grew larger. Those who had gone down to the dining room came back to crowd the rails. Some were pale and some were green. Some prefered the visitor to be a German ship and some a British vessel.

Some of the passengers went below to their staterooms to get clothing and arrange baggage. One doesn't know what might happen. But the ship's officers were calm and appeared untroubled, in fact, they were slightly bored. A lot of signalling was going on from the forward masthead.

In a short time we were told: "She is British, and we are heaving to."

Presently, at five miles distance, the approaching warship stops. The Serpa Pinto's engines also cease their throbbing, and the ship swings round with lowered anchors.

Tars Board Vessel.

After a short interval the boarding party of young British tars climbs upon the deck. They take possession of the bridge and the forward section of the ship. They look at the ship's papers and talk with the Portuguese officers, and to some of the American diplomats. But they do not examine the cargo or question any of the passengers.

They slide down the sides of the Pinto to their launch and pull away toward the distant warship, which remains just beyond possible torpedo range.

Shortly afterward the Serpa Pinto is again under way, and the British warship has disappeared over the horizon. Luncheon is resumed.

It was disclosed that the warship was a British patrol making a routine challenge of the neutral Portuguese ship, even tho she was cleared with all papers from New York. The Serpa Pinto was the second ship this British patrol had seen in 40 days, the sailors told the Portuguese officers, indicating the barrenness of the Atlantic.

Two days later the Serpa Pinto put into Ponta Delgada, capital of the Azores, for a few hours to take on fuel oil. Curiously enough she had taken no fuel in New York. Only the grain and a few barrels of machine oil were put in her hold there. All the food served on board had been laid in at Lisbon on a previous trip, and we watched the Azores with hope that something fresh would be available for the remainder of the voyage. No one was allowed to go ashore.

Lisbon still is pouring troops into the islands. Several ships were in the narrow harbor. Men came aboard with pineapples, fruit, wicker chairs, and baskets. The American consul also came aboard for a chat.

Ragged Persons at Docks.

The town of Ponta Delgada lay green and pink under the lowering hills and fertile fields, just as Mark Twain saw it when he went innocently abroad three-quarters of a century ago.

Some of those who came to the docks were in rags, and there seemed to be much poverty in the islands. Toward nightfall, the ship threw off the tow ropes and again headed for Lisbon.

Every one must report to the ship's doctor for medical inspection and if he has not been vaccinated within a year he must be revaccinated.

One way or another, it costs a dollar. It also costs 25 cents to make your baggage declaration to the purser. The purser conducts his exchange business at a rate of 14 escudos to the dollar, which makes every one worry about his bar bill. [An escudo is worth nearly 4 cents in American money.]

WOMEN WORKING IN FORD PLANT FOR FIRST TIME

Plan to Use 25,000 in War Production.

Detroit, Mich., March 29 [Special].—For the first time in the 40 years since Henry Ford built his first motor car, women are working in a Ford assembly line. They are doing so well in their tasks at the new bomber plant that the company plans to expand the number of women employés there to an ultimate total of 25,000.

Most of the 400 women now at the bomber plant never worked in a factory before. A few are college graduates, others worked as waitresses or sales clerks, some are fresh from the farm.

One is a flyer in her own right and another used to be a professional model. Most of them are between 18 and 25 years old, but some have daughters of that age.

ITALY SAYS ONE SUB SANK FOUR SHIPS OFF U. S.

ROME, March 29 [from Italian broadcasts]—(AP).—The Italian high command claimed today a share of the success of axis submarine attacks off the United States coast by asserting one of its U-boats recently torpedoed four ships totaling 20,000 tons. The Italians claimed 114,000 tons of shipping had been destroyed along the United States Atlantic coast since the end of January by Italian undersea raiders.

Lieut. Comm. Carlo Fecia di Cossato was credited with the four ships claimed today and the communique said his total tonnage "during his present cruise" had soared to 32,000.

Nazis Tell Sub Activities.

BERLIN, March 29 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—A special announcement from Adolf Hitler's headquarters today said German submarines sank 16 merchant ships totaling 110,600 tons, including eight large tankers totaling 73,900 tons, in the North Atlantic, and off the American coast.

SHORTAGE ENDS IN MacARTHUR BUTTON SUPPLY

Sales of MacArthur buttons totaled 1,300 in the Tribune's Public Service office in Tribune Tower yesterday.

The grand total in five days of selling is more than 101,000. The buttons, which cost 2 cents each over the counter and 5 cents by mail, are limited to five to a customer. Each button bears a front view likeness of Gen. Douglas MacArthur painted for THE TRIBUNE by Oskar Gross.

In the first four days of selling the buttons were being bought at a faster rate than they could be manufactured. Today, however, the shortage will be past and 100,000 will go on sale at the two Tribune Public Service offices, at 1 South Dearborn street and in the Tribune Tower. Profits will be used in behalf of service men at nearby camps.

HOW COMMANDO FORCES BRAVED INFERNO IS TOLD

'Old Buck' Rammed Dock with Guns Firing.

LONDON, March 29 (AP). — The doughty old American destroyer which joined the British navy and found death and glory at St. Nazaire went to her self-appointed end defiantly, her guns blazing.

In glowing words, the epitaph of H. M. S. Campbeltown, formerly the U. S. S. Buchanan, but known to her British crew as "old Buck," was written today by an Exchange Telegraph correspondent who accompanied the Commando raid yesterday on the Nazi held French naval base.

"She defied German submarines, mines, and concentrated fire from shore batteries until she crashed thru boom defenses and charged the dock entrance," he added. "Naval personnel showed the highest courage and continued to fire the destroyer's guns even after her bows were ablaze.

"Only when the flames spread did they run from the decks straight onto adjacent landing stages, which were swept by Nazi fire.

"Found Place in History."

"Still thoroly American in her lines, altho she flew the white ensign, she found at her end a place in history alongside the Vindictive of Zeebrugge fame."

He related that most of the Commandos who drove home the attack "fought on until they either were casualties or were taken prisoner, but they completed one of the finest aggressive operations of the war."

Holman said the Commandos encountered strong opposition as they systematically wrecked harbor installations, lock gates, and power houses, but overcame it.

British naval forces approached St. Nazaire while the RAF was bombing the harbor, he related.

"German flak [anti-aircraft shells] rose into the sky in staccato bursts as we entered the estuary of the river," he went on. "Tracer shells went up on either side of us, forming a strange gothic archway of fire.

Couldn't Hear Orders.

"Suddenly two powerful searchlights swept the water, picking up the leading ships. The Germans fired a burst of flak, then came another and a more continuous burst which the Campbeltown answered.

"In a second the whole river was covered with a fantastic crisscross pattern of fire, and the roar of battle was so loud our gun crews couldn't hear orders from bridges of motor launches.

"The Campbeltown finished her last journey magnificently by shooting up a German flak ship, which she left in flames before speeding up to about 20 knots for the charge into the dock gates. She piled herself up on them with the sureness of a ferret diving into a hole."

Roar of Big Explosions.

Soon the roar of big explosions ashore was heard, indicating that the Commandos had begun their demolitions. A launch which carried Holman landed Lieut. Col. A. C. Newman, commanding the military forces. The launch lay beside the jetty as survivors of the Campbeltown scrambled aboard. Then she headed out into the channel and immediately came under fire of German shore batteries at less than 20 yards.

"Gunners on the launch returned the fire and one made a direct hit on a Nazi pillbox," Holman said. "The captain shouted, 'well shot, do it again' but the gunner had fired his last shot. He was killed.

"The glare of fires from both British and German vessels burning made light nearly as strong as the searchlights, as a burst of firing in the inner submarine basin indicated the Commandos had secured yet another position and were raking U-boat moorings with mortars and Brens.

"The commander of our launch twice tried to bring it alongside the mole, but the German firepower was intense and we were driven off. The launch, however, was the last of the flotilla which left the harbor. "Only a hard turn to port prevented our colliding with a flak ship which opened fire at 20 yards range.

Last Shells Silence Her.

"With the last of our shells, we silenced her and then as we escaped we saw her destroyed by the concentrated fire of her own shore batteries, which apparently believed she was one of our craft lying disabled in the stream.

"A tragic moment came when it was realized some Commando and special service troops ashore could not be evacuated. Col. Newman knew this but not for one minute did he hesitate to go ashore and take his headquarters staff with him."

The scheme of attack on shore provided that each man do a particular job and, the correspondent wrote, "it was inevitable that the nonarrival of even a few Commando troops was a serious handicap."

But he said these difficulties were overcome by "a series of thunderous explosions still going on when the last British naval forces withdrew."

He said one of the "biggest bangs" came from a blast which destroyed the dock powerhouse, and another which destroyed the gates of the main basin.

"Demolition troops working with a speed which must have amazed the Germans fixed heavy charges of explosives to a bridge, the dock gates and important buildings and blew them sky high in a matter of minutes," the correspondent related.

Cook Puts Out His Fire.

The Campbeltown's cook gave this account of his experiences as the ship headed for the dock gate:

"I shut down the cooking ranges for the last time and went to my gun position. We were picked up by an enemy searchlight and the fun started. We got about a half dozen salvos in face of terrific fire and then a shell burst about two feet from our gun. We were finished.

"The engine room crew carried on until after the Campbeltown had crashed into the dock gates and right up to the end they gave her steam for 20 knots."

One Commando corporal got only a slight wound when his rifle was blown in half as he lay on the destroyer's forward deck.

The raiders returned home to a noisy welcome today. Informed quarters acknowledged that there was probably a large number of casualties and prisoners.

Land from Destroyer.

"H. M. S. Campbeltown, a former American destroyer [the U. S. S. Buchanan] with her bows specially stiffened and filled with five tons of delayed action high explosives, forced her way thru a double torpedo baffle protecting the entrance to the lock and rammed the center of the main lock gate.

Panic Among Germans.

"The force of the impact was such that the destroyer came to a standstill only when the bridge was abreast the gate itself. As soon as the bow of the Campbeltown was firmly wedged, special service troops landed as arranged and set about the work of demolition.

"The pumping station and dock operating gear were destroyed and other demolition work was carried out according to plan.

"The raid caused panic among the enemy, who fired indiscriminately at friend and foe. An enemy six-inch gun sank one of their own anti-aircraft ships at the time she was engaging our returning forces.

"Enemy machine guns appear to have prevented the full withdrawal of some of our forces."

AXIS TANK FORCE ROUTED IN LIBYA BY 'FREE FRENCH'

British Bomb Foe's Air Fields and Troops.

CAIRO, Egypt, March 29 (AP). — A fighting "Free French" column roaming the Libyan desert east of El Mekili routed an enemy force headed by seven tanks, a British communique said today.

Increased air activity produced British bombings of Bengazi and fighter attacks on axis landing fields at Derna and Martuba and several troop encampments.

South Africans making the attacks on landing grounds scored hits on several parked planes, and probably destroyed several German planes which tried to interfere, the communique said.

A torpedo plane succeeded in an attack on an 8,000 ton cargo ship in the central Mediterranean, it added.

The British admitted the loss of four planes.

American flyers piloting Spitfires in the RAF who shot down two German planes in a 60-second combat over Malta last Tuesday were disclosed today as Pilot Officers James Peck of Berkeley, Cal., and D. W. McLeod of Boston, Mass. They are among half a dozen Americans with the RAF at Malta.

Claim Foe Put to Flight.

ROME, March 29 [from Italian broadcasts]—(AP).—The Italian high command reported today that Fascist artillery had put to flight British patrolling tanks southeast of El Mekili on the Libyan front and that Italian planes bombed the harbor and town of Tobruk.

Bomb Malta Shipyard.

BERLIN, March 29 [from German broadcasts] — (AP). — The government shipyard at Valetta, Malta, was a principal bombing target yesterday, the German high command stated today.

Famous Church Destroyed.

New York, March 29 (AP).—A Greek church which stood on the spot at Malta where tradition says St. Paul landed after shipwreck in the Mediterranean has been destroyed by axis bombs, the British radio said today. Besides the church, the broadcast said, St. John's cathedral and the Royal university have been damaged.

CUFFLESS PANTS are a mark of Patriotic Cooperation

The War Production Board's clothing regulations go into effect today . . . and we at Richman Brothers will comply with the law, in letter and in spirit.

There has been a lot of misinformation (printed and spoken) concerning these regulations, so here are the facts. Today, it is unlawful for any person to put cuffs on wool trousers.

Frankly, we do not consider this too great a sacrifice for anyone to make for his country in time of war, and we do not believe that any good American will mind giving up pants cuffs to save the wool that we need so badly.

Beyond the elimination of cuffs, there is no change in style that affects you at once. As of today, the making of two pants suits is ruled out and the tailoring of clothing is regulated, but these regulations are slight . . . and do not apply to suits in stock.

Under the circumstances, there is little justification for the frantic rush to stock up on clothes . . . a rush that, we regret to say, has made it impossible for us to offer our customers our usual complete selections and usual good Richman Brothers service.

A TIMELY TIP
Our tailor shops ship new clothes to our stores every week—so why not come in after Easter, when we will be able to serve you better?

5 DAYS OF NAZI COUNTER-BLOWS CRUSHED—REDS

Claim Trapped Foe Split Into Two Groups.

MOSCOW, March 29 (AP).—German planes raided Moscow today and caused some casualties, as German counterattacks on the Kalinin front northwest of the city were reported to have stalled and disintegrated into rout after a five day battle.

One or two German planes reached Moscow, dropping their bombs haphazardly, hitting a number of houses. The rest of a formation was dispersed by the Russian defenses and three German planes were reported destroyed.

The smashing of the German counterattacks on the Kalinin front put an end, at least temporarily, to a German attempt to regain the initiative in this region of the long front.

The attacks probably were aimed at relieving the trapped German 16th army at Staraya Russa which the Russians have been reducing for a month. The Germans attempted to cut off a wedge of the Red army, but the dispatches said this failed.

Plight of Nazis Difficult.

Red Star, the army newspaper, said the Russians had divided the German concentrations into two groups and the plight of the Nazis was increasingly difficult. In the five day battle 2,450 Germans were killed, a large number wounded and 50 tanks and 22 planes were destroyed.

At one point on the Kalinin front, a supplementary communique said, "the 427th German infantry regiment was routed and two battalions annihilated. The Hitlerites lost over a thousand soldiers and officers killed alone."

Tonight's midnight communique told of the occupation of several unspecified places after an offensive engagement with the enemy. It also reported the destruction of 37 German planes yesterday and the loss of 18 Russian planes.

Capture 10 Villages in South.

Tank supported Russian infantry has slogged thru the mud on the southern front to capture 10 villages in recent days, while in other sectors of the bleak battle zone the Red army was reported continuing its relentless war of attrition.

Tass, the soviet news agency, said 12 districts of the Smolensk region west of Moscow had been "cleared of Hitlerites" and 10 other districts were partially cleared. Guerrillas behind the German lines in that area were said to have killed 4,500 Germans and freed 3,000 captured Red army men within two and a half months.

A special communique said guerrillas in the Leningrad area have killed 16,075 German soldiers and 643 officers, including 11 colonels and three generals, in the last eight months.

These behind the lines warriors were credited also with killing 67 gestapo [Nazi secret police] agents, 163 spies and "traitors," and derailment of 114 trains loaded with Nazis and equipment.

They were declared further to have destroyed eight German headquarters stations, 89 planes, 98 tanks, 2,377 motor vehicles, 64 tractors, 96 guns, and 359 horses.

Claim 15 Planes Downed.

BERLIN, March 29 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—So-called "competent quarters" announced today that 15 Russian fighter planes were shot down in combat with German fighters protecting dive bombers in attacks on Russian columns and tank concentrations on the southern part of the Russian front.

The German high command credited Rumanian troops with helping the Germans repulse "strong local attacks" in the Donetz basin.

The Germans said the Reds "continued fruitless attacks at various other places on the rest of the eastern front" and once again said they were waging "bitter defensive" warfare.

Four merchant ships and a destroyer were said by the Germans to have been bombed off the North Cape of Norway in an attack on a "powerfully protected convoy." The Germans said they bombed Murmansk—probably destination of the convoy—by night and day.

War Developments in Burma

CHINESE STILL HOLD TOUNGOO, BRITISH CLAIM

Fight Off Repeated Jap Attacks in Burma.

NEW DELHI, India, March 29 (AP).—Chinese forces, altho outnumbered and under repeated enemy attacks, are still holding their lines in and near Toungoo, Burma, a British communique said today.

[The exact situation at Toungoo was confused. A Chungking, China, communique earlier yesterday stated that heavily reënforced Japanese troops had forced the Chinese defenders to withdraw to positions along the railway running north to Mandalay altho they still held the eastern section of the city. This communique, however, referred to fighting on the night of March 27, three days ago.]

"Telephoned reports from field headquarters state that the Chinese have no intention of withdrawing from the city," the communique continued. "In counterattacks north of Toungoo, the Chinese yesterday captured some small villages which had been in Japanese hands and also took mortars, heavy guns, several horses and gas masks. Casualties were heavy on both sides. There also were several small patrol engagements along the Burma-Thailand and Burma-Indo-China borders."

Japs Advancing, Says Tokio.

BERLIN, March 29 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—A Tokio dispatch says that Japanese troops have continued their advance beyond Toungoo in Burma, driving the defenders back along a railway line leading northward to Mandalay.

Horror on Road to Mandalay.

MANDALAY, Burma, March 28 [Delayed]—(AP)—The 51 miles of the Pyinof Toungoo have been transformed mana-Yedashe road in Burma north into a horror road by repeated Japanese air raids.

Picturesque villages have been leveled by bombs.

Dazedly sitting in a pile of salvaged bedding, a basket of eggs, and an old American sewing machine, a half naked Burmese shopkeeper told Americans in halting English: "Yes, some of our people were killed in the bazar, but it is too hot to go there to look. We didn't know what the Japanese were like until now. We didn't know what bombs were until we heard the explosions. Why were we killed?"

MacArthur Greets Quezon on Arrival in Melbourne

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 30 [Monday] —(AP).—President Manuel Quezon of the Philippines arrived in Melbourne today. He was met by Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Australian officials. He appeared tired, but his face wreathed with smiles when Gen. MacArthur stepped forward to greet his friend of many years. They had been separated for three weeks. Maj. Gen. Richard K. Sutherland, chief of staff to Gen. MacArthur, and a few other members of MacArthur's staff were in the welcoming party.

PROTEST NEGRO SOLDIER SLAYING BY POLICEMAN

2,100 Attend Mass Meeting at Little Rock.

Little Rock, Ark., March 29 [Special].—A resolution branding as unjustifiable the fatal shooting of a Negro army sergeant by a city policeman during a disturbance last week in Little Rock's West 9th street Negro district was adopted today at a massmeeting attended by 2,100 Negroes.

Those attending the meeting adopted a report of a Negro citizens' committee headed by J. H. McConico, executive secretary of the Negro Chamber of Commerce, asking city, county, and federal authorities to make a thoro investigation of the incident.

Ask for Negro Police.

A petition was addressed to the city's common council, which meets tomorrow night, asking that Negro policemen replace white policemen now patroling the business section of the Negro district.

Both civil and military authorities have already held the slaying justifiable after inquiries. The victim was Sergt. Thomas B. Foster, 30 years old, of Zebulon, N. C., who enlisted last May at Baltimore, Md., and served as a member of the 92d engineer battalion recently sent here to do construction work.

Pastors Speak at Meeting.

Foster was shot four times by Patrolman A. J. Hay during an altercation in which a crowd of Negroes, allegedly led by Foster, attempted to liberate a Negro who had been arrested for drunkenness.

Pastors of two large Negro churches addressed the massmeeting, which was described as orderly thruout. They were the Rev. E. W. Blakely, pastor of the Bethel A. M. E. church, and the Rev. E. C. Dyer, pastor of the First Baptist church.

The massmeeting directed that copies of the committee's report be sent to President Roosevelt and to Secretary of War Stimson.

COLORED TROOPS FROM CHICAGO IN AUSTRALIA

Specialized Units Will Do Building Work.

BY JACK TURCOTT.

[By wireless to the New York News and The Chicago Tribune.]

UNITED STATES ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, March 29.—The army today relaxed its ban on mention of the hundreds of American colored troops it has brought over to Australia.

Wartime regulations do not permit identification of the outfit but it is permissible to say that the men are specialized ground troops who will work mostly on construction jobs. The majority are from the St. Louis and Chicago areas.

Australia's policy excludes colored persons from permanent residence on the continent. Approved by all political divisions of the country, this policy was designed to prevent immigration of cheap labor, with its consequent lowering of wage and living standards for Australia's whites.

Natives Live on Reservations.

Australia's aborigines, totaling about 100,000, live on reservations in northern and central Australia or on the small islands around the continent.

I crossed the Pacific on the ship transporting the colored Americans and knew the anxiety felt by the officers concerning the possible frigidness of the Australians toward violation of the commonwealth's policy. All felt that the ship's arrival would result in some unpleasantness.

But their worries were uncalled for. The colored boys, thinking Australia was Africa, crowded the decks and peered out of portholes during the docking, and the Australian officials greeting us showed no surprise at seeing virtually no whites aboard.

The troops remained aboard ship for several days and when permitted to go ashore behaved like typical American doughboys. They strolled the streets of the large city, looked in the stores, drank beer, and visited the movies.

Australian Curiosity Wears Off.

Most Australians had never seen an American Negro and at first frankly stared. But their curiosity soon wore off and they accepted the fact that colored troops are a part of the United States army and are therefore most welcome here.

Occasionally a colored soldier is seen in the street chatting with an Australian girl, but there has been no trouble and Australians are confident that the national white policy is thoroly understood and respected by the whole population.

The colored boys took the crossing in good shape, despite the discomfort of extreme heat and close quarters. The only breach of rules was the smuggling aboard of a mongrel dog named "Dopey." When it was discovered here that Australia, a rabies-free country, does not permit the direct entry of foreign dogs, "Dopey" was hidden and fed scraps from the troops' mess, but officers discovered him and ordered him returned to America.

COMMUNIQUES SHOW U. S. DESTROYED 27 JAP PLANES IN WEEK

Washington, D. C., March 29 [Special].—Destruction of a total of 27 Japanese planes by United States forces was reported in last week's official communiques. Seven of these enemy craft were bombers which struck at Corregidor island in Manila bay and fell before our anti-aircraft gunnery.

Seventeen Japanese planes, 10 of which were Zero fighters, were accounted for by our P-40 fighters and flying fortresses in forays over enemy held airdromes on New Guinea.

China Courts All Islam; Sends Minister to Egypt

CHUNGKING, China, March 29 (AP).—China and Egypt are exchanging ministers, the foreign office announced today, in a move toward closer relations between China and all the Islamic nations. An exchange of ministers with Turkey is impending and the step already has been taken with Iran and Iraq. The trend indicates, the spokesman said, "not only closer relations between China and the Islamic countries but also an Islamic participation in the struggle against aggression."

In these fast-changing, uncertain times, no one can foretell the future accurately. But, come what may, there's one thing you can be sure of:

INDIA OFFERED DOMINION STATUS AFTER THE WAR

hands; it will make provision in accordance with undertakings given by his majesty's government for the protection of racial and religious minorities; but it will not impose any restriction on the power of the Indian union to decide in future its relationship to other member states of the British commonwealth.

"Whether or not an Indian state elects to adhere to the constitution it will be necessary to negotiate a revision of its treaty arrangements so far as this may be required in the new situation.

"The constitution making body shall be composed as follows unless the leaders of Indian opinion in the principal communities agree upon some other form before the end of hostilities: Immediately upon the result being known of provincial elections, which will be necessary at the end of hostilities, the entire membership of the lower houses of provincial legislatures shall as a single electoral college proceed to the election of a constitution making body by the system of proportional representation.

"This new body shall be in number about one-tenth of the number of the electoral college. Indian states shall be invited to appoint representatives in the same proportion to their total population as in the case of representatives of British India as a whole and with the same powers as British Indian members.

Must Organize for War.

"During the critical period which now faces India and until the new constitution can be framed, his majesty's government must inevitably bear the responsibility for and retain control and direction of the defense of India as a part of their world war effort, but the task of organizing to the full the military, moral, and material resources of India must be the responsibility of the government of India, with the coöperation of the peoples of India.

"His majesty's government desire and invite the immediate and effective participation of leaders of the principal sections of the Indian people in the counsels of their country, of the commonwealth, and of the united nations.

"Thus they will be enabled to give their active and constructive help in the discharge of the task which is vital and essential for the future freedom of India."

Sir Stafford made public the cabinet's draft declaration after Sunday discussions with Indian leaders in which his mission moved along an outwardly smooth course. He spent two hours at Birla house, residence of Mohandas K. Gandhi, spiritual leader of the All-India congress party, which is the foremost advocate of Indian independence.

Cripps Is Cheerful.

He conferred for 30 minutes with the little Nationalist leader himself, and also saw Pandit Govind Belabha Pant and B. G. Kher, former premiers of the United Provinces and of Bombay. Afterward, Cripps declared himself "increasingly cheerful."

The congress party's working committee considered Sir Stafford's proposals at a three hour secret meeting.

Sir Stafford said the question whether his plan is implemented depended upon the outcome of last week's discussions. He has set the end of this week as the limit of his time here.

"The defense of India will not be in Indian hands even if all parties wanted it," he said. "It would be the worst thing for the defense of India. It would disorganize the whole defense arrangements, and such disorganization would be fatal. The scheme goes thru as a whole or is rejected as a whole."

Plan "Merely a Proposal."

Sir Stafford added that the plan was merely a proposal and "not the publication of a declaration by his majesty's government, but only of a declaration that they would be prepared to make if it met with sufficiently general and favorable acceptance from various sections of Indian opinion."

The right winger, C. R. Rajagopalachariar, former premier of Madras, was reported as regarding the proposals as the best immediate solution.

[A broadcast by Sir Stafford Cripps direct from New Delhi, India, will be carried by W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system at 10 a. m. today.]

Bond Seller Honored

Bishop Bernard J. Sheil awards prize to James Cavanaugh Jr. for selling most defense bonds in school contest.

James Cavanaugh Jr. became known yesterday as Oak Park's youngest super salesman and one of the village's leading patriots—at the age of 12 years.

James, a pupil at the Ascension school, was given first prize for selling the most defense bonds in a contest in which 2,300 parochial school youngsters sold $350,000 in stamps and bonds. In his spare time after school James sold $25,000 worth. He will be interviewed on W-G-N at 4:45 p. m. today.

Runner up in the contest, which was sponsored by the Oak Park Elks club, was Tom Russell, also a pupil at the Ascension school. His sales totaled $19,850.

INDIA'S MODERN HISTORY ONE LONG WAR FOR FREEDOM

The British offer of dominion status to India is one more in a long series of attempts by the British government to appease the vast Hindu-Moslem empire without entirely letting go of the reins of government.

Beginning with the rule of Lord Minto as viceroy of India in 1905, unrest led to the appointment for the first time of native representatives to the secretary of state's council and the viceroy's council. King George V. in 1908 pledged an extension of these appointments, which was carried out in 1909 by provision for the election of members of the legislative councils and constitution of executive councils at Madras, Bombay, and Bengal.

Lord Minto's successor as viceroy, Lord Hardinge, was immensely popular. In 1911 he succeeded in drawing from the Indian National congress a resolution of loyalty to the crown and appreciation of the political reforms which had been instituted. The outbreak of the World war in 1914 helped to keep the peace in India, the people rallying to the empire cause.

Agitation Renewed in 1916.

In 1916, however, agitation for home rule was renewed by Annie Besant and B. G. Tilak, with the result that in 1917 the secretary of state for India, E. S. Montagu, announced in the house of commons a policy of increasing the association of Indians in the government.

Following the armistice of 1918 Indian agitation again broke out, a "passive resistance" program being instigated by Mohandas K. Gandhi, who until then had been an ascetic holy man and reformer.

Many disorders, rebellions, and even massacres followed between 1920 and 1925. In 1927 parliament appointed a commission under the chairmanship of Sir John Simon, which was to investigate India's capacity for self-government.

Pass Government Act in 1935.

The commission held hearings at New Delhi and after many conflicts its report urged the attainment of dominion status. After many other conferences the government of India act was passed in 1935, conferring a larger measure of self-government and granting semiautonomy to the 11 provinces of British India, but retaining for the British government control over foreign affairs and many domestic matters.

India is now governed under this act.

Under the pressure of the new World war, Britain issued a "white paper" on Oct. 17, 1939, promising to discuss dominion status for India after the war.

Perhaps presaging the reaction of the Indian congress to the present "profoundly disappointing." The Moslem league, however, expressed approval.

On April 8, 1940, the viceroy, Lord Linlithgow, and the secretary of state for India, L. S. Amery, announced again that India eventually would be granted "a free and equal partnership" in the British commonwealth, and that Indians would be represented on a war advisory council.

Again the All-India National congress answered that there was "no meeting ground" in the government's proposal, and demanded complete independence. As a result the government announced in November, 1940, that it would postpone its plan to expand the viceroy's council with more native memberships.

Thus matters stood until a year ago, when on April 22 both houses of parliament extended for another year the offer of dominion status after the war. The current trip of Sir Stafford Cripps to India was the result of increasing demands from parliament, public and press to settle the Indian problem now and make sure of India's participation in the war effort.

BRITISH NEWSPAPERS CAUTIOUS IN COMMENT ON INDIA PROPOSAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 30 [Monday].—A cautious note was struck in the editorial comment in Monday morning's papers on the publication of the British proposals to India. Several newspapers intimated that it was a pity the proposals had not been formulated before. After pointing out that the main criticism of the new scheme probably would be that it defers setting up an Indian commonwealth until after the war, Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express states:

"But this is unavoidable; the reorganization of the political lives of 389 million people cannot be put in hand in the middle of the war, and with the invader already at the gates."

The Labor organ, Daily Herald, altho giving its blessing to the plan, asks: "But what of immediate matters? What of the suggestions for immediate action? Here, frankly, the plan is in some degree obscure."

LOGISTICS

Strategy is the planning of warfare.

Tactics is the execution of those plans.

Logistics, the third branch of military science, is the supplying of everything necessary to strategy and tactics—in the right amount, at the right place, at the right time.

Now, in total war, we must apply the science of Logistics to all of our activities as a nation—civilian as well as military. WE-ALL are part of the Victory Program.

Our supply lines are literally life lines of the United Nations. Man-power and munition-power are the controlling factors.

Today, Logistics dictates strategy—determines tactics.

Time favors those who appreciate it as the priceless commodity it now is.

In war, when we save time we save lives—and we make our individual contribution to Victory.

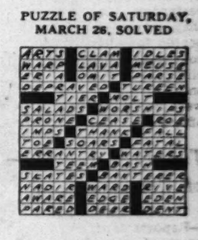
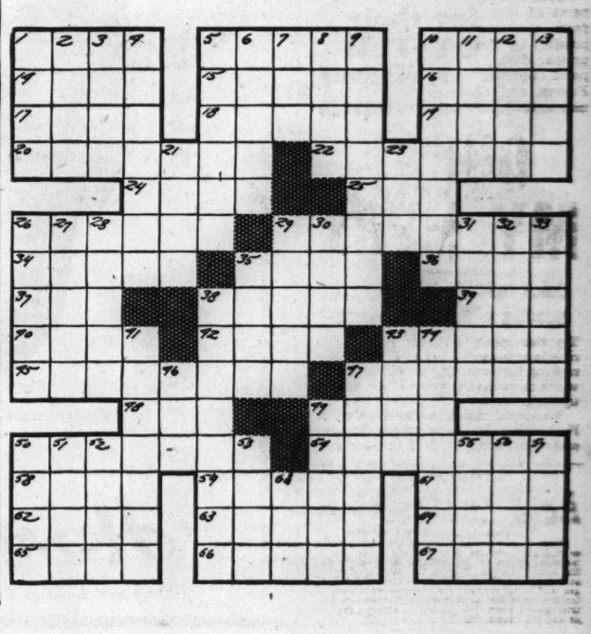
PUZZLE OF SATURDAY, MARCH 28, SOLVED





GANDHI MOURNS MYSTERY DEATH OF INDIAN REBEL

Subhas Bose Dies in Jap Plane Crash, Report.

NEW DELHI, India, March 29 (AP). —Accepting at face value reports of the death in a Japanese airplane crash of their one-time nationalist colleague, Subhas Chandra Bose, the venerable Mohandas K. Gandhi and Congress Party President Azad today paid tribute to the man rated by the British as a potential fifth columnist.

Chandra Bose.

[Axis agencies, emphatically denying the report of Bose's death, heaped mystery about the incident. Stefani, Italian news agency, quoting "Hindu political circles in Bangkok," Japanese occupied Thailand, said that at the same time the report of Bose's death was broadcast, he was making an anti-British speech from a clandestine radio. The report was said by Stefani to be the product of wishful British thinking. If dead, Bose's name was being kept alive by the axis for its propaganda value and the truth might be a long time coming out. If Bose is alive, it is possible the report arose from a confusion of identities.]

Gandhi sent this message to Bose's mother:

"The whole nation mourns with you the death of your and her [India's] brave son. I share your sorrow to the full. May God give you courage to bear this unexpected loss."

Followers Honeycomb Bengal.

Maulana Abdul Kalan Azad, with a note of qualification, said:

"The tragic end of Subhas Chandra Bose while he was still in the prime of life [he was 45] will cause deep sorrow to all those who knew him. In spite of differences with him regarding the means of attaining India's freedom, it must be recognized that he lived and died for a cause to which he dedicated his life."

Bose's underground followers are known to honeycomb Bengal, strategic northeastern area, where subversive activities might prove extremely upsetting in the coming struggle with Japan. His influence with the masses was regarded by the British, however, as all but vanished in recent years.

ELEVEN ABOARD PLANE.

The merry-go-round of reports concerning Bose began last Friday when a Japanese broadcast admitted that a Japanese army plane with 11 persons aboard en route to an "Indian independence" conference in Tokio had been overdue since Tuesday. When last reported the plane was battling a windstorm over the bay of Ise, southwest of Tokio, the broadcast said.

First reports of Bose's death apparently arose from axis sources. On Saturday a Vichy broadcast, heard in London, said his death was "reported from Tokio."

A German broadcast of a Bangkok dispatch the same day said: "Thousands of Indians here deeply mourn the early death of Swami Satyananda Puri, president of the Indian National council in Thailand [Siam] who died in an airplane accident when en route to Tokio where he intended to participate in a meeting of free Indian leaders in east Asia." This broadcast mentioned no other victims of the crash.

Bose, once head of the all-India Congress party and former mayor of Calcutta, has been a fountainhead of radical axis propaganda to the Indian masses. An appeal from Berlin on March 14 for Indians to revolt was attributed to him.

Weather Men Beat Own 'Ceiling Zero' Forecast

Weather bureau staff members did a little forecasting for themselves yesterday: No elevator service. So they carried lunches when they reported for duty at the United States courthouse. That way they had to climb 14 stories to their work only once during the day. The elevators were being repaired. The only other offices open were on the second floor.

Timely Rains Dispel Fears of Crop Failures in China

CHUNGKING, China, March 29 (AP). —Reports of timely rains in different parts of Free China today dispelled fears of a spring crop failure and possibly the first famine since China's prewar days. Good crops are anticipated now in Szechwan, Kwangsi, Fukien, and Chekiang provinces.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

THE QUESTION.

When did you most appreciate a drink of plain, cold water?

WHERE ASKED.

Bus depot, Harvey, Ill.

THE ANSWERS.

Helen Berwanger, cashier, 535 Price street, Calumet City—It was in a darkened theater in the middle of the movie. I swallowed a whole piece of candy and started choking on it. A slap on the back didn't help. Holding my breath and still choking, I ran up the aisle to the fountain in the lobby. A drink of water never brought greater relief.

George Giawnopoulos, cook, 15337 Lexington avenue, Harvey—From early morning to late afternoon we had been tramping and hunting in the California hills. It was hot, and we were tired and thirsty. Game was no longer our object. We were hunting a spring. We came upon marsh ground, traced the water to a spring, and drank like never before.

Ralph Prim, tire servicing, 3332 North Octavia avenue—Once I was called on an emergency job to change the tires on a fleet of cabs. A group of us worked from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. in a hot, stuffy garage, not stopping once for a bite to eat or a drink. On my way home I stopped in at a restaurant for my tastiest glass of water.

Marcella Buggert, switchboard operator, 15228 Ashland avenue, Harvey—It was nickel day for all of the students at the '33 World's Fair. We were all hot and thirsty after a few hours. We were traveling in a group, and when we came to a fountain we were told to line up and wait for our turns to drink. When my turn finally came it was the best ever.

Arthur Skaaden, contractor, 4936 Belden avenue—We were traveling with a team and wagon thru the Bad Lands of South Dakota and had not had a cool drink for miles. With sand in the air and what seemed like a mouth full of it we stopped at a ranch. You can imagine how good that water looked to us as it was pumped from the well.

Leo Frank, beer salesman, 4936 Winthrop avenue—Everybody knows what that first sip of water tastes like after a siege of ether. The one I appreciated the most was at that time. I was feverish and uncomfortable with a throat as dry as cotton. Those few drops of water changed everything.

Former St. Pierre, Miquelon Governor Arrives in Lisbon

LONDON, March 29 (AP).—"Free French" headquarters said tonight that Baron de Bournat, former governor of St. Pierre and Miquelon Islands who is en route to Vichy, had arrived with his wife at Lisbon, Portugal. De Bournat was taken into custody when the islands, off Newfoundland, were occupied by "Free French" forces on Christmas eve, 1941. He was taken to London where British foreign office officials directed that, in response to his request, he be repatriated to unoccupied France.

43,000 IN LONDON HEAR PLEAS FOR A SECOND FRONT

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 29.—A crowd estimated at 43,000 packed into Trafalgar square this afternoon. Almost silently, grimly, they stood as trade unionists and speakers representing every political party pleaded for a second front in Europe. All urged action now, before Adolf Hitler unleashes an offensive against Russia.

The Lord Nelson monument was placarded with huge posters demanding that the ban be lifted on the Daily Worker, suppressed communist paper. Opposite the speakers hung a communist flag.

Behind the speakers were pictures of Prime Minister Winston Churchill, Dictator Josef Stalin of Russia, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek of China, India's Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, and President Roosevelt.

Give Aid to Russia.

The mood of the crowd was indicated by the fact that more than 2,500 pounds [about $10,000] was subscribed to the aid-to-Russia fund.

The speakers confined themselves mostly to reiterating the old arguments for opening a second front in Europe now as much to save this country as to save Russia.

John Gordon, editor of Lord Beaverbrook's Sunday Express, said he was convinced a British attack on the continent this year was essential to victory.

Raps British Aggression.

The only vitriolic speech was delivered by the Indian Nationalist Krishne Memon, who declared that this was a war against aggression. He added that he took this to mean against all aggression, including that of the British in India.

Eric Baume, London editor of the Truth group of papers in Australia, asserted that if Australian Prime Minister John Curtin had not taken the bit in his own teeth, Australians might now be fighting a rearguard action in Australia.

William Conner, who used to write in the Daily Mail under the name Cassandra, was introduced as having resigned from the Mirror to join the army because he refused to write what Herbert Morrison, minister of home security, told him to write. The crowd applauded vociferously.

Cheers for Red Paper.

When a Laborite said that Minister of Labor Ernest Bevin would get a 40 per cent increase in production if the ban on the Daily Worker were lifted, the crowd cheered.

While the massmeeting was going on in Trafalgar square, Anthony Eden, foreign secretary, spoke to a Merthyr Tydfil audience. Eden praised Russia and described the Russian counteroffensive as one of the most remarkable achievements in the military history of the world.

Eden said that the allied link with Russia by way of Iran [Persia] was completed ahead of schedule, and now the allies are transporting double the amount of supplies that passed thru there at the end of last year.

British Recapture 2 of 4 Escaped Nazi Prisoners

LONDON, March 29 (AP).—Two of four German prisoners of war who escaped from a camp in northwestern England last Wednesday were recaptured today when they attempted to board a train. Search for the other two continued with police, aided by bloodhounds, combing wide areas of the countryside.

1942 A BIG YEAR, CANADIAN ARMY CHIEF DECLARES

McNaughton Lands in Britain with Troops.

A BRITISH PORT, March 29 (AP).—Lieut. Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Canadian commander of a British army corps, returned to Britain from North America today and brought with him new thousands of Canadian fighting men and the prediction that 1942 would be "a big year."

Lieut. Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton.

The new forces included both army and air force personnel and will swell the large dominion and home forces already in the United Kingdom, ready for whatever the year may bring.

Plans Nothing Foolhardy.

McNaughton, fresh from conferences in Ottawa, Ont., and Washington, D. C., and inspections of Canadian war industry, had this to say of 1942 when he landed:

"No appropriate opportunity to kick the other fellow [Hitler] in the back will be wasted. We are looking for it. On the other hand, there will be nothing foolhardy likely to involve needless loss of life."

When asked to comment on the demand of the British press for offensive action against Germany, McNaughton said:

"We don't win wars by sitting in defensive positions, however important they are.

"With the Canadian forces here we've had two things in front of us—to contribute the maximum of our power to help in the defense of the British Isles and to prepare ourselves for attack on the Germans abroad as soon as the proper opportunity comes."

No Premature Actions.

McNaughton said the time to strike would come, adding:

"But again there is the question of patience. It doesn't do any good to use troops prematurely. What we want is no blow struck casually, but some continuing effect on the enemy."

Of his trip to Canada and Washington, Gen. McNaughton said:

"It was an extremely valuable trip, one in which we accomplished a great deal and which should help us over here. I am sure the decisions taken will bring useful results.

"It is quite evident that the government and the people of Canada are thoroly determined that maximum support in this war against Hitler will be given."

Further forces being trained in Canada will be brought over as rapidly as shipping is available, he said.

Government of Palestine to Buy Harvest Surplus

JERUSALEM, Palestine, March 29. —With a view to insuring equitable distribution of crops from the coming Palestine harvest, the high commissioner, Sir Harold MacMichael, announced last night in a broadcast that his government had decided to take power to acquire the surplus at a fair price after leaving the farmers enough corn for their families and for planting next season. He added that the government intended to take steps to secure equitable distribution at reasonable prices of such available essentials as sugar, salt, rice, and cloth.

McGregor, Ia., March 29 [Special.]—Great flocks of robins flew over the Mississippi river north of McGregor to the banks and low hill slopes bordering the river highway during a snowstorm today. An estimated ten thousand birds were seen along a three mile stretch of the highway. Arthur Palas, former president of the Iowa ornithologist union, said robins migrating north ordinarily go in small flocks but the snowstorm of Saturday and Sunday evidently had driven them to shelter.

MANDEL BROTHERS

SOLDIER DEATHS AT PEARL HARBOR PLACED AT 226

396 Injured; Army Makes New List Public.

Washington, D. C., March 29 (AP).—The war department today issued its first casualty list under a new policy and disclosed the Japanese attack Dec. 7 on Pearl Harbor had taken a toll of 87 more soldiers killed in action or dead of wounds than previous reports indicated. The new list made the total of army casualties at Pearl Harbor 226 killed and 396 wounded.

The department previously had reported 168 killed, 223 wounded, and 26 missing, and had made public the names of 118 in these three classifications.

Four Listed from Illinois.

Included in the list were the names of four additional soldiers from Illinois, four from Wisconsin, and one from Michigan. Those from Illinois were Second Lieut. John L. Dains, son of L. Dains, Mount Olive; Private Leo H. Surrells, son of Roy Surrells, Urbana; Private Lawrence R. Carlson, son of Harry Carlson, Oneida, and Private Louis Dasenbrock, son of Frank D. Dasenbrock, Effingham. Included in the list were the names of Private Williard E. Fairchild, son of Mrs. Maude Fairchild, 6113 Woodlawn avenue, Chicago, and Private First Class Joseph F. Nelles, son of Martin Nelles, Woodstock, whose deaths previously had been disclosed.

The four from Wisconsin were Privates Le Roy E. Church, son of William Church, Baraboo; Arnold E. Field, son of Mrs. Clara Field, Beloit; Roderick O. Klubertanz, son of Edward Klubertanz, Sun Prairie, and Halvor E. Rogness, son of Mrs. Ruth A. Nelson, Clam Falls.

Publication Is Restricted.

The list was made public with the stipulation that newspapers might publish only the names of those who lived in the area normally served by the newspaper, in line with a statement of policy issued March 17 by the Office of Facts and Figures.

The OFF announced at that time that casualty lists would be issued "with all possible speed" with these additional restrictions: "Release will be delayed until the accuracy of the lists is well established and relatives notified, and until not giving aid or comfort to the enemy. The rank and ratings of navy officers and men will be withheld; likewise, designation of units to which army officers and men have been assigned will be withheld."

There was no indication at the navy department when its first casualty list would be issued. Navy casualties at this stage are believed to be considerably higher than the army's in view of the ships attacked at Pearl Harbor and the losses off Java.

NEW COAL STRIKE THREATENED BY 8,000 IN WALES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 29.—Britain stands to lose 50,000 tons of coal a week if 8,000 miners in North Wales go on strike, as they threaten. The men have filed notice that they will walk out next Saturday unless 27 workers who were dismissed are reinstated. Since the dismissal of the men, the output has dropped 4,000 tons a week. Blackhall colliery strikers [Durham] at a mass meeting tonight rejected a government appeal to resume work tomorrow.

INJURED CHILD IMPROVING.

The condition of Daisy Smith, 7 years old, 2283 Clybourn avenue, critically burned Saturday when her dress was set on fire by a flaming piece of wax paper held in the hand of her brother, Kenneth, 4, was reported improving yesterday in County hospital.

War Casualties

Henry G. Gansz Jr. (left), reported killed in action, and Gerald E. Fenchel, missing in action.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Gansz, 5831 Winthrop avenue, were notified yesterday that their son, Henry Jr., 24 years old, had been killed in action in the Philippines on March 25. Young Gansz entered the army in June last year and was last heard from in Honolulu last November, when he was a private, first class.

Young Gansz was a graduate of Senn High school and attended the University of Illinois two years. He was widely known in high school circles as a football and basketball player. He operated a gasoline station on the north side before induction. Memorial services are being planned at the Edgewater Presbyterian church, of which he was a member.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Fenchel, 6225 North Artesian avenue, have been notified by the navy that their son, Gerald Erwin Fenchel, 19, is missing in action. He also was a Senn student and was a seaman, first class, with the Asiatic fleet. He had been in the navy nearly four years.

BRITAIN STEPS UP SCALE OF NIGHT AND DAY BOMBING

LONDON, March 29 (AP). — RAF planes swept across the hazy English channel today in their mounting spring offensive, following a night in which Luebeck, the most important German port in the western Baltic sea, was subjected to heavy attack. There were no immediate reports of results achieved in the daylight thrust against German-held France.

Fires were left burning last night at Luebeck by the strong force of bombers. The German radio acknowledged the raid, claiming no military damage was done and said that only "houses in the residential districts" were hit. Other bombers attacked airdromes and other objectives in German-occupied territory during the night. Twelve RAF bombers were lost.

Luebeck handles most of the German trade with Sweden, including the high grade iron ore and wood pulp sorely needed for the German military machine. It also is used as a base for dispatching supplies to Norway and the extreme northern Russian front. RAF flyers said they destroyed huge military stores assembled there by the Nazis for dispatch to the Russian front.

Bag 7 Planes Over Channel.

BERLIN, March 29 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The high command said today that "on the channel coast German fighter aircraft shot down seven fighters of an enemy formation."

TWO RAIL BRIDGES SET AFIRE; POLICE HUNT SABOTEURS

El Centro, Cal., March 29 (AP).—Two bridges on the Southern Pacific's main line, 30 miles northeast, were set afire and badly damaged early today. Federal agents joined local authorities in a search for saboteurs.

The two fires were sighted by the crew of the fast Argonaut, and the train, bearing about 150 passengers, was brought to a quick halt. The bridges were about 900 feet apart.

Rail officials said oil had been used to set the wooden trestles afire and that "there is no doubt that saboteurs are responsible."

'I SAW SIX JAPS COMING AND JUST SHOT 'EM'—O'HARE

Air Hero Tells How He Smashed Bombers.

against the sky. A hail of anti-aircraft fire was being thrown up from the surface craft.

Seven enemy planes had plunged into the ocean; another fled, badly crippled.

The last one came blindly on, in the face of point-blank fire. Suddenly it disintegrated, with the debris scattering into the water. Bombs had been dropped within 50 yards of the target. A disaster had been averted.

Two Yanks Shot Down.

Two Americans had also been shot down by the tail-turret guns of the enemy; one was dead, one had been hit nearly 30 times but had parachuted to safety and would survive. The engagement had lasted only about 10 minutes.

"O'Hare's division of two planes finally got a chance to go up," his commander said, "but the fight was over. The other fighters came down for more fuel and ammunition."

It was then that the second wave of nine Japanese bombers came roaring in from the clouds. O'Hare and his wingman saw them coming, 12 miles away.

Trying Out His Guns.

At that moment O'Hare's companion, trying out his guns, discovered to his dismay that they weren't functioning. He signaled and started for the ship. O'Hare saw him go, saw the heavy planes closing in in a formation of three "Vs" of three bombers each. His tiny fighter sat alone in the sky, the only barrier. His first action was approaching at 200 knots.

"O'Hare knew what to do," Thach said. "He knew the technicalities of a unique method of attack we'd worked out. He knew his part in the team—only this time he was the team. O'Hare, you tell 'em."

Lieut. O'Hare looked troubled.

"Well," he said slowly, trying to remember that moment, "on our first pass at 'em, two dropped out—"

"Our. He means the team's." Thach interjected.

"Well," O'Hare said, "there wasn't much to do but shoot 'em. I'd shoot one and then pull out of the way for him to drop clear, and then get back into position and go for the next one.

Just Careful Timing.

"It was just careful timing. The first two were in the right after-end of the V. They were shooting back. You've got to keep moving. When you're sitting, you've got to get out of the way—the longer you sit, the better the chance you've got to get hit."

Thus it was O'Hare versus the bombers, with O'Hare sitting on their tails, guns thundering. One by one the enemy screamed out of formation, trailing flames toward the sea. First there had been nine, then eight, then seven little Japanese, and then there were six.

"There wasn't any time to look back at 'them crashing," O'Hare recalled. "The fight was getting closer to the carrier. I thought I'd lost my voice, because I couldn't hear my voice when I yelled, but it was just the noise of the engines and guns. I stuck my head in the cockpit and screamed, and it was all right."

By this time his commander's division had managed to refuel and take off again, and they came streaking to reinforce the O'Hare team. When they arrived, only four bombers were left and O'Hare had just crippled one of these; Thach polished that one off. But O'Hare had been hard on Japanese morale and the survivors were frantically running for home. The fight was suddenly over.

"I guess it all lasted about five minutes," O'Hare said.

What did he want most when he'd landed his plane on the carrier? A drink of water. He was streaming perspiration.

"He kept yelling that he wanted to go up again," Commander Thach said, "but there weren't any Japanese left."

Ferry U. S. Made Fighters, British Bombers to Turkey

New York, March 29 (AP).—Turkish pilots have ferried British Blenheim bombers and American Tomahawk fighters from British bases in the near east to Turkey, the BBC reported today in a broadcast heard by CBS. The planes, which the British radio said "will considerably strengthen the Turkish air force," made a flight in formation over Ankara, the Turkish capital.

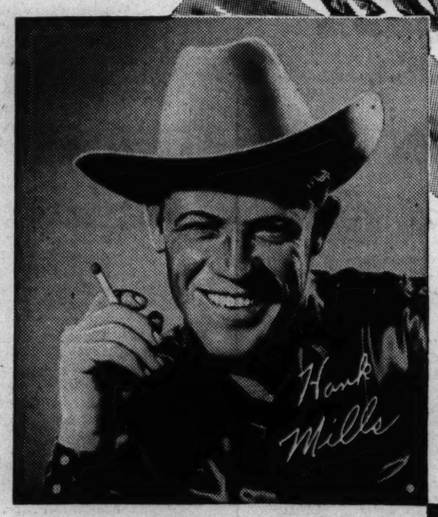
"AFTER A REAL TOUGH RIDE, believe me, nothing hits the spot like a Camel," says Steer-Riding Champion Gene Rambo (right). "That full, rich flavor is great—and no matter how much I smoke, Camels always taste swell. What's more, the extra smoking in Camels is mighty welcome economy."



"LESS NICOTINE in the smoke makes good horse sense to me," explains Bareback Bronc ace Hank Mills (left). "Camels have the mildness that counts. They've got the flavor, too." Everywhere you go, it's the same—for extra mildness, coolness, and flavor, there's nothing like a Camel—America's favorite.

CITIZEN SOLDIERS OF MOST STATES ENTITLED TO VOTE

Law to Poll Men in Field Held Unworkable.

[Following is the second of a series of articles on the problem of voting by men in the armed services now away from home.]

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 29.—All states guard against military influences by providing that members of the regular army and other armed forces stationed therein do not acquire residence thereby, or the right to vote.

But under the laws of most of the states, citizen soldiers possess the privilege of voting in the elections of their own states while they are stationed in other states. While in the field or training in camps in other states, soldiers will vote in most cases by mail. They will make individual application for absentee ballots and will mail their ballots individually. In many cases a good deal of red tape is involved in this process.

Illinois Provides Field Polls.

Illinois is one of the few states that have provided for the casting of ballots at regular polling places in the field.

The Illinois law provides that "any qualified elector" absent from the county on business is permitted to vote. For taking the vote of soldiers in the field there is a special provision. Says the Illinois law:

"Qualified electors of this state, enlisted in companies or regiments organized in this state and absent from their election precincts on the day prescribed by law for the holding of any general election because engaged in the actual military service of the state or of the United States, shall be entitled to vote for all state officers and on all state-wide questions in any such election."

As United States senators and representatives are state officers, Illinois troops in the field will be allowed to vote in the 1942 congressional election.

How Ballots Are Cast.

"The qualified electors of any such company or regiment shall vote as a group or unit. . . . The commanding officer of any such company or regiment shall, in his discretion, fix the number of polling places for any such election."

This law was enacted in 1917, but according to a report to the Illinois attorney general, George F. Barrett, by Assistant Attorney General Albert E. Hallett Jr., the act was not invoked for the elections of 1918 or at any other time. Application of the act this time is even less feasible than during the first World war, for the reason that Illinois conscripts are not being organized into Illinois companies and regiments. To a very large extent they lose their state identity after reaching the training camps.

Must be Registered.

Illinois citizen soldiers, however, will be able to vote individually under the absentee voting act, provided they were registered when they went into service. The only provision of Illinois law for absentee registration is in the act of 1865 and applies to local elections only.

After reviewing Illinois laws applying to the congressional and other general elections, Hallett said in his report:

"In conclusion, it appears that, for all practical purposes, only persons who have registered personally in their respective election districts may vote by absentee ballots.

"Such registered persons should apply by mail to their respective officials for absentee ballots not more than 30 days nor less than 5 days prior to the election.

"Those persons who have not yet registered, but who will be of age prior to the next election, should register when home on furlough at least 30 days before the next election so they will be able to obtain absentee ballots when the time comes."

[Recently Judge Francis B. Allegretti of the Superior court of Cook county ruled that a state act of 1919 exempting Illinois service men out of the state from registration requirements was still in effect. Thereupon County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki ruled that in such Cook county cases voting will be permitted by affidavit.]

Indiana and Iowa Laws.

Indiana soldiers will be permitted to vote by mail under the general absentee voting provisions of the state law which applies to "qualified voters absent on business." Absentee registration is not permitted, but registration need not be renewed.

The Iowa legislature recently passed a law providing specifically for the soldier vote in the 1942 elections—both the primary election in June and the general election in November. The law provides that any citizen of Iowa, in the military and naval service of the United States, may apply to the county auditor for an absentee ballot not more than 30 days before the election. The affidavit of an absent voter constitutes registration.

Michigan Provisions.

The Michigan law provides that "no qualified elector in the actual military service of the United States or of this state, or in the army or navy thereof . . . or any regularly enrolled members of a citizens military or naval training camp, held under the authority of the government of the United States or the state of Michigan . . . shall be deprived of a vote by reason of absence from the township, ward or state in which he or she resides."

There is a specific provision that persons absent in military service may vote under a general absent voting law. Absent registration also is permitted. The provisions apply to primary as well as general elections.

Wisconsin, Minnesota, Ohio.

Wisconsin has a general absentee voting law under which citizen soldiers of that state will be permitted to cast their ballots by mail in general and also in primary elections. Absentee registration also is provided for.

Minnesota provides for recording the soldier vote by mail under the general absentee voting statute and permit absentee registration.

Ohio recently clarified its legislation by specifically authorizing absentee voting by all citizens of the state in the military or naval service. Registration by mail also is permitted.

Friend of the Yanks

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and personally if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries. Persons are asked to keep their letters short because of the volume of mail.]

CIVILIAN JOBS WITH THE WAR DEPARTMENT.

Each day's mail brings letters from men, barred from active military service because of their age or some other reason, who seek some war industry job where they will be of service to their country. These men will be interested in the following announcement by the war department:

"Men and women are being trained as overhaul and repair mechanics, production workers, and inspectors at government owned factories, arsenals, and depots. This training qualifies them to fill war department civilian jobs."

CHANCE FOR PROMOTIONS.

Training is given in government and state-owned schools. Applicants interested in mechanics are enrolled as 16 weeks "mechanic learners" and upon completing a training course of 15 weeks to 16 weeks are placed in active employment as mechanics' helpers. Those with ability are shifted from job to job to round out their knowledge and to become eligible for promotions.

Men and women also are trained as procurement inspectors, for whom there are a great need. At present, civilian trainees of this type are being assigned only to the ordnance department, but they are to be assigned to the signal corps and to the air corps later.

In the ordnance department, men and women are trained to qualify as junior optical workers, junior instrument makers, junior lense grinders, apprentice machinist and toolmakers, machine operators, senior clerks, auto mechanics, inspector of gauges, storekeepers, engineering aids, and armament machinists.

Age Limits Set Forth.

To be eligible for training, men must be over 44 years of age or between 17 and 20—outside the present age limits of selective service—or not eligible for military service for some other reason. Women over 18 years of age are eligible. In most instances, the only other qualification is ability to pass a mechanical aptitude test, which requires no technical knowledge and is designed to weed out those obviously unfit. Procurement inspectors must be high school graduates.

Applications for training may be made to any local office of the United States Civil Service commission.

[Tomorrow: Arms and Services of the Army.]

QUESTIONS.

C. S. asks: "What are the educational requirements for entering training for a commission in the navy? Can high school graduates qualify?"

ANSWER: To qualify for midshipman training in the naval reserve, leading to an ensign commission, a candidate must be a university or college graduate. Naval aviation cadets must have at least two years of college education. High school graduates could receive training for naval commissions only by being appointed to the naval academy at Annapolis.

"A Reader" writes: "My husband's classification is 4-F. He is a parolee, having been released from a state prison a year ago. Will he be reclassified to 1-A."

ANSWER: He may be reclassified if his local draft board believes him to be a good moral risk and if he is able to obtain formal suspension of his parole. This is provided he was not convicted of a heinous crime [murder, rape, kidnaping, arson, etc.] or two or more felonies. In the case of a man convicted of two or more felonies, a local draft board's decision must be concurred in by the secretary of war. Men convicted of heinous crimes are barred absolutely from military service.

S. R. writes: "I am an alien from a neutral country and therefore eligible to be drafted under the selective service act. However, I am going to claim exemption because of my alien status because, altho I am acceptable as a private, I am refused the opportunity to qualify for a commission because I am not a citizen. How do I claim an exemption?"

ANSWER: You have the right to claim exemption by filing a form No. 301 with your local draft board. However, if you file such a form, you forever relinquish your right to become a citizen.

CONGRESS URGED TO PROTECT VOTE FOR SERVICE MEN

Chicagoan Seeks Action Before Elections.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 29.—A resolution by congress urging the states to take appropriate measures to protect the voting rights of men in the armed forces was asked today in a letter to congressional leaders from Attorney Urban A. Lavery of Chicago, who recently won a court order protecting the vote of fighting men from Illinois.

Urban A. Lavery.

It is understood that Rep. James M. Barnes [D., Ill.] already has made plans to introduce a resolution for this purpose and to speak on it in the house.

Refers to Tribune Editorial.

Lavery referred to a CHICAGO TRIBUNE editorial of March 4, urging protection of soldier votes, in writing to Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn, Rep. Patrick H. Drewry [D., Va.], chairman of the Democratic congressional campaign committee, and Rep. J. William Ditter [R., N. Y.], chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee. He sent them a copy of the editorial.

"In Illinois we have a state-wide primary on April 14, at which candidates for congress [among other offices] will be nominated," Lavery wrote. "Some weeks ago it became apparent that the right of 50,000 to 70,000 Illinois men to vote was being jeopardized, because they were away from home in the armed forces and therefore could not appear for personal registration.

Sees Problems Elsewhere.

"We were successful in getting a court order which, in effect, exempts men in service from the rigid requirements of personal registration.

"It seems likely that there are many other states in which similar problems may arise in connection with soldiers voting at the approaching November election," Lavery continued. "There will probably be more than 2 million men under arms at that time and therefore removed from their homes and from the usual opportunity to voting.

"The purpose of this letter is to focus public attention on this important issue in apt time, and before it is too late. It may be necessary in some states to call special sessions of the legislature to achieve what we in Illinois have done.

Urges Congressional Action.

"The congress of the United States, altho vitally interested, cannot take direct action to cure these matters, which are lodged with the individual states. But if the congress were to take cognizance of this threatened disfranchisement of the men under arms [for that is what it amounts to] and, say, by resolution urge state action, it seems likely that an aroused public opinion would force the necessary local steps to be taken to remedy the situation in each state. If that should be done the various states would merely be following a precedent which was first established in the Civil war, and was later followed in World War I."

Lavery enclosed a proposed draft of such a resolution, and, recalling that he had served for some years as attorney for the Chicago election commissioners offered his services to congress in this matter.

ROBBERY STORY LEADS TO CELL AND CONFESSION

Gillitte McCoy, 29 years old, 4755 Lake Park avenue, assistant manager of a service station at 5701 Cottage Grove avenue, was in a cell at the Hyde Park police station yesterday because Sergt. James Brady thought he ought to have some bump or injury on his head if he had been struck with the butt end of a revolver as he related.

Sergt. Brady and Policeman Louis Schillig listened to McCoy's story of a robbery in which he said two Negroes seized him and knocked him unconscious with a blow from the gun one of them carried. When he recovered consciousness, McCoy said, $80 was missing from the safe.

When the sergeant asked to see the injury to his head, McCoy began to stammer and finally confessed he had taken the money after he had gambled away his own. He had intended to recoup his losses and return the money, he said. McCoy added he had been drinking.

WAITER IS SHOT DURING SCUFFLE IN A DINING CAR

A Negro waiter on the Illinois Central railroad's Florida bound Seminole limited was critically wounded in a mysterious shooting early yesterday shortly after the train had passed 63d street. The victim was removed from the train at Kankakee and placed in a hospital. The man who did the shooting was locked up by L. B. Rogers, chief of the Kankakee police. The man accused of the shooting is Olls McCampbell, 29 years old, of Fulton, Ky., a Negro waiter. The wounded man is Carl Hunter, 19, of Memphis, Tenn. Chief G. F. Doyle of the railroad's special police said that McCampbell boarded the train at 63d street with a gun in his pocket. There was a scuffle among the crew of the dining car, an extra car that was not in service at the time. Hunter, who was not involved in the scuffle, was shot when the gun was discharged. Chief Doyle said the shooting was accidental.

SICK DEFENDANT AGAIN TO DELAY ABORTION TRIAL

Mrs. Ada Mortin, accused as the head of an abortion ring and whose trial on a charge of conspiracy was halted last Friday when she suffered a heart attack in the Criminal court of Judge John F. Haas, will be unable to appear today for the resumption of her trial, her physician, Dr. Victor S. Frankenstein, announced yesterday. She is under treatment in Woodlawn hospital. Her attorney, William W. Smith, said he would ask a further postponement of the trial or its dismissal.

Of tenderloins and tender memories!

WHEN it comes to word-of-mouth advertising, we've been blessed with kind words from countless mouths about the steak we serve on the 20th Century Limited.

Rather a trifling matter to concern a railroad? Not at all! To many travelers the memory of this single platter has become a symbol of the whole tradition of Century travel—a tradition of personal luxury and personal service par excellence.

Seldom has the pressure on important men been so heavy as today and seldom, therefore, has the Century's restful overnight vacation meant so much. Perhaps that is why an increasing number of executives this year are proving by their presence that "it pays to ride the Century!"

THE DUTY OF NEWSPAPERS.

The editorial which follows was first published in THE TRIBUNE of Oct. 3, 1861, a little less than half a year after the beginning of the Civil war. At that time, as now, THE TRIBUNE was persuaded that incompetence in Washington and in the field was imperiling the nation's future. At that time, as now, THE TRIBUNE dared to speak the truth and risk the consequences. We cannot formulate the reasons for our choice today with greater force than they were stated more than 80 years ago in this, one of the classics of American journalism:

The country is engaged in a war upon which hang momentous consequences, not alone to our government considered as an impersonation of the nation's dignity and honor but to every man, woman, and child living beneath our country's flag. It is a war for national existence, and for individual freedom, and prosperity, and happiness. It comes home to every man's hearth; it touches him nearly in all the relations of life, is a part of his daily thoughts and his secret prayers. For the time it is the universal business.

Our interest in it is not less than our neighbor's. Our feelings are as vitally concerned, our property is as seriously imperiled by want of success now, or complete failure by and by. But we cannot regard it alone from an individual and selfish standpoint. We have duties to the public which we must discharge.

By their own assumptions, or by quasi-popular consent, leading and influential journals like our own are in some sort regarded as watchmen on the walls, to look for approach of danger toward what their readers hold dear. They have had thrust upon them the duty, not always pleasant, of acting as conservators of the public good, often at the expense of their private interests. Men look to them not only for facts but for opinions. They do not often create, but they shape and give direction to public sentiment. They are the narrators of facts, the exponents of policy, the enemies of wrong.

Their office, in time of war, is not a whit less responsible, tho infinitely more delicate, than in a period of peace. They deal with excited opinion, with passions painfully aroused, and with fears that know no reason. Their duties are quadrupled and their liabilities to the public indefinitely magnified. On that account they should not shrink from the responsibilities of their position. As dangers thicken, their courage should rise to meet them. To avoid expression of what high public interests demand, because of probable offense to this class or that or because of prospective loss of peace, would be to cowardly abandon duty and float with the current for safety.

We need not say that THE TRIBUNE, whatever its other faults, has not that of timidity. We are not of those who believe that, because the country is in danger and all private interests are threatened, or because military power overrides the civil law, it is the province of journalism of the better sort to keep silence when incompetency undertakes the management of public affairs, or hold its peace when unblushing rascality under the guise of patriotism is doing its deadly work.

We know of no reason that exempts the military man from criticism and, if necessary, vigorous denunciation, that does not apply to the civil servant in public life. There is nothing specially sacred in epaulets tho worn by a popular idol. On the contrary, we hold it to be a duty to denounce all who stand in the way of the triumph of the good cause, and it matters little to us whether those who impede it are of our own faith and party or belong avowedly to the enemy. The safety and the honor of the country are at stake, and the peril is greater today from certain of our friends than from Beauregard and Davis.

It would be as recreant and cowardly not to speak out plainly as on the field of battle to refuse to fire at the foe. The country, we say, is in danger. Its salvation is the first duty of every man who loves it. Parties, private interests, personal safety are nothing when they stand in the way of the one grand object to be accomplished. We know our duty in the emergency and intend honestly and fearlessly to do it.

We know what the peril is which attaches to plain talking. We know that our personal interests would be better served oftentimes by silence than by honest speech. We know that thrift follows fawning. But, at the same time, we know how wholly and devotedly we love this republic and its institutions, and how ready we are to do anything or brave anything so that we can most effectually serve them.

We make no claim to infallibility. Error is as common to us as to others, but in what we say and do, in this woeful crisis, we profess to be animated by motives as unselfish and by patriotism as pure as belong to men anywhere.

We bid our contemporaries, then, who would rather be victorious over THE TRIBUNE than over Jeff Davis, howl on. We have had the whole of them on our track in times before now and know just the sound of their bark and the danger from their bite. We go our own way, at our own time, in our own manner, in company of our own choosing, knowing as we do that vindication will be sure to follow. We can afford to be honest, and fearless, and to wait.

HOUSE OF LORDS.

The reform of the house of lords is reported under consideration by a committee of ministers in the British government. They are working on a plan to substitute ability for birth as the qualification for membership. Of the 768 members of the present house, 708 have a right to share in the lawmaking process for no better reason than that they are the sons of their fathers. In the reformed house, there would be no hereditary seats. Instead, leadership in the churches, the labor movement, business, the arts, and the sciences would be recognized.

This arrangement is more than a little reminiscent of Mussolini's corporative state but even so the plan should offer a distinct improvement. The institution of gilded loafers is a burden too heavy for the British people to carry any longer. They have seen their army, dominated by the aristocracy, defeated on almost every battle field of this war. Probably no great share of the blame rests directly upon the house of lords considered strictly as a legislative body. As Gilbert wrote of an earlier day:

When Wellington thrashed Bonaparte
As every child can tell,
The house of peers thruout the war
Did nothing in particular
And did it very well.

But now, as then, the house of lords does symbolize the aristocracy and as long as the house is constituted according to the traditional plan the influence of the aristocracy in the government of Britain and the empire is bound to be far greater than is wholesome. If the British nation is to continue to exist and to play an important part in the modern world it had better divest itself of its medieval trappings and become a representative democracy.

The only present value of the lords to Britain lies in the attraction they exert upon America's seacoast millionaires, and upon some of our state department's functionaries. The American people are getting heartily tired of that and will bless the day when the British people achieve the belated reform.

THE ROLE OF LITTLE BUSINESS.

All the factories in the country number 184,230. Of these more than half employ fewer than 21 persons. If we call 100 employés the dividing line between little and big factories, we find that the little ones turn out 17 billion dollars' worth of goods a year, or nearly a third of all our manufactures. They pay out in a year about 2½ billion dollars in wages. The little fellows employ about ⅓ of all factory workers. A very considerable amount of our food, furniture, and clothing comes from little factories. Being small, they are more flexible than the larger concerns. You can't beat a large factory for turning out a standardized product, nor a little one for variety. We need the little plant for quick adjustment and progress. In the depression, while some of the business giants were shutting down or going busted, some of their smaller competitors were operating at capacity and were prosperous.

Control of the little concern is not in Wall street, and ownership is not widely distributed among tens or hundreds of thousands of stockholders. The typical small business is owned by one man or a small group. If it is blotted out the loss is crushing to a single individual or the few who generally have all their means tied up in it.

Arthur C. Weick of the division of industry operations of the War Production board, speaking at a convention in Atlantic City last week, gave some advice to the little factory owner, who is having difficulty getting materials at present. His advice was: "Get out of business before you lose your money." He declared that this war will force many small enterprises to liquidate, and the thing to do is to get out of business while the getting is good.

He said that "the price of victory includes some casualties," and added that "winning the war is more important than spreading the burden equitably." Last summer another spokesman for the war production organization said that the "total effect of our defense effort may well be to obliterate the smaller business enterprises from the American scene."

The little business man is much too important as a producer of the things which are needed to be sacrificed as is desired by some of the men who are running things at Washington. Must the lifetime investment of the little manufacturer be destroyed because some burocrats and dollar a year tycoons have decided that it isn't worth while enabling them to live? The New York Journal of Commerce recently concluded after a study on the basis of British experience that in the United States a lot more remains to be done in converting smaller plants to war work. Most plants which cannot be converted can probably be adapted to turning out goods for civilians without using strategic materials.

The Office of Price Administration concerns itself with cutting down and rationing, but never with increasing production of goods to be sold to consumers. The simplest way to keep down prices is to increase production. If war production is exclusively big business, as Mr. Weick says, then civilian supply becomes the task of little business.

WHY FURNITURE?

The proposed purchase by the government of furniture for the homes of defense workers has been attacked by Congressman Holmes of Massachusetts as boondoggling. Mr. Holmes asked for further investigation of newspaper reports that the defense housing project intends to spend 136 million dollars out of 300 millions appropriated for home building on furniture for 90,000 defense homes. That is at the rate of more than $1,500 a home and should provide pretty good furniture.

Regardless of the right of housing authorities to buy furniture, which Mr. Holmes questioned on apparently sound grounds, the whole project seems to involve a curious concept of the nature of the defense worker. Apparently he has a family, since he needs a home in proximity to his employment, but evidently he and his family have been keeping house on packing boxes and orange crates. Just why men working in defense plants should have any less furniture or any more need of new furniture than any one else in the country is incomprehensible.

Editorial of the Day

"DEBASED METALS."
[Baltimore Evening Sun.]

The War Production board sends out an urgent appeal to the public to further its salvage program. Are there any rags in your attic? Collect them and save them. Do not burn paper and cardboard in your incinerator. Bale them and preserve them.

Gather together used toothpaste tubes, shaving cream tubes, tin cans, scraps of iron and copper and nickel and aluminum. They are all critical materials. So is rubber, of course.

But the War Production board, for your instruction and convenience, publishes also a short list of materials—24 in number—of which there are plenty and about whose saving we do not have to worry. And prominent among them are gold and silver!

Gold and silver cannot be fashioned into shells, airplane parts, machine guns or tanks. Gold is no longer used as legal tender and silver is so used only to a limited extent. Gold continues to be used for jewelry and for filling teeth and silver for candlesticks, fruit spoons, and butter knives.

Who would have imagined that we would live to see the day when gold and silver would be of minor account? Their appearance among the nonessentials gives us some idea of how far and how fast we have gone.

DEAR OLD NEW GUINEA.

A radio reporter, speaking from Sydney, pleased us recently by announcing that the Japanese invaders of New Guinea, advancing toward Port Moresby, would probably be bushwhacked by the fiercest cannibals in the world. He gave the maneaters their tribal name, which was slightly bloodcurdling. We remembered, with a fiendish chuckle, that 15 years ago we put these savages into a story of adventure, and nobody believed it because cannibals are supposed to exist only in comic weeklies, and furthermore, we had never been in New Guinea to make a personal test of the natives' dietetic habits.

* * *

New Guinea is one of the hottest news values on the highly inflamed map of the world at present because of its strategic position, but not much of its lore has trickled into the press. It is the last haunt of Melanesian savagery, and its colonization by the Dutch, Germans, and Australians has been merely coastal nibbling. Its vast interior is the heart of stone-age darkness.

* * *

The Field museum, no doubt, contains a fairly rich collection of New Guinea curiosities, for anthropologists have found the Papuan field a happy hunting ground. Photographs of some of these objects may come in handy a few months hence, when we hear that American marines are motorboating up the Fly river and have the situation well in hand.

* * *

The bird that used to perch on Nelly's hat, in the bad old days of ornithological millinery, was a bird of paradise—if Nelly's gentleman friend was generous. The home of that bird was New Guinea, for these feathered jewels are only found there and on adjacent Papuan Islands such as the Arus, 70 miles off the coast. The great bird of paradise, also called the king bird, finest of them all, dwells on the Arus, and his plumage went to market at Amboina, in the Moluccas, recently seized by the Japanese.

MacARTHUR'S RIDE.

Thru all the years that men have followed men,
Our heroes have come riding, like the wind.
The man on horseback had the strength of ten
And many more, when ranks of battle thinned.
Too late famed Roland wound his horn at Roncevaux,
And Richard's kingdom for a nail was lost;
But Paul Revere gave timely word of foe,

Our hero's horse has borrowed eagle's wing;
Our Douglas, sweeping boldly thru the air,
Has marshaled men to hear our warbird sing,
And drive the fierce invader to his lair.
Once more the hero rides to make men free,
And hearts of war-spent men hail Victory!

Among Those Who Toil at Midnight.

Late theatergoers know them as the "midnight stenogs," and if you have ever lingered within the loop at the witching hour, then you, too, have seen them gathered on the corners in groups, carrying magazines and newspapers, giggling like schoolgirls and bidding each other a score of good-bys. They are the office building scrubwomen.

They have fun at their hard jobs because they are a happy lot, Slavs for the most part, who can be gay, moody, or patriotic as fast as you can read this. They work to buy a building in Avondale, or Brighton Park, or any place, and when the house is paid for they send their sons to a medical or law school. Every good Polish, Lithuanian, Russian, or Slavish family has a doctor, lawyer, or dentist that they can boast of and recommend.

These midnight toilers have extra-special holidays: Christmas and Easter. Ah! Easter—that's the great one. They plan for it thru the Lenten season. There is Polish sausage to be made and seasoned with marjoram and a touch of garlic. There is fresh horseradish to be made, with the proper mixture of hard-boiled egg yolk. A ham must be bought, and eggs, and a fat goose; the paschal lambs must be made, some of butter, others of cake and aspic. Then Easter morn arrives and they start the day by going to church.

Home again, and breakfast is begun with eating a slice of dark bread with a smear of flaxseed oil. This is to denote that they understand the meaning of poverty. Two or three hours later comes the Paschal feast: the fat roasted goose; the ham covered with cloves; the vari-colored eggs; the platters of Polish sausage; toasted bun dumplings; boiled potatoes with chilled sour cream, and fried beets with chilled sour cream. And everywhere paschal lambs, some of butter, some of cake, while in the center of the table rests the largest, the aspic paschal lamb.

TO A NEW BUGLER.

Consider, brother, all the woe
You render calmly, blow by blow;
Tho all your calls sound sweet and true,
Still every Yank is cussing you.
Each night beside their bunks they pray
You'll swallow that darn horn some day;
The piece of plumbing that you toot
Is very much in disrepute.
Conserve your wind; take care to note
A bugle's no good down your throat!

Little Brown Fighting Cocks.

In Spanish-American war days the correspondents wrote from the Philippines that the chief activity of the natives was gambling on cockfighting matches, with intermissions for indulgence in feasting, fiestas, and siestas. Now the brown brothers-in-arms are fighting the slit-eyed Japs, wearing and winning their spurs instead of the roosters, without sign of showing the white feather by turning tail to the foe. All of which puts a feather in their caps.

The American navy has been holding its home-run sluggers in reserve, but the recent blasting of Wake and Marcus Islands can be scored as a two base hit.

How to Keep Well By Dr. Irving S. Cutter

VITAMIN A AIDS RECOVERY FROM STOMACH ULCER.

WHILE there are many excellent methods of healing ulcers within the stomach, none is perfect. A part of the job of the physician lies in selecting the ideal régime for each sufferer.

What will be effective with one may be useless with another.

The reason there are so many plans is because we do not know the exact "starter." We can say, however, that the lesions are far more likely to afflict those who are nervous, inclined to worry, and who take themselves or their jobs too seriously.

On the theory that there may be a vitamin deficiency which lessens the resistance of the mucous lining of the gastric pouch, experiments have been conducted with various food accessories. Much to the surprise of the research workers in this field, a number of individuals have recovered promptly with no other treatment than large doses of vitamin A. In these patients, no alkalies were administered nor were the menus restricted. The only prohibition imposed was abstinence from tobacco and alcoholic drinks.

In one series, a woman of 62, who had experienced a severe hemorrhage from the stomach, was given 120,000 international units of A daily. The preparation was continued for a short period, when X-ray films showed healing. During this interval the patient consumed regular meals.

Another case is that of a 37 year old civil engineer, who exhibited ulceration on the lower border of the gastric pouch. The Sippy diet—with alkalies, belladonna, and rest in bed—failed to bring complete relief, altho some improvement was observed. Six months later he was started on 180,000 international units of A per day. In five weeks, X-rays showed marked repair. The concentrate was continued, however, and within a few months all evidence of disease had disappeared. The gastroscope revealed a firm, healthy appearing scar.

Under this type of management all the subjects reported abatement of pain and discomfort within a few days. Appetite was restored and the rapid fire emptying of the stomach ceased. In fact, the movements of the intestines were about as deliberate as under normal conditions.

But we all wish to stop ulcer formation. Since the protective action of A upon the gastric mucous lining may be of substantial aid in healing, why not use this same material as a means of preventing these lesions?

We know that food deficiencies of many sorts are followed by the loss of cells, particularly those lining the alimentary canal. Perhaps this vitamin rôle has opened the way to forestalling the creation of these crater-like excavations. At any rate, the suggestion is offered that those who are inclined to chronic digestive troubles or who seem to belong to the ulcer family may well take fair sized doses of A as a precaution. No harm seems to result from the ingestion of huge quantities.

Thus far, diets rich in A appear to be of value in warding off return ulcer engagements. Chronic victims of the disease may find that this simple regimen will turn the tables in the direction of convalescence.

TERMINOLOGY.

M. H. S. writes: I have a trigger finger. When the joint slips out of place, what is the best way to get it back?

REPLY.

Grasp the terminus of the crooked digit firmly but gently. Exert traction in the direction of the line of the deformity. As soon as the maximum tension has been reached, with a quick, deft movement, swing the phalanx into normal position.

NOSE AILMENT.

G. F. writes: I am troubled with crusts in the nostrils and some one told me I have ozena. What are the symptoms of this disease?

REPLY.

Besides crusts, there is a foul odor and dryness. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this malady.

HOW TO 'TAKE POLITICS OUT OF THE WAR'

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed, attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

HONEY MARKET REPORT.

Allegan, Mich., March 26.—I do hope you can print my apology to fellow honey users; and I hope they will accept it as I, asleep right alongside the beehives, am caught as fairly as they.

Letters have come to me from Wisconsin, Illinois, and Indiana and run the gamut from a lady who wanted 60 pounds of honey delivered to her door at 6 cents a pound to the man who wanted 600 pounds for which he was willing to pay 12 cents. The first batch was forwarded to the beeman, who produces, I believe, some 15 or 20 tons yearly and his reply is:

". . . the price of honey has gone up and there is such a demand for it that we cannot bother to ship any, especially at any low price. We are offered 14 cents a pound in truckload lots. . . . We even ration it. The price is 14 cents now but if the government sets a price it will be lower, probably."

I cannot answer all the letters I received. With the occasional help of a 15 year old boy I care for six cows, five milch goats, two handfed nanny kids, one brood sow, 240 hens, two cats, and one dog. I do some very sketchy housework. Special work just now is cleaning a 20x30 brooder house, preparing for 1,000 chicks to come March 30, and beginning to plant the vegetable garden and cold frame. My training for this was 31 years behind a Chicago office desk.

I will save the return envelopes of those who sent them [some did not inclose postage] and if the situation changes, let them know.

MARY M. SAGE.

AN OKLAHOMAN SPEAKS.

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 25.—Oklahoma has started a prairie fire that will sweep the nation by its campaign for revision of overtime payments after 40 hours. I see the labor leaders now want Oklahomans investigated. Let them come, but also let them investigate the labor racketeers who have grafted the laboring men out of hundreds of thousands of dollars for the privilege of working. There is no paid propaganda here. The people here are all incensed at the complacency of Washington and congress while we are up to this time losing the war. The only reason why Oklahomans and Texans seem more stirred up than other people is that we still have the pioneer fighting spirit, which seems to be dead in some parts of the country. Oklahoma has bought more bonds and sent more men into the service than any other state on a basis of comparative population. We are patriotic citizens and want to see the whole country stirred up. Otherwise we may lose the war.

EDMOND A. TINKHAM.

GRATITUDE TO THE NAVY.

Chicago, March 24.—Last Feb. 18 our father was stricken fatally with a heart attack while working at the Navy pier. We wish to express our feelings to a great navy for the care and courtesy extended to a civilian worker. He was brought to the navy sick bay and there made comfortable. His family was called and every courtesy extended. That could only happen in America.

ROMANO FAMILY.

IMPROVING BUS SERVICE.

Chicago, March 25.—Here are some suggestions for improvement of the Chicago Motor Coach bus service:

1. The company should be required to give the public all night bus service. All other transportation companies are required to do so, whether or not it is profitable to their company.

2. All the large buses should be manned by a motorman and conductor for the safety and convenience of the public.

3. The upper decks of the buses appear to be quite a hazard in the event of a fire as the entrance to the upper deck is also used as the exit. Another exit should be required, so that the passengers could get out with some degree of safety in the event of an emergency.

4. I understand that the Illinois Commerce commission is considering a reduction of fares for the reason that the bus company shows large profits. They could use some of the profit in making the improvements mentioned.

GEORGE E. SANKSTONE.

BUYING BONDS FOR BABY.

Chicago, March 25.—I buy a 10 cent defense stamp every time I go to the store. This has served a double purpose: I buy stamps regularly and my memory has improved amazingly.

I am saving toward my 6 month old daughter's seventh bond, but this is the first one not paid for entirely with her own money. I put all my nickels and pennies in a box, wrapping them when there are enough. In addition to this we put a dime in her bank every week plus any change I may have left from my weekly grocery budget and from the electric and gas bills every month. In this way we do not miss the money, which counts up unbelievably fast—and we are helping Uncle Sam while providing a nice bank account for our little lady when she collects on her bonds 10 years from now. I hope my ideas will give others some, too.

MRS. S. J. S.

BICYCLE THEFT INSURANCE.

Rockford, Ill., March 23.—In the article of March 23, "Bicycle Locks," by Mr. Oscar Taman, your readers are given the impression that bicycles unequipped with locks cannot be insured at any rate. Insurance may be had on locked or unlocked bicycles under the "personal property floater" or the "all in one" policy.

J. P. HOFFMAN.

A BETTER USE FOR MONEY.

Chicago, March 26.—The city fathers are all steamed up about Congress street, which will cost millions and benefit few. Chicago is branching out north and south, not west. Why not take some of this money and resurface the bridge and viaduct on South Pulaski road from 36th street to 40th street? It is only a half mile long, but it needs a new top, not a lot of patchwork. The state highway department paved it all the way south to the foot of the viaduct. There are at least two or three machines a week with flat tires on the bridge. I saw three Surface Lines buses on the bridge with blowouts.

ED SLATTERY.

PROTEST AGAINST PROTESTS.

Camp Robinson, Ark., March 25.—May I, as a soldier, protest against all these un-American protests against ration cards? We boys in the armed service have given up a few things, but we are not protesting about it.

It seems to me that you civilians could put your slight personal discomforts into the background and put your shoulders to the wheel, in unison with us, for there's a big job to be done.

DEFICIENCY JUDGMENT.

Chicago, March 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is it true that when a deficiency judgment is not renewed within seven years [2] it is dead?

3. Can it be revived at any time?

4. Does the judgment holder notify you?

5. Is it necessary to have date and court name to get any information about a judgment?

6. Can you have title to property in another county in same state without fear of an old deficiency judgment placed against it?

A. O.

1. In seven years the lien expires and the judgment becomes dormant.
2. No.
3. Yes, subject to an ultimate limitation period of 20 years.
4. The revival at the end of the seven years would involve service of a scl. fa. which would be similar to a summons.
5. No, in the sense that without this information you might not be able to find the case in the index in the clerk's office.
6. By appropriate steps the judgment creditor could subject such assets to the judgment, if that is what you mean to ask.

TROOPS ABROAD TO HEAR MORE U. S. AIR SHOWS

16 Performances Weekly Will Be Broadcast.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Two months ago Bing Crosby received word thru the war department that Gen. Douglas MacArthur had asked, in behalf of his men, that his radio broadcast be shortwaved to Bataan. Crosby and his company complied. Later word was received from the Philippines that the program had been received and enjoyed by the men stationed there.

From this appeal and others received from other forces abroad has grown an extensive program to provide American entertainment for American expeditionary forces. Many of the networks' most popular programs, particularly the comedy shows, now are regularly recorded and beamed to the far corners of the earth at hours more suitable for reception than when originally broadcast.

On top of this the radio branch of the war department, after presenting several test programs, is making arrangements for 16 once a week "command performances" to be beamed to American forces wherever they may be stationed. The biggest figures in radio and on the stage and the screen are volunteering their services for these shows.

Vick Knight, who has been directing the Fred Allen show, has been released from his contract, to produce these command performances. These shows are usually presented and recorded following some regular studio show on the broadcasting channels. Thus the orchestra, engineers, sound effects, and setups are available.

Last week following the Fred Allen show the studio guests were treated to watching the making of one of the service shows. These productions are in the main unrehearsed and have considerable spontaneity in them. The recordings are sent to the 16 American short wave stations. Then, on Sundays they are beamed toward American bases abroad at 12 different periods.

All services are donated. As the series progresses, stars are to be approached by a service man with a "summons" in the form of a letter from a member of the armed forces. The letter will contain a request for a specific song, or bit of entertainment in which he specializes.

The four productions sent out have met with resounding applause, the war department reported. Among those who have contributed to these shows are Fred Allen, Eddie Cantor, Kate Smith, Fred Waring, Don Dunphy, Madeleine Carroll, Tallulah Bankhead, Barry Wood, and scores of others. Knight leaves today for Hollywood where the next shows are to be put together.

SPECIALISTS PREVENT BALDNESS

CHICAGO, Mar. 30—"If you are losing your hair or have an annoying scalp disorder, you can be helped," says John E. Warner, noted scalp specialist. "By correcting and eliminating the cause of your trouble we can prevent baldness and give you a normal, healthy scalp. Our services are NOT offered to those completely bald (except cases of alopecia areata) because hair once lost cannot be regrown. Don't wait until disfiguring baldness has permanently ruined your appearance. If your head itches, or your hair is excessively dry or oily and falling, take heed of these signs of approaching baldness and come in for a free hair and scalp examination today. No case is ever accepted unless we are sure you can be helped. Our scientific treatment is superior and more effective because of constant research and study; yet the fees are within the reach of all. Come in today and learn how we can help you just as thousands of others, troubled as you are, have been helped."

There is no charge or obligation for a scalp examination and consultation. Examination and treatment are given in strictest privacy. FEES FOR TREATMENT ARE VERY MODERATE AND ARE PAYABLE AS THE TREATMENTS ARE TAKEN—NOT IN ADVANCE. Hours 10 A. M. to 8 P. M. daily, Saturdays to 6 P. M.

Milk Mixture for Stomach Ulcer Pains

A recent medical discovery now being used by doctors and hospitals everywhere has proven unusually successful in the treatment of stomach ulcer pains caused from excess acid. It is a harmless preparation yet so effective that in many cases the pains of stomach ulcers disappear almost immediately after it is used. Also recommended for gas pains, indigestion and heartburn due to hyperacidity. Sufferers may now try this at home by obtaining a bottle of Lurin from their druggist. Lurin contains this new discovery in its purest form. Easy to take. Just mix two teaspoonfuls in a half glass of milk. Costs but little. Try a bottle, it must satisfy or money refunded. Lurin for sale by Walgreen, Stineway, and drug stores everywhere.

TYDINGS CALLS F. D. R. BARRIER TO NEW LABOR LAW

Asserts Nation Demands Change in Practice.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 29.—Broadsides of criticism were fired against the administration today for its maneuvering to stop enactment of labor legislation intended to speed up war production.

Sen. Millard Tydings [top] and Rep. Clare Hoffman.

Sen. Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.] and Rep. Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.] sharply attacked the move as administration leaders put the house on an informal two weeks recess to cool off demands for prompt enactment of legislation to eliminate strikes, suspend the closed shop, and eliminate overtime pay for the duration of the war.

House Indicates Trend.

The temper of the house was reflected yesterday when it promptly adopted without debate an amendment to a war department appropriation bill which limits profits to 6 per cent on any contracts financed by the 18 billion dollars in army funds voted. War profits regulation generally has been associated with proposals for curbs on labor and both are embodied in the pending Smith-Vinson bill before the house naval affairs committee.

Tydings said in a radio address today that people thruout the nation have been writing the President and congress demanding: [1] That the work week be extended from 40 to 48 hours before overtime is paid, [2] That no more double pay be given for Sunday work, [3] That strikes be outlawed for the duration of the war, [4] That profits be limited on all war contracts, and [5] that the government economize on nonessentials.

See F. D. R. Blocking Action.

Just as matters were coming to a head for enactment of the suggested labor legislation, Tydings recalled that President Roosevelt "took a strong position opposing any extension of the 40 hour week, and the elimination of time and a half for overtime," altho he did favor time and a half for Sunday work instead of double time pay.

"Unless the President changes his position in regard to this matter, it will be difficult, if not impossible, to effect any change in labor practices from those that prevailed before we entered the war," said Tydings.

In his usual forceful language Rep. Hoffman attacked the administration's tactics on the labor issue.

Congressional "Sitdown."

"It is an indisputable fact that the people want at this time, immediately, a national labor policy," he said. "Recently, because of strikes, slow downs, and work stoppages, because of excessive wage demands on the part of some, of exorbitant war profits on war contracts by others, the people again, in no unmistakable way, made known their desire for action by congress.

"Tho the people were impatient, indignant, yes, angry, congressional leaders acting in behalf of the President, arbitrarily refused to permit such legislation to come to the floor of the house or to be passed by the senate and boldly and defiantly annomination remains for the April 14 Democratic party, in absolute control of the law making machines, would not permit it to function."

Hoffman described the recess, during which no business will be transacted despite short intervening sessions, as "a sitdown strike called by the President of the United States, enforced by the machinery of the Democratic party."

Actions and Words by AFL

All Out for Work.

New York, March 29 (AP).—The American Federation of Labor said in a full page advertisement in Monday's New York Times that its members will stick to the job and give it everything, "come hell or high water, until this war is won."

The ad, titled "Beware the sixth column," declared:

"Words won't win this war—hard fighting will. Sniping at each other won't win this war—national unity will. New laws won't win this war—hard work will."

Declaring that "sixth columnists" are waging "undeclared war against President Roosevelt and against us," the ad continued:

"They are doing this by putting the heat on congress to pass the Smith-Vinson bill and other dangerous legislation aimed at the President's war labor policies."

War Work Stalled.

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 29 [Special].—Delivery of more than 100 tons of war materials consigned to local defense plants has been prevented for nearly a week by a jurisdictional strike involving two American Federation of Labor unions here, according to a memorandum sent today by counsel for Acme Fast Freight, Inc., to Rep. Howard W. Smith [D., Va.].

The dispute, affecting only 20 men, concerns whether jurisdiction over the company's platform handlers belongs to the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employés [AFL], or to the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers [AFL]. Acme, third largest freight forwarding company in the country, has a contract with the Brotherhood of Clerks, but the Teamsters have recently enrolled six of the workers.

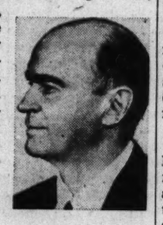
Freight deliveries halted March 24 when the teamsters struck and established a picket line. Ralph H. Frank, counsel for Acme, said the stalled freight is valued at $100,000 and 75 per cent of it has a direct connection with war production. He said Rep. Smith, co-sponsor of the Smith-Vinson bill, has promised to air the situation in congress on receipt of the memorandum.

STEPHEN A. DAY WON POLITICAL POST HARD WAY

Campaigned Six Times for Congress Job.

BY PERCY WOOD.

The congressional seat which Stephen A. Day, Evanston Republican, seeks to retain, came to him the hard way—after six previous attempts to win it. He campaigned for representative-at-large for so long that his candidacy came to be regarded as a matter of course, and seldom aroused much interest, until two years ago, he was sent to Washington on the Illinois Republican landslide.



Stephen A. Day.

This bald, sober man of 59, whose shrill but earnest voice has been heard on the stump at intervals since 1920, already knew the capitol well. As a young man he had been there with his father, the late William R. Day, when the latter was secretary of state in President McKinley's cabinet and subsequently was a justice of the United States Supreme court by appointment of President Theodore Roosevelt. Stephen, his son, once served as secretary to Chief Justice Fuller of the Supreme court.

Modest About Father.

The congressman sometimes mentions his distinguished parent in campaign speeches, but modestly, explaining that he is his father's son "by the accident of birth."

Should he choose, he could erect quite a family tree for his listeners, as he also is descended from such American patriots as Gen. Joseph Warren, who fell at Bunker Hill, and Zephaniah Swift, an early chief justice of Connecticut.

Day was graduated from the University of Michigan and was admitted to the Ohio bar in Cleveland in 1907. A year later he came to a Chicago law firm but has practiced alone since 1920 when he started running for congress.

As the 20s wore on, the candidate developed into a leading advocate of prohibition repeal, and often told how his father had predicted the discord such an attempt to "compel" personal habits would bring.

Fought U. S. Intervention.

Day campaigned as hard against prohibition as he later fought the New Deal and, following his election to congress, fought American intervention in the days before Pearl Harbor. Since the Japanese attack he says he has pledged his devotions and his energy just as hard to winning the war.

In the current campaign, Day claims he is the victim of a "smear" attempt, because he was one of the noninterventionist congressmen whose speeches against America's entrance into the war were used by the convicted Nazi agent, George Sylvester Viereck, before Pearl Harbor.

Day insists he had no connection with Viereck other than that his speeches were published by a company the agent allegedly controled. The congressman cites as evidence of this that he was subpenaed as a witness in the Viereck trial in Washington but never was called to the stand. He avows his hatred of Naziism.

Whether this situation will be harmful to Day's candidacy for renomination remains for the April 14th primary to determine, but in any event, he has received little organized support thus far in the campaign.

PAY OVERTIME IN BONDS, CIO LEADER URGES

Suggestions that all overtime be paid in defense bonds and individual returns to businessmen and officials be limited to $25,000 a year were made yesterday by Walter P. Reuther, director of the General Motors division and member of the international executive board of the United Automobile Workers' union, CIO.

Reuther's proposals were made during a discussion with Stephen M. DuBrul of the General Motors labor relations staff, on the subject, "Management and Labor in War Production," on the Northwestern University Reviewing Stand, a radio feature of W-G-N-Mutual.

Both men agreed there was no reason, excuse, or justification for strikes at this time.

DuBrul said he thought management's responsibility ended after tools had been designed and secured, workmen hired, and the job done.

Reuther declared management should assume leadership, which he charged it had sidestepped, and which might cost us a tremendous price in lives at a later date. Coöperation and the knowledge that all their effort is going to help the men in the services and not to make any new millionaires will bring a rise in war production, Reuther said.

TREES TOPPLED AS SNOWSTORM TIES UP CAPITAL

Washington, D. C., March 29 (AP).—The heaviest snowfall in Washington for almost 20 years crippled traffic today and felled thousands of trees. The weather bureau recorded an 8 inch fall in downtown areas, but bureau representatives said they had been informed that in some of the outskirts the snow was 15 and 18 inches deep.

Roads into Rock Creek park were closed because of crashing trees. The auxiliary police force recruited by civilian defense authorities was called to duty to protect motorists against hazards of falling trees, branches, and power lines. William T. Xanter, superintendent of the city refuse department, said the destruction of trees was the greatest at any one time in the city's history.

Snow removal crews totaling 2,200 men worked with 120 plows put into service by the city.

3 Trapped by Explosion in Gas Station Escape

An oil heater exploded yesterday in a gasoline station at 57th court and Cermak road, and three men were trapped when the office door was jammed by the force of the blast. They broke down the door and escaped with minor burns. They were Edward Jucaba, 25 years old, an attendant; and two customers, Charles Tesar, 25, and Harray Mulace, 22.

Jittery Holdup Man Shoots Waitress in Ankle, Flees

Miss Pearl Ellerson, 24 years old, a waitress, was shot in the ankle early today by a nervous bandit in the restaurant at 2106 North Harlem avenue, Elmwood Park. Miss Ellerson, who lives at 2701 Hessing street, River Grove, and the café owner, Julius Klawans, 7238 Dickens avenue, Elmwood Park, were about to close the place when a tall young man entered brandishing a gun. He took $35 from the cash register. Then the gun fired unexpectedly, and he fled to a car in which a companion waited. The girl was given first aid and taken home.

SHOT DURING DICE GAME.

Police said yesterday that they have established that Bruno Kline, 1850 Humboldt boulevard, wounded in a shooting early Saturday morning, was shot during a dice game in a poolroom at 1845 West 59th street. Kline, an ex-convict, 46 years old, said he does not know who shot him.

OFFICE OF CIVILIAN DEFENSE
CHICAGO METROPOLITAN AREA
MAYOR EDWARD J. KELLY
U. S. COORDINATOR

CHICAGO, ILL.
FRANKLIN 8250

Mr. Paul Potter, Secretary
Milk Dealers' War Conservation Committee
309 West Jackson Boulevard
Chicago, Illinois

March 26, 1942

Dear Mr. Potter:

Milk dealers - both wholesale and retail - compose one of the very largest groups of users of automobile trucks. Because of the importance of your product to the public, your cooperation in the conservation of rubber is most essential. I know the wholesale and retail dealers will agree that the conservation of rubber is of utmost importance in our government's Victory program.

It has come to my attention that considerable saving in the use of those materials which are vital to the war program can be made by milk distributors in this Area by eliminating more than one call per day to each customer, by re-routing deliveries outside the congested loop area during daylight hours, and by re-routing customers to make the maximum deliveries with the minimum use of equipment, rubber, and fuel.

1. Deliveries of milk to the following hours, effective April 1, 1942, therefore, deem it in the public interest to recommend that all milk distributors holding a license or permit for the delivery of milk in the Metropolitan Area comprise all deliveries may be made within the central business district, including the loop, bounded by Chicago Avenue, Halsted Street, Roosevelt Road, and Lake Michigan at the hours now prevailing.

2. Outside of this area, deliveries should be made only between 6:00 A.M. and 4:30 P.M. on week days. No vehicles for the delivery of milk in this territory should leave the dairy before 7:00 A.M. Sunday deliveries to be made early, as at present.

3. Consumers should cooperate in eliminating waste by refraining from requesting milk deliveries except at the time of day arranged by their regular milkman.

In view of the fact that fresh milk is so necessary a part of the diet, according to federal nutrition standards, I am making these recommendations in the face of limited availability of tires and fuel. I expect this conservation effort will have the wholehearted support of the milk industry, in the public interest. A copy of these recommendations is being sent to all milk distributors in this defense area.

Very truly yours,
Michael J. Mulcahy
State Rationing Administrator of the Chicago Metropolitan Area for Civilian Defense.

We're with you, Mr. Mayor ... to conserve for Victory!

● WE ARE HONORED that one of your first wartime measures in conserving delivery equipment should apply to our product, milk.

We believe the recommendations for time of milk delivery which State Administrator Mulcahy has issued, are entirely reasonable, and we hasten to assure you of our complete cooperation.

Every one of our customers, we are certain, will conform wholeheartedly to these rulings, for the conservation of tires, fuel and vehicles—for the successful prosecution of the war.

How you can help:

To Housewives: We know you'll welcome this chance to help in vital tire conservation. Simply anticipate your family needs one day ahead and cooperate in these definite ways:

1. Accept your milkman's delivery schedule to avoid call-backs. Don't ask for special deliveries. Remember this is a war effort.
2. Have your empty bottles ready for your milkman when he calls—they're important to National Defense.
3. Collections take extra time. Cooperate with your milkman by being ready when he calls.

Just do these easy things, and your service from your milkman will be convenient as always.

To Storekeepers: We know you are in full accord with this conservation effort. Your milkman will be on a definite schedule. Please cooperate by anticipating your needs 'til his next regular delivery.

To Institutions: Hospitals, schools, restaurants, clubs—we know that fresh milk is one of your important daily needs. And we know that, with smart management, you will be able to serve it fresh as heretofore—and serve your country, too, in this vital conservation of equipment.

Looking at Hollywood . . . . . By John Chapman

Sunday — To Ensenada, Mexico, where four bus loads of Hollywoodians put on a show for Mexican army and navy boys in the town's movie theater. I got a break, for at the San Ysidro border gate the expedition is joined by Mary Martin and Dick Halliday in their convertible, and they ask me to ride with them. . . . Mary and Dick have sold their big Bel-Air honeymoon nome. Too hard to get servants. They've bought a small one which Mary can take care of herself if need be—and the need may come. Defense boom and alien restrictions have made the help problem acute. . . . Under the direction of Mark Sandrich, the good will show is a hit. Lupe Velez, Desi Arnaz, Rosita Moreno, Jinx Falkenburg, and a few others do their stuff in top grade Spanish; others have learned a bit of Spanish for speeches or songs. Topliners include Irving Berlin, Dick Powell, Joan Blondell, Jim Cagney, the Merry Macks, and Laurel and Hardy.

Monday—To Paramount, where George Marshall is staging a forest fire with gasoline sprayed trees on the big tank set. It's for "Forest Rangers," and plenty exciting. There is fire as far as the eye can reach, for the background is two immense transparency screens showing a forest blaze in technicolor . . . to "The Major and the Minor" set, where Ginger Rogers, pretending to be a 12 year old so she can ride half fare, is making eyes at Ray Milland from a Pullman berth. Ray is a major in a military school, and he takes the little girl to the school, where small boys make passes at her. . . . Ginger makes a believable youngster, with braided hair and no makeup whatever.

Tuesday—To 20th-Fox for a chat with June Lang, who nas divorced the husband who made her quit pictures. She's making a comeback in "Strictly Dynamite." . . . Then to see the Kordas' "Jungle Book," a lavish and faithful color treatment of the Kipling stories with Sabu as Mowgli. The spectacle and the animal stuff are splendid, and this one is a "must" for youngsters.

Wednesday—To RKO-Pathe, where "The Moon and Sixpence" is being shot, for a talk with George Sanders. George looks very much the artist, with a pale beard—not his own—and a ragged tweed suit. . . . At night to Universal, where Walter Wanger is staging a London bombing on the back lot for "Eagle Squadron."

Thursday—It may be the maid's night out, but it's the man's day in at the typewriter. Then to the Collier Young's cocktail party for Red Book's Voldemar Vetluguin, and Vetluguin counters by taking the whole mob to dinner at Chasen's. . . . Afterward to Carlyle Jones', where Hollywoodians are welcoming the Warners' New York press boy, Mitch Rawson.

Friday—To Columbia, where Joan Crawford and Melvyn Douglas are playing "He Kissed the Bride." Joan has a very pretty mother in this picture—Billie Burke. Joan has an option on a farm in Pennsylvania and had planned to go east to complete the deal as soon as "Bride" is finished. But now Metro wants her back on the home lot right away and she may have to let the farm slide. . . . On the "Three's a Crowd" stage Jean Arthur bemoans the fact that shooting is almost finished. And why shouldn't she? Her playmates are Cary Grant and Ronald Colman, and the director is George Stevens.

Saturday—Give you one guess as to who'll play the leads at Metro in a comedy called "Her Highness and the Bellboy." Hedy Lamarr and Mickey Rooney, of course. . . . MGM's newest contract player is Keenan Wynn, Ed's son. . . . Linda Darnell's next is "Orchestra Wife," and she draws George Montgomery, H. Lamarr's fiancé, as a leading man. . . . New 8 p. m. curfew rules for enemy aliens will affect many distinguished German refugees working in the movies—and will wreck the staffs of many hot spots.

Keep Farewell to Soldier a Dry-Eyed One

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

You may have what you think is a "poker face," but a good observer can read much thereon just the same. Remaining totally impassive of expression isn't always possible, and a lift of an eyebrow, almost imperceptible tho it may be, or increased pressure of the lips conveys a meaning to your observer.

All of which is by way of introducing a clever young woman, Joan Newton of the Broadway stage, who has been studying expressions, along with emotional orgies or poker faced attitudes, in connection with girls saying good-by to boys leaving for the service.

Says Joan: "That's the moment for the greatest performance you've ever given. You've got to act in a natural manner, tho, because the usual tendency is to exaggerate. I know. I've had to do it myself. I found out that the best thing to do is to be yourself, the person, that is, who originally attracted him to you.

"Of course, you're going to miss him," Joan cautions, "and he's going to miss you. But it does not make it easier for him when you give an imitation of Niagara falls. It may flatter his ego, true, but it may cause him serious embarrassment at the same time.

"Don't go to the other extreme of overdoing the false gayety act. It fails and may end with both of you feeling miserable. The boys are taking it in their stride as a job which has to be done. They're not acting as martyrs, so why should you?

"What is just as important," adds Joan, "is the followup action. Give him a long and tearful farewell and then neglect to answer his letters promptly, and what is he bound to think?"

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

What to Do!

Our Own Tact Test: The boss' wife is away. The eastern advertising manager is in town. The boss has asked you to have dinner with the two of them. You've accepted and now . . . for various reasons . . . you've thought better of it. How do you get out of going? Do you say:

1. I forgot it was my Red Cross night.
2. My little brother has mumps and it's HORRIBLY contagious.
3. It's nice of you to ask me and I'd love to go to the Mayfair room but—I just can't make it.
4. I have to stay with my sister's baby.
5. A girl can't be too careful of her reputation I always say.
6. I've got a FRIGHTFUL headache and couldn't look at a mouthful of food without turning LIVID.

Office Thrift.

The Standard Oil Company of Indiana has adopted suggestions made by employés for conserving time, paper, metal, and rubber. Some of these suggestions are:

Answer correspondence promptly so that your correspondent will not have to follow up.

Dictate carefully so that letters will not have to be rewritten.

Write only when necessary and be brief.

Use small sized letter sheets and statement forms when possible.

Write carbon copy of reply on back of letter being answered, avoiding the use of paper clips, pins and other metal fasteners and saving space.

Use envelopes only when privacy is necessary or to dispatch matter thru the United States mails.

Use paste or glue so far as possible in preparing papers for filing so as to dispense with metal fasteners or rubber bands.

Week-End Renovation.

"What did you do over the week-end?"

"You'd never guess."

"Well—what?"

"I renovated myself completely. You know how it is this time of the year. We've all worn the same clothes all winter and the air in the office gets stuffy and awful. So Saturday and Sunday I aired everything I own. I hung my clothes on the back porch in the sun . . . brushed and shook and cleaned them. I cleaned the inside of my coat collar, I even put deodorant in my shoes and set 'em in the sun. And I washed and ironed everything and put new papers in the dresser drawers and aired out my closet. Then I washed ME, including my hair, and this morning, feeling like a million, I walked into the office and the manager said, 'You look fresh as a daisy and smell like a rose!' and I thought, 'Heavens! what was I like last week!'"

You can buy ready-prepared meat sauces these days, and many of them are very good. But there often are times when you'd like a very special kind of sauce you could brew yourself from ingredients stocked on your cupboard shelves?

Barbecue sauce is the first one you think about when you consider spareribs or a low priced cut of beef for dinner. This is a good one.

BARBECUE SAUCE.

½ cup margarine
½ cup vinegar
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 medium onion, chopped
1 tablespoon worcestershire sauce
¼ cup chili sauce
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 tablespoons honey or brown sugar
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

MUSTARD SAUCE.
[For ham, tongue, pot roast, corned beef]

¼ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons dry mustard
1 teaspoon sugar
2 tablespoons flour
¾ cup water
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons melted butter

Combine salt, mustard, sugar, and flour. Add water and vinegar gradually, stirring constantly over low heat, or, better, in the upper part of a double boiler over hot water. When sauce has thickened and is smooth, remove from heat and beat in the egg yolks and butter. The hot sauce will cook the egg yolks sufficiently without further cooking after they have been added. Serve this sauce hot or cold.

SOUR CREAM HORSERADISH SAUCE.

1 cup thick sour cream
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
1 tablespoon minced chive or green onion
¼ cup prepared horseradish

Combine and chill ingredients. Serve with beef, corned beef, tongue, heart, or ham. Cut this recipe in half if you are serving fewer than four persons.

CURRANT JELLY AND HORSERADISH SAUCE.
[For tongue or heart]

2 tablespoons currant jelly
2 tablespoons grated horseradish
⅛ teaspoon dry mustard
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Grated rind of 1 lemon

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE

Sauerkraut addicts take note! Here's a "yummy" salad for you that wins today's prize of $5 for Mrs. E. V. Matlack, 644 S. Sixteenth avenue, Maywood.

Have you entered your best recipes in the Mary Meade contest? Write them up with ingredients [all measurements standard and level] listed in the order of use. Give complete, clear directions. Send your entries [not more than one a week, please] to the Recipe Contest, CHICAGO TRIBUNE. A $5 prize is given daily.

Beet and Sauerkraut Salad.
[Serves 8.]

2 cups cooked or canned beets, drained
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon dry mustard
1 cup liquid from beets
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 cups canned sauerkraut

Measure beets, saving liquid. Melt butter in skillet and add cornstarch, sugar, and mustard, which have been mixed together. Stir to smooth paste. Add enough water, if necessary, to beet liquid to make 1 cup and add with vinegar to cornstarch mixture, cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add beets, mix well, and remove from heat. Let stand until cool, then chill. When ready to serve, add kraut to beets and serve. No dressing is needed, altho additional French dressing may be served with the salad, if desired.

Tell Need for 2 Dictionaries, Even If Shabby

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Recent mention of a dictionary in this column brought the following appeals to my desk:

"Dear Miss Brown: Your column of last Wednesday caused a lot of excitement on our "porch" at this tuberculosis sanitarium. We spend many of our hours in bed reading, studying, and writing. Exercise is limited to short walks or playing cards or checkers.

"We have watched your column for a long time, and I am now writing on behalf of the men to ask if you could locate a large dictionary for us. We had thought of writing you previously, but felt it might not be right to ask for something like that while there were so many necessities other people needed.

"The dictionary we would like to have is one of the unabridged type, and we would certainly be happy to have one of the Webster International edition. We don't mind if it's dog-eared and shabby—the appearance of the book is of no importance.

"This may seem like a strange request, asking for a dictionary as large as that, but some one may have one stored away. Transportation is a problem which I hope you can solve for us, since we can't arrange delivery and are located on the extreme northwest side, a great distance from the loop. If you can do this, we will be deeply grateful.—H. S."

J. W., who lives just west of the loop, wrote:

"I am an invalid and have been confined to my room for a number of years. Because of this I have been interesting myself in reading scientific subjects, such as biology, anthropology, physics, and chemistry. I would certainly appreciate obtaining a discarded dictionary from one of your good readers, since I am on relief and unable to purchase one."

About the appliances we advertise nowadays

The appliances we are now advertising are limited to those we have on hand, or those that are made available without interference with war production. They have all been selected because their normal operation in the home comes at a time of day when our electrical facilities are more than adequate to meet present power requirements for both war production and civilian use.

Furthermore, we believe that their use in most cases will conserve energy and tend to release home labor for helpful wartime activities.

Wedding Plans That Can't Be Changed Are Out; It's the War

BY JUDITH CASS.

WEDDING plans that cannot easily be changed are absolutely out, so far as most brides-to-be of this day and age are concerned. With their fiancés already in service, or about to be called, the perfect arrangements are those that can be changed from date to date. Some firms that specialize in bridal finery are advertising that they can arrange a formal wedding on 48 hours' notice, so no young woman need go without a traditional wedding gown if she really yearns for one.

Miss Marie Louise Richards, who has departed on a short trip to New York and to Akron, O., to see her fiancé, Gilbert L. Watson II., has set June 20 as her wedding date. The ceremony will be held at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon in the Winnetka Congregational church, with a reception following in the Winnetka home of Miss Richards' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marcus D. Richards. Mr. Watson is a son of the Cornelius B. Watsons, also of Winnetka.

Miss Mary Macfarland and James Roy West, whose engagement was announced 10 days ago, are to be married next Saturday, her mother, Mrs. Ryan Macfarland announces. The wedding will take place at 4 o'clock in the Winnetka home of Miss Macfarland's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Lanning Macfarland, with the Rev. E. Ashley Garhard officiating. Only the relatives and intimate friends will be present for the ceremony and small reception following.

Miss Macfarland, who will be given in marriage by her father, Henry J. Macfarland of Barrington, will be attended by her subdebutante sister, Margaret, a student at the North Shore Country Day school, and by Miss Jean Frances Matthiessen. Miss Matthiessen's engagement to Paul E. Johnson, a naval air cadet stationed in Florida, was announced last week.

John Cordner West will be his brother's best man, and Allen Scott Robinson will usher. Little Mary Elizabeth Macfarland, better known as Tibby, the Lanning Macfarlands' daughter, will hold the bride's bouquet.

Mr. West is being called for army duty shortly, so he and Miss Macfarland decided not to delay their wedding. They will go south on a wedding trip. Mrs. Theodore Donaldson, the former Peggy Boyd, gave a shower for Miss Macfarland last Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Richard P. Matthiessen will give a luncheon on the day of the wedding.

Press of Army Duty Cuts Prenuptial Parties.

Miss Margaret Stuart's fiancé, Lieut. Augustine S. Hart Jr., won't arrive from his southern army post until April 10, the day before their wedding, so there are few prenuptial parties for Miss Stuart. Her uncle and aunt, the John Stuarts, will give the bridal dinner the night of the 10th at the Shoreacres club, and the James A. Cathcarts will give a luncheon on the day of the wedding. The ceremony will take place at 4:30 o'clock on the afternoon of the 11th in the Lake Forest Presbyterian church, with a small reception following at the Lake Forest residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Douglas Stuart.

Mariette Clark's Engagement Is Revealed at Tea.

At a tea at the Fortnightly club Saturday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Dyer Clark of Evanston announced the engagement of their daughter, Mariette Rust, to Philip William Orth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip V. Orth Jr., of Milwaukee. The party was given jointly by Mr. and Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Clark's mother, Mrs. James G. Macpherson of Saginaw, Mich.

Miss Clark, whose paternal grandmother is Mrs. Frederick W. Clark of Lake Shore drive, is a graduate of the Edgewood school in Greenwich, Conn. She now is attending the Erskine school in Boston. Mr. Orth is a graduate of Amherst college and will receive his degree from the Harvard school of business administration in June.

From Pasadena, Cal., comes word that Mrs. Charles Thomas Irvine Roark, widow of Pat Roark, the polo player, was married on March 26 in Phoenix, Ariz., to Walter D. K. Gibson Jr., of Los Angeles. The bride, the former Patsy Hostetter, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Herbert Hostetter Jr., of Flintridge, Cal., and a niece of Dr. and Mrs. Frank E. Pierce of Chicago. She is a member of the Pasadena Junior league. Mr. Gibson and his bride will reside in Flintridge.

Women Voters League Will Hear Candidates.

Sixteen candidates in the primary elections scheduled for April 14 have accepted invitations to luncheon with the Lake Shore League of Women Voters at noon today at the Arts club. Each contestant will deliver a three minute speech about his candidacy. Ald. Paul Douglas and William J. Baker, United States senatorial contestants; Dennison B. Hull, Frank J. McAdams, and Stephen A. Day, contestants for representatives at large to the United States congress, and contestants for state senator from the 29th and 31st districts will be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Fernando René Capdevielle are being congratulated on the birth of a son, Victor Fernando, on March 20 in Augustana hospital. The baby and his 14 month old brother, Armand René, are grandsons of Mr. and Mrs. H. DeWitt Cretors of Sheridan road and of Enrique Capdevielle of Mexico City.

Luncheon on April 8 to Start Committee's Navy Relief Work

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Telfer MacArthur has had much experience in raising funds for babies and musicians for she has headed the woman's auxiliary of the Infant Welfare society and now is chairman of the woman's committee of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. She is adding the chairmanship of the woman's committee to assist in a drive for the Navy Relief society to her duties, and here she is with lads representing three branches of the navy: Sgt. Thomas A. Fischer of the marines, Allan W. Cook of the coast guard, and Yeoman Charles B. Cronin. Mrs. MacArthur will give a luncheon at the Arts club on April 8 to start the work for her committee.

Women in War Work .... By India Moffett

[The Women in War Work department reports on women's activities in war and defense work and will answer questions of women wishing to take part in these activities.]

Mrs. Telfer MacArthur, well known for her fund raising activities for the Infant Welfare society and the Chicago Symphony orchestra, has been appointed chairman of the women's division of the Chicago Citizens' committee of the Navy Relief society. In this capacity Mrs. MacArthur is organizing a women's committee to help raise in the neighborhood of $350,000, Chicago's share of the $5,000,000 national quota for navy relief.

The campaign, which opens April 8, will provide money for an urgent need not met by any other organizations, Mrs. MacArthur said. For more than 40 years the Navy Relief society, thru subscriptions by navy personnel, has provided necessary financial aid to families of navy men while the men were away. But the tremendous size of the navy today has forced the society to appeal to the public for funds for the first time.

The society provides immediate financial aid when necessary, either as a loan or an outright gift, after a navy man, a marine, or member of the coast guard dies from any cause; for emergency operations and medical treatment in any family, to prevent undue hardships of dependents; to help educate orphaned children and otherwise aid in giving them a fair start in life.

"Frequently the society finds families who are without funds due to delay in allotments when the navy men are fighting far from home," Mrs. MacArthur said. "In such cases loans are made to tide the family over the emergency. No interest is charged and the records show that 90 per cent of the loans are repaid."

Rawleigh Warner is chairman of the Chicago Citizens' committee which has established headquarters at 105 South La Salle street.

A reader who signs her letter "American Girl" writes: "I have a grand soft job, I love it and the people I work with. I wear white clothing from head to foot, and I sit at a comfortable desk. This is all very well, and that is why we boast about the American way of living. But our boys are far from home, in foreign climates, fighting against a horrible enemy who must be wiped out. I want to hasten our final victory, but it cannot be accomplished if people like myself hang on to soft jobs and lily white fingernails.

"I am perplexed. I do not know where to turn. I want a job in a defense plant, the most vital kind of job possible. Isn't there some way I can learn to qualify for it. There is no place for unskilled labor, this I know, but I would humbly devote every hour I have aside from my present position so that I could take my rightful place in this our emergency.

"There are dozens of girls who feel as I do. Won't some manufacturer help me to start the ball rolling?"

We receive many intelligent, patriotic letters such as this one and whenever possible we try to direct the writer to the proper agency for further information or training. Likewise, in these columns we have been announcing the opening of any public training courses for women. However, as we have pointed out before, employers in this area have not yet felt the need for women workers and therefore have not set up training courses. But reports such as the following one made by Miss Elizabeth Kelsey of the women's executive committee predict an approaching need

Lily Pons Sings and an Unreal World Is Real

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Lily Pons' world is a cheery one in which birds and the nicer insects and the less harrowing aspects of love figure largely. She welcomes one into this world so graciously, and celebrates its delights with such infectious enthusiasm that it is impossible not to believe—for the time at least—in its reality and importance.

Yesterday she had quite a few people to welcome. The Civic Opera house was packed and there were listeners in the orchestra pit and on the stage. The tiny French-American soprano, bright and fresh and alive as ever and wearing the festal red, white, and blue which are the colors both of her native and of her adopted country, succeeded in making every one feel happy and at home.

She sang old English songs about lilies and bees and butterflies, French songs about roses and nightingales, American songs about cupids and dolls. Sometimes she struck a more serious note—as in the "Caro Nome" from "Rigoletto."

Her singing was as fragile and delicate and winsome as her songs. She had the expert assistance of the pianist, Frank La Forge, and the flutist, Frank Versaci.

Only a churl would call attention to the fact that in the gay world in which she is mistress Miss Pons sometimes gets away with murder. Few singers of her standing would dare to do music of the quality of Poldini's "Waltzing Doll" or Liadoff's "The Music Box" at a recital, but when she does them they are piquant and attractive and almost beautiful.

Ellen Ballon, Canadian pianist, began her Orchestra hall recital of yesterday afternoon with dignified performances of a Bach-Siloti Organ Prelude and the Bach-Busoni Chaconne. Then she went on to the rarely played G Minor Sonata of Schumann.

Her playing of the sonata's slow movement had a rapturous quality which fitted the music perfectly. Her tone glowed with color, and her phrasing was easy and eloquent.

The first movement was less successful—partly because the pianist used entirely too much rubato even for music as rhapsodic as this, partly because she took Schumann's direction as to tempo ["As fast as possible"] too literally. On a sonorous modern piano the pattern of the music is lost when it is played at such a speed.

SYNOPSIS.

Because Dave Wallace asked Ed Seegrist, Chevron cattle hand, about the death of Tip Macy, Ed directed Dave to waterless tanks in the desert where Dave almost perished before a stage picked him up and took his into Vermillion. Beth Hilliard, who inherited two-thirds interest in the Chevron Cattle company from her father, is on the same stage, returning home from a long absence, only to learn from her partner, Jess Gove, that the hard winter killed most of their cattle and she is now penniless. On borrowed money, Jess offers to buy her share of Chevron. Dave beats Ed up when he gets to Vermillion and is ordered out of town by Sheriff Sam Kinsley. Dave is suspicious of Jess but Beth trusts him. Dave goes to Hilliard, the cattle company town, hoping to question Martha Macy, Tip's widow, but before he talks to her he meets Ed in Con Buckley's saloon and beats him up again. Buckley and old Ives, squawman trapper, seem to be the only two persons besides Dave who are suspicious of Jess. Ives follows Dave from the saloon and insists Dave talk to Martha about Tip's death. Martha has been taken to Chevron in the meantime and Dave goes there and gets into a shooting scrape with Arnie Chance, foreman, and Ed Seegrist. They both claim Tip died in a blizzard. Only Beth's arrival saves Dave from being killed. Jess admits to Dave and Beth that Tip was murdered, but says it was by cattle thieves at the Boundary Line camp and that a note found on his body proved that Tip was in with the thieves. Jess claims he hushed it up to save Martha humiliation. He refuses to let Dave talk to Martha. Old Ives promises to arrange a meeting with Dave and Martha if Dave will outbid Jess for Beth's interest in Chevron. Ives gives Dave money he has borrowed from Buckley. Dave learns from Martha that Tip started out for Seco camp the day he was murdered instead of the Boundry Line. When Dave arrives with his offer to buy Beth's interest he is arrested for shooting Ed Seegrist's horse from under him and seriously injuring Ed. Altho Tom Hyam knows Arnie and Jess framed Dave, he testifies falsely and blackmails Jess.

INSTALMENT XXV.

DOUBTING SHERIFF.

Dave was roused in late morning by somebody tugging at his leg. He came awake in his bunk to see an elderly man, whose malarial-yellow face was bisected by a mournful roan mustache, regarding him thru the cell bars.

It was stifling hot in here. He shook his head to clear it, and then looked about him with a drugged disinterest. The Vermillion county jail was a two cell affair built of the cliff's red sandstone; the bars were 4 by 4 timbers ironed on two sides with old wagon tires to discourage sawing. Dave had the cell next to the sheriff's office, thru which he had entered last night. There was a door at the other end of the cell block and a timber—and heavy screen—barred window in the wall opposite.

"Want to wash?" the jailer asked.

Dave nodded and the old man went down and unlocked the rear door. Returning, he removed the heavy padlock from Dave's cell door and stepped aside, bringing up his worn carbine to the slack of his arm with a professional ease.

Dave rose and went out the rear door and shut his eyes against the blazing noonday sun. When he opened them again he looked around him. The sheriff's office and jail was placed to one side of a littered strip of ground surrounded by a high board fence. Access to it, save by a locked gate, was thru an old false front store building on a side street that served as the Vermillion county courthouse. The other end of the yard abutted the steep sandstone cliff, under which was a weathered horse shed.

Water was piped to a trough beside it from the feed stable well, which was only a hundred feet away across the back lots.

Dave went over to the trough, which had overflowed into a tramped pool of mud, and soaked his head in the water. He glanced back once toward the jail and saw his jailer standing in the shadow of the door, one shoulder propped against the jamb, rifle slacked from his hand.

The water wakened him, and he ran his neckerchief over his dripping black hair, and retied it around his neck, then tramped back to the guard.

"Your grub's come," the guard said.

He stepped aside, carefully keeping out of Dave's reach, then dropped in behind him and locked him in his cell with a tray of food. The stifling heat of the cell block took away Dave's appetite.

He ate little and drank his coffee, and then settled back in the bunk and rolled himself a smoke and took stock of his situation. It couldn't, he conceded, be much worse. The sole consolation to be salvaged from the whole mess was that he thought he'd stopped the sale of Chevron to Gove. He didn't give a damn about that, except that by interfering he'd been able to pay Ives back for the talk with Martha Macy.

The depth of his disgust, with himself and with all of them, put a lethargy upon him that he didn't even fight. He was in the hands of Kinsley, who, if he chose, could make his offense bailable. But neither Ives nor Buckley, his sole friends here, could come out in the open with bail for him. Which made his freedom improbable.

His jailer came back then and unlocked the door and said, "Go up front. The sheriff wants to see you."

Dave threw his cigaret away and stepped out into the sheriff's office. Kinsley, despite the heat, had not shed his coat, and Dave knew it was for the sake of the dignity of his office. He sat at a rickety desk, over which was a gun rack holding a half dozen shotguns and rifles. The four walls of the small room were papered almost solidly with yellowed reward dodgers.

"Sit down," Kinsley said quietly. "Wait till I finish this. Old Decker treating you all right?"

Dave said he was. He sank into a chair and waited the minute until Kinsley finished his writing and tilted back in his swivel chair. Kinsley laced the fingers of his two hands together across the small of his neck and said idly, "Those cells are pretty miserable."

Dave didn't answer, and Kinsley regarded him speculatively. "You know you don't have to put up with this, Wallace."

"Not if you'll straighten this out."

"What do you want to know."

"I want you to admit you shot Seegrist's horse."

"But I didn't."

Kinsley's fingers unlaced and he swung his chair back level and said earnestly, "But man, you've worked Seegrist over twice, and you threatened in public to run him out of the country. That's prime evidence."

"I will run him out, too," Dave said quietly.

Kinsley looked solemn. "But why?"

"You know why. I told you the first night. I don't change that story."

Kinsley looked at him thoughtfully and said, "Let's hear it again."

"I met Seegrist over in the Mesquite Hills. A bunch of Chevron horses were grazin' in the brush around his camp. I stopped and had a smoke with him, and mentioned Tip Macy. I knew Tip in Montana, and I'd read he'd died in a blizzard. I didn't believe it, and I asked Seegrist about it."

"You mean you put it up to him that way?"

"No. We kind of danced around it." Dave said slowly. "He wasn't putting out anything about Macy, and I was asking a lot of questions. When I saw it was no good I asked him about water on the desert. He told me about a shortcut to what he called the Bunchgrass Tanks. Said he'd come across two days before and there was plenty of water. I thanked him, and lined out with my pack horse. The tanks were dry and he knew it."

Before Dave finished speaking Kinsley was shaking his head slowly. "Wallace, it wasn't Seegrist. You say those horses were branded Chevron?"

Dave nodded.

Kinsley said dryly, "How'd they get across the desert to the Mesquite Hills?"

"I don't know."

"The answer to that," Kinsley observed flatly, "is that they didn't. There's water in just two places on that desert, and both those places are stage stations, run by McAuliffe and Kearney. Anything that crosses that desert, man or beast, has to hit those two spots. And neither Seegrist nor a bunch of horses stopped at either place, because I checked."

Dave didn't answer.

"So that," Kinsley remarked idly, "makes you out a liar."

Dave only shook his head. "You're a careful man, Kinsley," he began. "You like to check. I'll give you some more to check, so you can make a bigger liar out of me."

Kinsley looked puzzled, skeptical.

"I came into this country to find out how Tip Macy died. You say he died in a blizzard. I found out different. He was shot in the back at Chevron's Boundary Line camp. You didn't know that, did you?"

Kinsley's pause was a half minute long. "I don't know it now," he said derisively.

"Then check it," Dave drawled. "Check it with Gove, because he told me. Check it with Miss Hilliard, because he told her. And check it with Martha Macy, because Gove told her, too."

He stood up, then, and Kinsley sat there, a faint doubt in his eyes, watching him.

"I'll do that," he promised quietly.

Decker appeared in the doorway then, and Dave headed for the door to the cell block. He paused, then, and turned and said, "When you've checked that, you might check Hyam, too."

"I'll do that, too," Kinsley said.

As Dave turned, he thought he detected a faint note of amusement in Kinsley's stubborn face.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Well, we all settled back and prepared to enjoy ourselves hugely as an erudite morsel hardly out of the three cornered pants stage, suddenly opened his baby mouth and in good long words competently contributed to our musical education. . . . "Mozart" the honey's called in the movie—and I just hope you'll see those fat little hands lick the music out of a cowering piano!

He's only one of a galaxy of talented kids unleashed in this opus. . . . They're all good, but the spotlight is focused most often and strongly on Richard [Mozart] Hall, Ray MacDonald, the long, graceful drink of ice water, whose dancing you admired in "Babes on Broadway," Larry Nunn, so pathetic in "Strike Up the Band" and so engagingly tough this trip, Leo Gorcy lending a "Dead End" touch in a Good Samaritan way, and Virginia Weidler, who has grown up from a clever little girl into a very engaging teen aged leading lady. . . .

The story tells about three musketeers—poor neighborhood youngsters—who rush to the rescue when trouble strikes at Patsy Eastman and her dad. . . . "Snap Collins" one of the three [Steve and Mike are the others] has just been released from reform school and is on parole. . . .

The lads happen in as Dad Eastman is attempting suicide, because the musical score, completed by him after years of labor, has been stolen and is about to be used by a show producer named Cartwright. . . .

The lads attempt to get the score, are pinched for "extortion" and, in the patrol wagon that speeds them stationward, meet Racketeer Pete Detroit, who, in a funny way becomes their "angel." . . . He engineers his own escape and theirs and brings his experienced brain to bear upon the problem of how to produce a show BEFORE Cartwright does, using Eastman's score and so—showing Cartwright up. . . .

For a long period the action spins along, brightly and laughably. . . . Then the production goes screwy—for on the tail of a kids' amateur show, don't they tack on a big, Busby Berkely finale! "Ballad for Americans" it is—and, in itself an elaborate, beautifully executed and inspiring number—but merely an excrescence as used.

Also, I rather shuddered at a forced and somewhat soppy speech by Virginia and wondered a bit at some Ziegfeldian costumes. . . . However, the flaws are well toward the end and before they come you've enjoyed all the youngsters and got a real kick out of Sheldon Leonard's "Detroit."

See you tomorrow.

A neat little contrivance for keeping moths away is a "moth killer" square with a hole in the middle for hanging over the hook of a garment hanger in your closet. Or place some of these squares in your garment bags or in drawers in which you store away sweaters and other woolens. There is a strong odor to the product—there's no doubt about that—but it is not the objectionable smell of the old-fashioned moth ball, and it does not cling to clothes.

To Talk on Rose Gardens.

Following a dinner at the Chicago College club tonight at which Mr. and Mrs. Charles Evans will be special guests, Mr. Evans will give an illustrated talk on "Rose Gardens."

Luster Ware Exhibit.

The Lucy Maud Buckingham collection of luster ware again is open to the public in gallery G-2 at the Art institute, the president and trustees of that institution are announcing. The collection has been reinstalled according to a method which successfully combines public exhibition with storage of study material.

★ THRU THE LOOKING GLASS ★

If you're looking for an Easter gift for a youngster you'd better investigate some of the fascinating soap novelties we've been admiring. Perky and bright, they'll make even the most disgruntled junior bather think that soap and water is fun.

The fleet's in with two silly looking ducks resting in a brightly colored box. The man in the case is fittingly austere with just a ribbon tie around his neck for adornment. His woman friend matches him with a ribbon around her neck but perches a little flower hat atop her head.

One of the most eyecatching of the soap novelties is a bunny with a penchant for painting. He is cased in a cellophane cylinder and has an honest-to-goodness paint brush in his hand. An easel is at his feet and about him are the results of his artistic efforts, two beautifully colored soap Easter eggs.

Shower balls, we believe, are one of the handiest gadgets ever dreamed up and apropos the season is one in the shape of a rabbit's head. This bunny is in a delicate pink and has great big blue eyes set off by an Easter bonnet of flowers in lovely pastels.

Three ducks join the Easter parade tinted in their yellow best and each member of the trio wears a chapeau of flowers set at a fashionable angle on her brow.

All these soap novelties are of good quality, pleasantly scented and quite inexpensive. LOUISE DOOLEY.

Mrs. Harriet Lane, Chicago: I find that when I wash my painted walls in the spring I get best results if I wash from the bottom up. I avoid streaks by this method. I use a circular motion over an area about a yard square and when I rinse I use soft water. This also avoids streaking.

Miss Elsie W., Evanston: I still think that old-fashioned whiting is one of the best things to keep my stored silver in tip top shape. Pieces I do not often use I coat with whiting, wrap in flannel and store away. When I want to use silver the whiting comes off easily.

Concrete blocks are one solution of those concrete steps you may be planning to build in front of your door this spring. If you are planning to do the work yourself and are not an expert in mixing concrete these concrete blocks will serve. They are not expensive.

Now—please—your ideas!

Spring Coats Now Succeed to Spotlight

BY REA SEEGER.

It's a spring that will unquestionably leave its record in fashion history as the spring of suits. Shoppers must be muttering in their sleep about suits. We've seen them by the thousands and still they seem all over the place. But the scene is shifting this week. Miss and Madame America began the annual spring coat hunt and found them in surprisingly large assortments.

There are slim reefers for every one who can wear them, in classic blacks, beige, and navy blues. There are brilliant green and flaming red coats in reefer style and the time honored box or straight line models, and the first few knee length jackets have been unpacked along with the wartime inevitables, the short box swagger that ends sharply and smartly along the hip lines.

Elegance is available in the many faille and bengaline dress coats . . . coats so smoothly put together they achieve that costume look. These are the coats that are particularly ideal for all occasions after noon of the clock. They can be worn simply to double as a dress and coat ensemble or they can be flattered and frosted with fragile lace and embroidery jabots and beautiful hats for the momentous occasions in your life. Black and navy, color choice, plus intricate and effective seam-manship and detail make them the finds of the times.

That indispensable little red jacket fashion is here. No well selected wardrobe rates unless such a bright little number is included. They are longer this year, have either the flared or straight line silhouette, and boast pockets, huge buttons, and that undying gallantry that red always features.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 spade	Pass	2 diamonds
Pass	3 spades	Pass	4 clubs
Pass	4 no trump	Pass	5 clubs
Pass	6 clubs [final bid]

West opened a low heart and dummy's 10 held the trick. The 10 of diamonds was returned. East had very quickly analyzed the possibilities of defeating the contract, and refused to put up his ace. This was a beautiful and sound play. If South were now required to ruff out three diamonds, the ace, king, and jack of clubs would be used and East's 10 8 2 of clubs would be two potential tricks. [If South held all the diamond honors the duck was immaterial. East would be offered and could take his ace later. If not, this ducking play might defeat the contract.] East could read from the bidding and opening lead that South probably held 5-5-3 distribution, and that no tricks would be available to the defense outside of the diamond or trump suits.

The slam would have been easy if East had played the diamond ace. After the duck, South's king won and South now embarked on a cross-ruff plan. He ruffed a diamond in dummy, ruffed a low spade, and ruffed another diamond. The ace of diamonds not falling, the ace of spades was cashed. South discarding the queen of hearts. Another spade was ruffed by declarer. South then led the king of hearts, overtook with dummy's ace, and led the jack of hearts from dummy. Declarer's count of the defenders' hands was confirmed and his care in discarding the heart, rather than a diamond, on the ace of spades, was rewarded. East ruffed with the eight and South overruffed with the nine. Another diamond was ruffed with dummy's ace, and a spade was ruffed with declarer's seven. The queen of clubs was cashed and the last trick conceded to the opponents. Thus, perfect card reading and technique had their just reward.

Highwayman for Use.

When Alfred Noyes, the British poet, was here two weeks ago, Lewis Bernays, the British consul general here, gave a luncheon for him. Mrs. Richard Bernays, the consul's daughter-in-law and hostess, mentioned Noyes' poem, The Highwayman, which, she said, had always been one of her favorites.

Mr. Noyes, his eyes beaming behind thick lensed spectacles, responded that he wrote it while visiting Thomas Bailey Aldrich in a small town in the Hudson valley. In common with all small communities, the town had its town eccentric, a gentleman who [1] liked to sharpen and hurl knives and [2] was in mystical communication with all the great dead of history. One day he threw the town into a frenzy by striding into the local telegraph office, knife in hand, and saying, coolly, "I want to send a wire to Charles II." When the telegraph girl, fumbling for a soothing technique, asked how that was done, he replied sternly, with a deft brandish of the knife, "Forget the means. Simply send it."

On that same day Mr. Noyes received a letter from the Duchess of Buckinghamshire asking permission to use his poem, The Highwayman, in an anthology for charity. As time was at a premium, he hurried to the telegraph office and said, "I want to send a telegram to the Duchess of Buckinghamshire." His telegram stated:

My highwayman entirely at your service. Alfred Noyes.

Also Gracie Allen Night.

A lady who lives in a garden apartment block registered for a Red Cross course in first aid, but failed to show up Thursday night. The director of the apartment block met her the next day and asked what had happened. "Why, Thursday night is Bing Crosby night," she responded in amazement. "You don't expect me then, do you?"

In the Mail.

The list of gifts for a service man submitted by two sailors on the U. S. S. Arkansas topped by "one blonde bombshell" reminds me of some one.

She has lovely gray-green eyes, fine features and all the other necessary requisites for the boys she knows to term her "good lookin'." Too, she is a true platinum blonde. As for the bombshell, well, she's a lady, but can double in brass when the situation demands. She is educated, friendly, likes practically every one, books, music, and mama cats, and writes wonderful letters.

At present she is fighting a long illness and, I'm afraid, feels useless in such a busy, dizzy world. Now, I can't carton her up and send her off to some camp or airplane carrier, but I can guarantee a letter to any lonesome or orphaned man in the service who would like to hear from a grand person.

Quiet Lady.

Few persons ever saw the soft voiced lady with dark Madonna-parted hair during her husband's long years in public life. Quiet, self-effacing, unobtrusive, she stayed insistently in the background at home with the children. "I'm a home maker," she would say, when begging out of a political dinner, and home she stayed.

A month or two ago she wandered down to the Service Men's center in the loop and just as quietly and unobtrusively went to work. Soon she was directing the canteen. She went down at 9 every morning and stayed until midnight. One day a man approached to ask that she intervene with her husband in behalf of a device he wished approved. "I will if I ever see him," she smiled. She said it seriously, for it was true. The other night she awakened him at 2 a. m. to say: "You know, we have to have screens on the kitchen of our center. The flies will be coming in soon." Sleepily he mumbled: "Do what you please. It's your center. I'm going back to sleep."

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

Easter, which symbolizes victory of right over might, of light over darkness, of freedom over slavery, of knowledge over ignorance, means more to Christians today than ever before.

In every church thruout our land—and every Christian land—men and women and children will celebrate the everlasting victory achieved by Christ over the grave so many centuries ago, and will pray for victory over the forces of evil that are rampant in the world today.

It is anticipated that churches will have record attendances on Easter Sunday and consequently the traditional Easter parade will be more of a spectacle than ever before. Every church of every denomination will have its own colorful parade of worshippers, for even in wartime Easter is a season for blossoming out in one's best. A frivolous hat often is perched on a head filled with serious thoughts and such a hat does give a lift to the wearer's spirits and improve the morale of every one who sees it.

Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, who worships at the Episcopal Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest and is active in social, garden club, and Red Cross circles, said of this Easter: "I feel that it's going to be a solemn Easter, for we all should be inspired to do what we can toward the war effort to save the traditions of the United States. We have to keep our chins up, tho, and to help morale I feel that we should continue the Easter parade."

Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, aristocratic and gracious and one of Chicago's real grandes dames, will be going to St. James' Episcopal church in town, as usual. "Easter has only one meaning—peace," she says, "so this year we'll hope and pray it will come soon."

Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, who is working every day at the defense saving staff as the head of the women's division in Chicago, will take time out for going to church next Sunday, for she never misses attending the Easter services at the Fourth Presbyterian church. "I hope that next Easter will signify a spiritual rebirth for all nations," was her comment.

Mrs. Robert B. Gregory, member of an old and distinguished Chicago family, is active in social and philanthropic circles even in her 83d year. She will worship next Sunday in Grace church, in which she was baptized in 1859.

"My dear mother," she said, "always insisted upon the Russian Easter salutation. Instead of saying 'good morning,' we greeted her with the words, 'Christ is risen,' and she would reply, 'He is risen, indeed!' Families who have had losses will realize the significance of Easter more than others."

Mrs. Ernest S. Ballard, prominent Winnetkan who will be attending the services at Christ church in Winnetka, says, "Easter has a deep significance this year because Christians have a living leadership. We are not just following a good man who lived once and died, but we have a leadership that transcends: It lives, yesterday, today, and tomorrow."

Miss Marie Plamondon, who counts Madonna center her chief philanthropy and activity, is well known in Catholic circles. She feels that "this Easter will be more significant than past Easters because Americans of all faiths realize they must return to a belief in God and a trust in Him, and also to following His 10 commandments. These, plus America's courage, will win our victory."

Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, honorary president of the woman's auxiliary of Grant hospital and a leader among Chicago's residents of German descent, says, "I don't think Easter ever has meant more than it does this year with all the distressing happenings thruout the world. If there cannot be peace this year, at least there can be great hope for the future."

Young Mrs. Paul W. Oliver, acting president of the Chicago Junior league, thinks that wearing a new outfit on Easter is equivalent to waving a flag. "It is up to the people at home to make as cheerful and brave a showing as possible this year," she said, adding, "But every one will be thinking of those who have gone to war."

"To be spiritual is to be divine and what the world needs is more spirituality," says Mrs. Jacob Baur, well known in social and political circles, who will be worshipping at St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church.

Mrs. Louis E. Yager, who attends the First Congregational church in Oak Park, feels that Easter should be a great stabilizer this year. "People should have the help and moral reassurance that this period brings; its faith and courage, and the renewed confidence that Easter signifies. Yet it is a gay season and it should be beautiful, so we should be happy and bring confidence to all."

Mrs. Arthur E. Swanson, president of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Episcopal church in Evanston, says, "Easter, with its promise of life renewed and everlasting, brings hope to all of us. The Christian way of life will prevail and the women of all denominations will carry on."

Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson, a member of the woman's board of St. Luke's hospital, feels that it is right to wear gay colors on Easter "to keep our spirits up. It is our duty to maintain courage and morale at home."

Palm Sunday's Sermons Sound a Hopeful Note

Palm Sunday sermons yesterday opened the solemn Holy week observations on a hopeful note. Special prayers were offered for members of the armed forces of the United States and her allies, and themes of unity and brotherhood were stressed. Confirmations and church attendance increased about 15 per cent over Palm Sunday a year ago.

The Rev. Adalbert R. Kretzmann, pastor of St. Luke's Evangelical Lutheran church, Belmont and Greenview avenues, struck an optimistic note in an address to 82 persons confirmed yesterday in his parish.

The Rev. Dudley S. Stark, rector of St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church, 1424 North Dearborn parkway, spoke of the evils of envy and their abolition in present life.

Stressing the brotherhood theme, the Rev. J. Gentry Horace, pastor of Second Baptist church, Evanston, stated that the calamity of war has impressed upon many people their dependence upon God.

Heart Set on Boy or Girl? Be Impartial!

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Is there a baby coming in your family? And what do you hope it will be, a boy or a girl?

Do you and your husband want a son? Perhaps to carry on his name—to take over his business or follow in his footsteps, or to have all the education and advantages he didn't? Or, perhaps, to go to his college and either get his "key" or lead the football team to glory for his alma mater? Is the word "son" music in your ears?

Or do you, perhaps, want a daughter? "My daughter." Does that sound sweet to you? Do you both, perhaps, think of the cuddly little thing of 2 or 3, the flowerlike young girl going out to parties or teasing her daddy for treats, or at 9 or 10 going for long walks, with her hand in his, and later, much later, running in to you with her own baby?

Which have you set your heart on, a son or a daughter?

Of course, when you at last gaze, somewhat worn, at the downy head and curly fists of your baby, most of you don't care. You love it on the spot. But some of you do care, and if it's not "the kind" you wanted, are deeply disappointed, and are therefore laying up trouble and unhappiness for yourself and your child.

All this is about your first baby. But it's also true about your second.

Suppose, we'll say, you already have a son and want a daughter, or vice versa. And then, nature being very wilful, you find yourself one fine day with two sons or two daughters! It's not so good if you find yourself disappointed.

But, odd as it may sound, it may not be so good if you find that you've gotten your wish! If you've longed for a daughter and gotten her, beware that you don't let your delight cast your son in the shade.

And if you've been granted your wish to have a son, don't let your joy in him make the daughter feel less loved, or be less loved. Some parents do! So you beware.

How may a child be taught obedience? Should children be permitted freedom of the house? You will find answers to these and other problems in Gladys Bevans' latest booklet, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price 15 cents; postpaid, 18 cents.

Women in War Work

By India Moffett

for women workers and suggest ways in which young women like our "American Girl" can prepare to meet it.

Miss Kelsey, who is the only woman engineer in Illinois, presented a survey on jobs for women in the engineering and manufacturing division of the radio industry at a radio job clinic last Thursday in the Merchandise Mart.

"Few people realize that women have been playing a large part in the manufacture of radios," she said. "One out of every five production workers is a woman and in view of the present emergency, many more jobs will be taken over by women. There are many companies in this area manufacturing radios and radio parts, but they will not be converted from civilian to war work until April 22," she warned.

"Probably not until June will their assembly lines be set up," she continued. "Then they will know their employment needs. However, women can anticipate these jobs by getting what training they can in the handling of shop machines, lathes, welding equipment, and tool and die making."

Minimum requirements for most of the jobs are a high school education, good health, calm nerves, and finger dexterity. Women between 18 and 40 years old may qualify. Most of these industries provide their own training, but practical mechanical training offered in many high schools and vocational schools is a helpful background for the beginner.

"Planes and communications are going to win this war," Miss Kelsey pointed out, "and women will be doing more and more to provide these weapons for the men on our front lines."

The survey of radio opportunities for girls is the fifth job report compiled by the Women's Executive committee, under the auspices of the state office of public instruction, John A. Wieland, superintendent. Mrs. Anne V. Zinser, chairman, has announced that the next clinic to be held in the near future will cover the fields of nursing, medicine, and dentistry. A limited number of copies of the radio survey are available at Mrs. Zinser's office, 140 South Dearborn street, or from Dr. Wieland's office in Springfield.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on page 21.)

Los Angeles, Cal., March 29.—The Cubs this afternoon said farewell to the Pittsburgh Pirates till April 20, and to make the parting especially significant, Clyde McCullough, Len Merullo, Stan Hack, and Bill Nicholson blasted out home runs as the long range phase of a 10 to 4 Cub victory, the second for Chicago in six battles with the Pittsburghers.

The Pirates were eager to respond in kind, but Babe Phelps was the only Pittsburgh homer socker. Babe, who tied the score yesterday with a four run homer in the ninth inning, tied the count with a two run homer in the sixth today. He clicked for a solo homer his next time up.

Eddie Hanyzewski was the Cubs' second and winning pitcher. He got into just enough trouble to give himself an opportunity to wade out. His talents as a performer of poise under pressure, by the way, make it likely the youth will jump from the northern Indiana sandlots to the National league in one big hop. Three runs were made off Hanyzewski, all of them on Phelps' two homers. He walked two and fanned four.

McCullough Hits One.

The Cubs could do no better than get a couple of singles off Lloyd Dietz, Pirate starter, before they put across three runs at his expense in his final inning, the fifth. This productive fifth opened with Lou Novikoff reaching first on Pete Coscarart's fumble. Phil Cavarretta flied to John Barrett, but McCullough smashed the ball high over the left field wall, scoring behind Novikoff. Merullo walked, Erickson singled, and Hack walked, loading the bases. Charley Gilbert's long fly scored Merullo.

The Pirates also waited till the fifth for their first run production. With two out, Coscarart doubled to right center, took third when Erickson threw into center field trying to catch him napping, and scored on Barrett's single.

So, when Erickson and Dietz retired for Hank Gornicki and Hanyzewski the Cubs were leading, 3 to 1.

Phelps Starts Swinging.

The Cubs got two runners on in Gornicki's first inning as a result of a single by Nicholson and a pass to Cavarretta, but Bob Elliott made a spectacular catch of a line drive by McCullough and doubled Nicholson off first.

Hanyzewski's first inning wasn't so happy as Gornicki's first. After Eddie had thrown out Culley Rikard, he walked Elbie Fletcher. Phelps then drove his first homer over the right field screen, tallying behind Fletcher to tie the score.

The seventh was a hard fought inning. After the Cubs had been retired in order, Coscarart led off with a single. Alf Anderson ran for Coscarart and went to third on Jim Wasdell's single. It looked too bad for the South Bend muscle boy, but Eddie wasn't scared. Elliott fouled to Cavarretta for the first out. Hanyzewski grabbed Rikard's sizzling grounder, feinted Anderson back to third, then threw to second to force Barrett. Hanyzewski still had a tie in hand when Block threw out Fletcher.

The Cubs' big eighth produced five runs off Gornicki on a single by Gilbert, Nicholson's walk, Novikoff's single, a double by McCullough and Merullo's homer. Hack's and Nicholson's homers in the ninth were knocked off Dick Conger.

In the Wake of the News

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, March 29.—The 15th anniversary of amateur boxing's most widely known annual event—Intercity Golden Gloves—will be celebrated in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night in what probably will develop into one of the most bitterly contested matches ever fought between New York's and Chicago's ring champions. . . . The 32 young men who will battle it out for intersectional honors are the best of an original field of more than 28,000. . . . Chicago's tournament, which embraces the middle west and south, attracted more than 20,000 entrants. . . . The New York meet, which enlisted the best along the Atlantic coast, drew 8,000. . . . Thousands fell by the wayside in their home towns. . . . Hundreds more were eliminated in sectional centers. . . . Some were thumped into oblivion in their first appearance in the Tournament of Champions. . . . But all 28,000 proved the one thing of importance—they had a heart, or they never would have engaged in competition involving the violent physical contact of Golden Gloves. . . . All started equally with two legs, two arms, two fists and a ticker. . . . Every one who entered got his chance to fight, provided he was found physically sound. . . . There necessarily were close decisions along the route. . . . They are unavoidable in a three round bout between two well conditioned athletes of almost equal skill. . . . But none can say he didn't get a square deal. . . .

The long rivalry between the best amateur glove wielders of America's two largest cities is rich in memories for those of us who have been identified with the event thru the years. . . . There was the fear of Chicagoans in the beginning of the competition that our representatives couldn't hold their own. . . . New Yorkers now find the situation reversed. . . . It has been eight years since Father Knickerbocker's fighters have whipped Chicago and in the 14 years the promotion has been conducted New York has won only thrice. . . . Chicago has taken eight of the matches and there have been three ties. . . . None of us who was there will forget the night that New York won the first eight bouts in the 1932 match in Madison Square Garden. . . . Three years later in Chicago Stadium our boys duplicated the performance by winning the final eight contests for an 11 to 5 victory. . . . The most one sided score of the intercity series was Chicago's 13 to 3 triumph in 1931. . . . New York almost equaled the count in 1932 with its 12 to 4 margin. . . . Intercity rivalry hasn't been limited to the action inside the ring. . . . There have been some near battles among team executives. . . . One of them involved Walter Eckersall of Chicago and Al Copland of New York, both of whom are now dead. . . . Another, Wilfrid Smith of Chicago and Paul Gallico of New York. . . . The latter, had it developed, might have resulted in the greatest of all Golden Gloves fights, because Smith, who stands 6 feet 4 and in those days weighed only 250 pounds, would have encountered an opponent who was almost as tall and nearly as heavy. . . .

New Yorkers and Chicagoans who later gained prominence in the professional ring first attracted national attention in Intercity Golden Gloves. . . . Among Chicago's representatives were Barney Ross, Leo Rodak, Don Gonzales, Scotty Sylvano, Johnny Phagan, Max Marek, Billy Celebron, John Pacek, Al Nettlow, Otis Thomas, Lorenzo Pack, Jackie Wilson, Pete Lello, Nate Bolden, Lem Franklin, Booker Beckwith, Altus Allen, and Savior Canadeo. . . . New York has turned out Lou Salica, Sedgwick Harvey, Bob Pastor, Gus Lesnevich, Mello Bettina, and Ray Robinson. . . . Joe Louis, greatest of all Golden Glovers, never fought in the Intercity match, because in 1934 when he was Chicago's light heavyweight champion New York wouldn't allow us to use Detroit or Cleveland boxers who had won places on our team. . . . Louis was registered from Detroit. . . .

The New York-Chicago show not only has been an objective of young scrappers thruout the country. . . . It has entertained hundreds of thousands of fans and has produced substantial contributions to charity. . . . The Intercity match always sells out the country's largest indoor arenas, Chicago Stadium and Madison Square Garden. . . . In 1931 when the show, scheduled for New York, was suddenly shifted to Chicago because the Metropolitan AAU refused permission to use neutral officials, every ticket in vast Chicago Stadium was disposed of in eight hours. . . . The demand for seats probably never has been equaled for any sporting event in either city. . . .

There probably is no other athletic competition which more truly typifies the spirit of young America. . . . It's action every second. . . . There is no time to lay back and study the other fellow. . . . The decision must be won in nine minutes or not at all. . . . You can't often wear down an opponent in that brief spell. . . . He must be whipped decisively and quickly. . . . The first punch that lands kicks off the fireworks. . . . Flying fists, pumping arms, a cheering crowd and victory—that's Golden Gloves.

Ten Years Ago Today—Dr. Clarence Spears, football coach at the university of Oregon, was appointed coach at Wisconsin at a salary of $10,000. . . . Home runs by Bill Jurges and Stanley Hack gave the Cubs a 9 to 5 victory over Detroit. . . . Toronto defeated the Blackhawks, 6 to 1, and eliminated Chicago from the Stanley cup playoff series.

Matt Winn's Daughter, 38, Dies in Louisville

Louisville, Ky., March 29 (AP).—Mrs. Julia Sweeney, 38 years old, wife of Russell Sweeney, resident manager of Churchill Downs, died at her home today after several months' illness. She was the former Miss Julia Winn, daughter of Matt Winn, American Turf association president and head of the Churchill Downs association. Services will be held here Tuesday morning.

NATIONAL CYO COURT TITLE WON BY ANNUNCIATION

Newark, N. J., March 29 [Special].—Annunciation, Chicago's CYO champion, tonight won the first national Catholic Youth organization basketball championship by defeating Brooklyn's Our Lady of Perpetual Help, 34 to 32. Annunciation led, 14 to 13, at half time and 30, to 20, early in the fourth quarter.

APPLING'S DEBUT EASY ONE AS SOX LOSE TO PADRES

Luke Has No Chance at Short; Fails to Hit.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Diego, Cal., March 29.—James Dykes' reserves abandoned the White Sox cause this afternoon just when they should have been concentrating on pinning down the second straight success over the San Diego Padres. Some of the rookies suffered with the shakes in the eighth inning, the malady spread to Lee Ross and three runs slipped across the plate to trim the major leaguers, 5 to 4. It brought the Sox back to the .500 mark in their 14 exhibitions, but, anyway, they considered it good exercise before 4,500 folks.

The affair had its compensating features such as the performance of Johnny Humphries, the youngster tabbed to be the surprise man of Dykes' already well stocked pitching staff. The ex-Indian, who was a week late getting to camp, made his fourth preseason appearance, and they've all been good. This time he went five innings on yield of three hits and one run. Previously he had held the Cubs to one hit as well as runless in six innings, the Pirates to one run and three blows in three innings, and the Cubs to one hit and no runs in three innings.

A Comedy of Errors.

Until the reserves began kicking the ball around, the Sox had things their own way. Taft Wright got himself around to the plate after singling in the second, and in the fourth he broke a 1 to 1 tie with a homer. Another score came in the seventh, Ross driving it across. Then the shakes set in. Bill Knickerbocker perpetrated a boyish error which gave the Padres a run instead of ending the seventh inning. The Sox reestablished a two run edge in the eighth, but a moment later everything fell apart. Dave Philley and Murrell Jones were guilty of fumbles, and Ross was frisked for a batch of hits among which was a triple.

Luke Appling made his 1942 debut as scheduled, but as far as work was concerned he might just as well have been back in his Atlanta, Ga., rocking chair. Dykes threatened to keep him at shortstop for nine innings as part payment for his holdout stunt, but relented at the end of the fifth. Luke did not have one fielding chance. He was at bat three times, popping out twice and grounding to the enemy shortstop in his third attempt.

Humphries' Own Fault.

MISSOURI AND GREAT LAKES TO PLAY IN ST. LOUIS

Columbia, Mo., March 29 [Special].—Don Faurot, athletic director and football coach at the University of Missouri, announced tonight that the Tigers' scheduled game with the Great Lakes Naval Training station on Oct. 31 would be played in Sportsman's park, St. Louis. The date of the game, which will be played for the benefit of the Navy Relief society, had been announced, but the site was not determined until tonight.

Faurot also indicated that Missouri would be agreeable to playing a game with the University of Iowa naval air cadets on Dec. 5 should Maj. Bernie Bierman desire it. The site of this game would be determined later.

Louis Visits Blackburn and Avoids Cameramen

Joe Louis yesterday paid a visit to the Provident hospital to see his trainer and friend, Jack Blackburn, who is convalescing from an attack of pneumonia. The heavyweight champion, who now is a private in the army, slipped his muscular frame into the hospital and out of it in a wraithlike performance that baffled photographers on hand to record the visit.

Rangers Beat Leafs; Wings Whip Bruins

New York, March 29 (AP).—The New York Rangers tonight fought their way back from the edge of defeat, whipping the Toronto Maple Leafs, 3 to 1, and thus prolonging their National Hockey league playoff series. Toronto leads in the series, three to two, and needs only one more victory to advance to the Stanley cup finals.

Needing this game to stave off elimination from the playoffs, the Rangers got it in just about two minutes, outmaneuvering the Leafs in an odd battle of wits that was the turning point of the game.

Rangers' Strategy Clicks.

Frank Boucher, Ranger coach, tried to get his Neil Colville-Alex Shibicky line in against Toronto's Sye Apps-Gordon Drillon-Nick Metz combination. After several quick changes of forwards right at the start, Boucher succeeded and in practically no time the Rangers had the first goal. The stunt was repeated late in the first period, and that was the game.

Shibicky made both these tallies on a pair of beautiful shots with Colville and Babe Pratt drawing an assist. Each team scored again in the last five minutes of the game, but those goals didn't count except as extra thrills for the crowd of 15,123.

Play Sixth Game Tomorrow.

The sixth game of the best of seven round between the teams which finished first and second during the regular season will be played in Toronto Tuesday night. If the Rangers survive that one they will come back here Thursday for the final battle. So far the Leafs have won every game on their home rink.

RED WINGS WIN, 6-4

Boston, Mass., March 29 (AP).—After being spotted three early goals which Jack McGill tried to erase by performing the difficult hat trick [three goals by one player] the Detroit Red Wings managed to break their ancient jinx by defeating the Boston Bruins, 6 to 4, in the opener of their best-of-three National Hockey league semi-final playoff series tonight before 13,100 in the Boston Garden.

GOLDEN GLOVES TEAMS RENEW FEUD IN GARDEN

Corona Heads 15th Intercity Squad.

On W-G-N at 10

INTERCITY bouts between Chicago and New York Golden Glovers will be described on W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system beginning at 10 o'clock tonight. The radio reporters will be Dave Driscoll and Stan Lomax.

BY HOWARD BARRY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 29. — Chicago's Golden Gloves coaching staff today picked the team which will go up against New York's best fighters tomorrow night in Madison Square Garden in the 15th annual intercity match. This show is sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities and the New York News Welfare association.

112 POUNDS—Champion, Hank Ulrich, Des Moines, Ia. Alternate, Melvyn Pullen, Dayton, O.

135 POUNDS—Champion: Morris Corona, Fort Worth, Tex.; Alternate: Julius Menendez, St. Louis, Mo.

160 POUNDS—Champion: Benny McCombs, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Alternate: Forrest Gee, Milwaukee, Wis.

Champion Meets Champion.

Under the rules of intercity competition, champion fights champion and alternate meets alternate in each of the eight weight classes, providing 16 bouts. Each bout is at three rounds of three minutes each. All count equally in computing the score.

The New York coaching staff will make the choice of its eight alternates tomorrow at 2 p. m. when the teams weigh in at the New York News building gymnasium. All of New York's champions are on hand, in good condition for the battle.

Hood's encounter with Jimmy Carollo is expected to be one of the most spectacular engagements of the evening. Carollo, a New York Italian, is considered one of the best amateurs to appear in Manhattan in recent seasons. Hood, however, comes east with such a reputation for hitting power and boxing ability that he even has the New Yorkers guessing about the outcome.

Meet on Three Occasions.

Derrico has met New York's featherweight champion, Tommy Rotolo, on three previous occasions in various amateur events. Rotolo has won twice and Derrico once. Chicago's representative has shown considerable improvement recently under the guidance of Behr and his associates, Paddy Kane, Fred Caserio and Issy Kline. So he's believed to have an excellent chance of squaring accounts tomorrow.

Texas Shows Strength.

In the competition for places on the Chicago team, the boys from Texas showed remarkable strength, four of them getting fighting assignments—Corona, Attra, Bryant, and Roye. Corona is the captain of the Chicago team.

Riley earned his place as the bantamweight alternate only after a long and spirited duel thruout the training period with Harold Dade of Chicago, who twice before was a Golden Gloves champion.

DODGERS SELL PITCHER DRAKE TO TORONTO CLUB

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 29 (AP).—Brooklyn sold Tom Drake, right hand pitcher who won nine games with Nashville of the Southern association last season, to Toronto of the International league today. Drake's place on the Dodger mound staff was taken by Jack Kraus, southpaw rookie from Durham, who previously had refused to accept his 1942 contract. Kraus may go to Montreal later this spring. Jake Wade, former American league pitcher but now a free agent, worked out with the Dodgers today and may be signed to a Montreal contract.

LITTLE DOG HAS A BIG NIGHT; PEKE IS BEST IN SHOW

Scores 24th Victory in International Event.

BY BOB BECKER.

A handsome little red Pekingese champion named Che Le of Matson's Catawba, owned by Mrs. James Austin of Old Westbury, N. Y., last night won the highest honor in the International Kennel club show when it was picked as the best of 1,445 entries by Mrs. M. Hartley Dodge.

This confident little Peke came into Chicago with an outstanding record of show victories. It was a champion in England before it was imported to this country by Mrs. Austin. Prior to its Chicago appearance the dog had won 23 best in show awards in American competition. Three weeks ago this graceful Peke was named best in show over a field of more than 1,000 entries in Cleveland.

Best of Breed Last Year.

Last year the same dog competed in the International show and was selected as best of its breed and best in the toy group, but in the final ring it lost to a massive Canadian-bred bulldog. Last night, however, the beautifully groomed Peke was not to be denied, even in a field which included six of the leading show winners of the country.

Also in the final ring when the best dog in the show was selected was the black cocker spaniel, Champion Foxspan Legacy, owned by Mr. and Mrs. W. Holden White, Chagrin Falls, O. Legacy is a son of My Own Brucie, one of the most publicized dogs of the last decade as a result of having won the largest indoor show in America two consecutive years. Brucie, Legacy's sire, was the best dog in the Westminster Kennel club show in New York City in 1940 and 1941.

Legacy has a top notch record of his own. He has not been defeated in his breed in four shows this year, going best of breed in the Westminster and Detroit shows and winning the sporting group in Cleveland and Cincinnati. Judge Alfred Delmont hesitated a long time between Foxspan and the Chicago Irish setter, Kleiglight of Aragon, owned by Jack Cooper, but the cocker bested its larger rival.

Sheepdog Is Best Working Dog.

The best working dog in the finals was the handsome, shaggy Old English sheepdog with the unusual name of Champion Merriedip Master Pantaloons, an American bred owned by Mrs. Helen Margery Lewis, Great Barrington, Mass. This huge silver-colored dog was another purebred which had accumulated numerous trophies for his owner, having won 59 best of breed titles.

The terrier in the finals was the high stepping little Welsh terrier, Champion Flornell Rare Bit of Twin Ponds, owned by Mrs. Edward P. Alker, Great Neck, Long Island N. Y. It has won five best in show titles this year—its first and most important being in the Boston show on Feb. 22 when it defeated 1,400 purebreds.

Beagle Leads Hound Group.

Champion Meadowlark Draftsman, one of the best known show dogs in the country and the leading beagle winner of the last two years, won the hound group and thus became a finalist in the best in show ring. This outstanding black, white, and tan hound has run up the amazing total of 12 best in show victories, 80 group titles, and has been best of breed 117 times. Draftsman is owned by Mrs. Austin du Pont's Liseter kennels, Newtown Square, Pa.

The first group winner picked at the show and the nonsporting dog finalist was the pert little Boston terrier, Champion H. M. S. Kiddie Boots Son, owned and handled by Mrs. Don Smith of Rumford, R. I. Only 2½ years old this son of the famous champion H. M. S. Kiddie Boots, came into the ring with a record of 29 best of breed titles. Yesterday's victory was his sixth group title, the other five having been attained in eastern shows.

Necker Trained Dog Wins.

Dobermans, bulldogs, shepherds, and other breeds scored high in the obedience tests held under the sponsorship of THE TRIBUNE. In the open class B, Judy V. Neckerheim, trained and owned by Willy Necker of Wheeling, placed first with a score of 246.5. This was the highest average score made by any dog in the trials.

Results of obedience tests:

Novice class B obedience test: Won by Hilda von Reffenstuhl [Dobermann-Pinscher], owned by Ruth Michael, Harvey, Ill., 93; Countess Asta V. Barron [Dobermann-Pinscher], owned by William J. Y., exhibits champion's calmness after winning best in show honors among 1,445 entries in the International Kennel club show which closed last night in the International Amphitheater. on Boston ice since Dec. 7, 1937, the Red Wings scored early and much too often for the Bruins and their supporters.

Detroit Scores in 19 Seconds.

The late comers were still groping for their seats when Mud Bruneteau gave the Red Wings their first tally after 19 seconds of play. Before the opening session was 11 minutes old the Red Wings had a 3 to 0 lead, for Eddie Wares and Carl Liscombe also beat Frank Brimsek before Roy Conacher scored the first Boston goal.

Liscombe and Don Grosso scored before and after McGill got the first of his three goals in the second period and during the final, 15 seconds after Syd Abel put the Red Wings into a 6 to 2 lead, McGill started to complete the hat trick.

McGill Finishes Hat Trick.

He batted in a long pass from Des Smith, and then, before completing his turn on the ice, beat Johnny Mowers for the third time while polishing off another play launched by Smith.

After the game both teams entrained for Detroit, where the second game will be played on Tuesday night. If a third one is needed the teams will return here on Thursday. Lineups:

55 Game Card Is Arranged in Pro Football

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 29.—The National Football league's first wartime meeting came to a close in the early hours of the morning today with adoption of a 55 game championship schedule for 1942.

Schedule makers saw in the 1942 slate a possibility for six games against the Army team which will be recruited from among players in the service to play for the benefit of the army's emergency relief fund.

Season Opens on Sept. 13.

The season will open on Sept. 13 with two games, one involving the Chicago Cardinals against Cleveland, and will close on Dec. 6 with three contests. The annual championship playoff between winners of the eastern and division titles will be held in the eastern winner's park on Dec. 13, barring the recurrence of the divisional playoff situation caused by the Green Bay Packers and Chicago Bears last fall.

George Halas' champion Bears will open their season, as per custom,

CARDINALS BEAT CHARLEY RUFFING AND YANKS, 3-2

Score Sixth Victory Over Champions in 9 Games.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 29 (AP).—Red Ruffing couldn't get by the first inning again today and the New York Yankees lost once more to the St. Louis Cardinals, 3 to 2. The Cards made all their runs in the first. Last Tuesday Ruffing yielded six hits and five runs in the first inning to the Detroit Tigers.

Two were out when Terry Moore, Enos Slaughter, Ray Sanders, and Ken O'Dea singled. This, plus a wild throw by Joe Gordon, scored three Cardinal runs.

Tom Henrich had a perfect day at bat, getting three hits in three trips. The game closed the spring series between the Yankees and the Cards with the National league club winning six of the nine contests. Before the game the spectators and players stood in a one minute tribute to the memory of Lou Gehrig. Score:

Bucky Walters held the Braves to two hits in five innings and Paul Derringer yielded four in four. Catcher Ernie Lombardi, in his first appearance against his old teammates, was struck out by Walters; flied out against Derringer, and was charged with an error in the third when Rollie Hemsley dashed to third while Ernie argued with Umpire Ray Barlick. Miami, Fla., March 29 (AP).—The New York Giants closed their six weeks' training stay in this area today by defeating the Cleveland Indians, 3 to 2, in 10 innings.

An infield hit by Rookie Connie Ryan and Bill Weber's double drove in the deciding run after the Giants had been held hitless in the first six innings by Jim Bagby.

Before the game started Manager Mel Ott announced that Clarence Jonnard, former major league catcher, would replace Frank Snyder as a Giant coach. Jonnard is a former Giant scout but has helped Ott in camp here since Snyder was named manager at Jersey City. Score:

BOLAND DELIVERS ROCKNE EULOGY AT ALUMNI RITES

Notre Dame, Ind., March 29 [Special].—Joe Boland, South Bend radio sports announcer and former assistant coach at Notre Dame and Purdue, delivered the principal talk today at the annual Communion breakfast of the Notre Dame Club of the St. Joseph Valley honoring the memory of Knute Rockne.

Boland, who played tackle under Rockne, said: "It is ironic that it has taken the greatest and most expansive war in the history of the world to bring home to us the lessons that Rockne taught all his life. He preached continuously the need of rugged contact sports to prevent our younger men from becoming soft. He crusaded always for the benefits of competitive sports.

"Now," Boland pointed out, "the army and navy are arranging to produce teams in the camps and training centers that will be the greatest the country has ever seen. They are not doing this just to give the men recreation, but because they know how football can toughen them and prepare them for their bigger battles in the armed forces."

More than 100 members of the club attended this, the 11th annual ceremony of its kind since Rockne was killed in a plane crash March 31, 1931. Other speakers were Edward [Moose] Krause, Notre Dame line coach, and the Rev. Charles Carey, C. S. C., chaplain of the club, who said the mass at the Shrine of St. Olaf, patron of Rockne's native Norway, in Dillon hall chapel. The group placed a wreath on Rockne'e grave following the breakfast.

Appling's Job Light as Sox Lose to Padres

inning successfully. He started off by fanning Calvey, but George McDonald and Hal Patchett followed with singles, leaving runners on third and first. After retiring Bill Salkeld on a popup, Humphries tried to nip Patchett off first, but the throw went astray. McDonald scored, after which John Hill lofted to Moses. The Sox recovered this run in the second without much effort. Wright singled, Hoag survived on an error, and after a delayed double steal had been pulled, Wright scored on an infield out. Then Wright cut loose his fourth inning homer to put the Sox in front.

The Sox might have added to their slim margin in the fifth if they hadn't tripped over themselves on the base lines. Mike Tresh and Humphries led off with hits, the latter a bunt. They moved ahead on Don Kolloway's sacrifice. Wally Moses grounded to McDonald, who touched the bag and then was surprised to see both Humphries and Tresh in the neighborhood of third. After considerable throwing, Humphries was nailed. However, the Sox made up for this in the seventh when an error put Philley on base. He scored later on the single by Ross.

Ross' Troubles Begin.

The difficulties experienced by Ross in the seventh began with a single by Hill. After two were out, Jack Skelley walked and Bill Thomas, the second Padre pitcher, hoisted an easy popup behind second. Knickerbocker let it drop, quite by accident, Hill scoring and the two other runners planting themselves on second and third. Tresh then picked Thomas off second. The Sox grabbed back this run in the eighth on a double by Harry Sketchley who went to third on Leo Wells' infield hit and home on a double steal.

The home eighth started badly for Ross when Art Garibaldi and McDonald singled. Philley's fumble of the latter hit sent the runners to third and second. Garibaldi scored on Patchett's fly and McDonald skipped in on Detore's triple to right. Knickerbocker threw out Hill and Mal Mazzera should have been out, but Jones fumbled a soft boiled grounder, giving Detore a chance to carry home the final run.

The Sox will see the last of their Pasadena camp tomorrow evening, but first will entertain the Pirates whom they haven't been able to trim in three attempts. Tomorrow the Pirates will look at the pitching of Ted Lyons and Thornton Lee. The latter thinks he has fully recovered from lameness in his left shoulder.

The Sox's first stop out of Pasadena will be El Centro, Cal., where they continue with the Pirates in a two day series. From there the two teams will go to Yuma, Ariz., for exhibition purposes and next Friday at Tucson the Sox will join up with the Cubs for the homeward barnstorming tour.

Rochester Pair Takes 5th in ABC Doubles

Columbus, O., March 29 [Special].—Edward Copenhagen and Frank Falzone of Rochester, N. Y., took fifth place in the doubles standing of the American Bowling congress tournament here today by rolling 1,331 pins.

Another new entry in the first 10 teams was supplied by the Minneapolis, Minn., pair of Art Cumming and Bill Kites, who aggregated 1,292 for sixth.

Copenhagen featured the day's program in his opening game when he made 10 straight strikes to arouse visions of a 300 game. Then on his 11th ball he left the 1-2-8 setup standing and picked off the No. 2 on his last attempt for 285. This, combined with Falzone's 224, added to 509 pins, third highest doubles game in the tournament.

Eddie Muno and Howard Pratt topped a contingent of Chicago bowlers with 1,203 in the doubles. Joe Brechitto and Tom Pullman were second high among Chicagoans with 1,194.

Eight series of 600 or better were recorded by Chicagoans in the singles competition, with Bill Smaha of Cicero being high with 662.

Vogel Brothers of Forest Park, who hit 3,065 last year at St. Paul to win the team title, relinquished the championship in falling 222 pins short of their 1941 mark. The Vogels totaled only 2,843, well back of the leading 10: Scores:

Grabiner Says Sox Look Like Yanks in Losing

BY EDWARD PRELL.

"We're like the Yankees—at least in one way," said Harry Grabiner, vice president of the White Sox, in the report of an eyewitness just returned from California where the south siders are preparing leisurely for the new baseball season.

"The Yankees are having trouble beating even minor league teams down in Florida," he said, "and I think Joe McCarthy must have the same idea as our Jimmie Dykes. That's to take it easy and work the players into shape soundly, so that they will be ready when it pays to be ready—by opening day."

Grabiner, who is almost as much of a White Sox institution as the Comiskeys, having risen to his post from office boy, believes there will be strong contention in the American league race.

May Cause Trouble, He Says.

"If our pitching holds up—and we see no reason why it shouldn't—and the team hits .270 or .275, we'll cause a lot of trouble," he declared. "So will the Red Sox and some of the other teams. It won't be a walkaway for the Yankees."

The Sox executive was impressed by many of the team's rookies and sophomores, not to mention old Ted Lyons, getting ready for his 20th season in Comiskey park. First, Grabiner spoke of Leo Wells, who has been playing shortstop while Luke Appling was taking a few extra weeks studying his 1942 contract.

"Wells is a good, sound ball player," said Grabiner. "He's smart and is a hustler. He can play most any infield position and will be a handy fellow. Jones [first name Murrell, from Shreveport], has shown a lot of power, but he isn't quite ready for the majors yet. Bob Kennedy looks like a better hitter this spring. Don Kolloway is hustling more than ever."

Likes Moses and West.

There were enthusiastic words, too, for the two veteran outfielders, Wally Moses and Sam West.

"Moses looks like a much better hitter than Mike Kreevich was the last two seasons," was Grabiner's estimate of the former Athletic star. "He is fast and has a good spirit. West, tho injured now, will help the Sox. I never saw Sam in better shape than when he reported to us."

How Story Started.

"A Los Angeles sports writer thought that one up," Grabiner chuckled. "He asked Dykes if he would like to have Johnson. Jim said, 'Sure, and I'd like to have Joe DiMaggio and Ted Williams, too.' I guess he couldn't tell that Jim was kidding."

"We're sold on Dykes' method of bringing the players into playing condition slowly," he said. "The other clubs on the coast started playing practice games long before we did and naturally were ahead of us in hitting. But you watch the Sox start improving at the plate from now on in."

Step Up, Gents—It's Last Day to Claim Newsom!

Lakeland, Fla., March 29 (AP).—The baseball future of Buck Newsom, the Detroit Tigers' holdout pitcher, probably will be determined tomorrow.

The Detroit management has asked waivers on Newsom and claims must be filed before 10 a. m. tomorrow. The last time Detroit placed Newsom's name on a waiver list, Washington was the only team to offer to take him for $7,500. The Tigers then withdrew Newsom's name.

Since that time, Detroit has tried again and again to trade or sell Newsom to Washington, but without success. Owner Clark Griffith of Washington has declined to do business at more than the waiver figure.

A stumbling block in a sale or trade is Newsom's assertion that he won't work for less than $22,000 this season. If Newsom isn't disposed of by the Tigers and fails to sign a contract by April 14 he will go on the suspended list.

Newsom, who engaged in another light workout today, said he might go home to Hartsville, S. C., tomorrow afternoon.

Greensboro, N. C., March 25 (AP).—Sam Byrd, New York Yankee baseball player turned pro golfer, won the $5,500 Greensboro Open today with a 72 hole score of 279, 5 shots under par. The 34 year old one time stand in for Babe Ruth quit the Cincinnati Reds in 1936 to turn pro, but his $1,000 first money here today was his first tournament triumph.

Tee Shot Hits Spectator.

On the 17th Nelson's drive hit a spectator on the green and the ball bounced into the creek. A penalty cost Byron 1 stroke, a bad lie when he lifted out cost 2 more, and he took a 6 on the par 3 hole. He wound up with a 74 after a morning 68. His total of 283 placed him in a tie for fourth place with Clayton Haefner of Charlotte, N. C.

Byrd fired rounds of 69—67—75—68. And he needed his fast finish, for Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., closed with rounds of 70—68 and Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago fired 69—69 to tie for second place at 281.

Seventeenth Beats Thomson, Too.

The 17th also proved the undoing of Jimmy Thomson, who was tied with Byrd at the start of today's 36 holes. Thomson knocked into the creek and also wound up with a 6. He finished with a 75 and 285 where he was tied for eighth place with four others.

FLAMING YOUTH THEORY IS BUNK, JUDGE DECLARES

Juvenile Court Sees No Rising Delinquency.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Chicago's younger generation was given a high rating yesterday by Judge Frank H. Bicek of the Juvenile court. He scoffed at gloomy forebodings that the city's youth was headed for perdition. On the contrary, he asserted, the boys and girls of this metropolis are very well behaved.

Judge Bicek's views were backed up by records prepared by John E. Conroy, clerk of the Circuit court, and Sergt. William J. Soltwisch, head police juvenile officer. The records showed there has been no increase in juvenile delinquency—that in 1940 and 1941 there was a decrease.

No War Effects Shown.

Judge Bicek said that while it was predicted that war conditions might increase delinquency in young girls, so far there has been no noticeable increase. The glamor of the uniforms of soldiers and sailors has not produced any effects in the Juvenile court, the veteran jurist declared.

Last year Judge Bicek found it advisable to send only 229 boys and 173 girls to state institutions—a total of 402 commitments out of Cook county's population of more than 4,000,000.

The activities of the court are reflected in two charts which were prepared with Judge Bicek's approval yesterday. They were taken from court and police records.

Delinquent Cases Listed.

The following table shows the number of delinquent cases on the dockets, including new cases and cases pending on the last day of each year since 1932:

	BOYS		GIRLS
Year.	Pending cases.	New cases.	Pending cases.	New cases.
1932	3,885	807	859	235
1933	4,298	1,076	773	252
1934	8,705	1,538	1,592	354
1935	8,021	1,521	1,259	244
1936	6,516	1,338	1,096	365
1937	6,612	1,368	1,212	293
1938	7,080	1,183	1,378	347
1939	5,853	1,174	1,552	329
1940	5,177	1,104	1,586	357
1941	5,926	1,124	1,720	326

Judge Bicek noted that the "new cases" for boys listed 1,104 in 1940 and 1,124 in 1941 and observed that these were the lowest since 1933; and that the 326 new cases involving girls in 1941 likewise indicated improvement. The number of cases pending varies because some cases are continued many times and the boy or girl involved is kept under supervision for several years.

Picture of the Problem.

The following table pictures the juvenile delinquency problem of Chicago, Judge Bicek said. Under the heading "complaints" is listed the number of boys whose conduct comes to the attention of Chicago police. Judge Bicek said it is his policy to avoid giving the boys a "record" wherever possible so the first complaint or two against a boy is "adjusted," and if he behaves thereafter no court entry is made. The number under the heading "petitions" is the actual number of boys whose names are entered on the court docket in the given year—the proceedings against them being by petition.

The suit was brought by insurgent members against William J. KILLS HIS WIFE, THEN SELF WITH SHOTGUN BLASTS

Tom Rolewicz, operator of a bakery at 1950 Chicago avenue, last night shot his wife, Catherine, to death then killed himself. The shooting took place in the darkened living quarters behind the shop.

Mrs. Rolewicz, who was 52 years old, came into the shop with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Stella Kilanski, 7429 57th street, after an evening together. As they entered the dining room, Mrs. Kilanski said, they heard a voice from the dark kitchen saying, "Open up your coat!" The blast from a 12 gauge shotgun followed, striking Mrs. Rolewicz in the neck and face.

Rolewicz then went thru the dining room to a nearby storeroom, where his body was found, the gun beside him. Mrs. Kilanski had fainted and did not hear the second shot. John Rolewicz, one of two sons and two daughters, not at home at the time, said his father had feared that his mother was unfaithful.

DENY E. J. FLYNN, FACING QUIZ, WILL QUIT PARTY POST

New York, March 29 [Special].—On the eve of the opening of a Bronx grand jury investigation into charges that city employés and city owned materials were used to improve the country estate of Edward J. Flynn, it was denied here today that Flynn would resign as national chairman of the Democratic party. There have been reports recently that Flynn intended to step out of that job and also resign as head of the party in the Bronx.

The first witness before the grand jury is expected to be Paul J. Kern asserted his probing of the Flynn case caused his dismissal from the commission by Mayor Fiorello La Guardia.

The case before the grand jury will be handled by Bronx District Attorney Samuel Foley, a Democrat.

DUBUQUE LOOKS AT THE DAMAGE, VOIDS NYA LEASE

School a Wreck After 18 Months' Use.

Dubuque, Ia., March 29 [Special].—With the National Youth administration preparing to open its new $125,000-center here April 6, city and school officials are ruefully contemplating damage to a school building turned over rent free to NYA occupancy 18 months ago.

Because of this damage, alleged to have been caused by carelessness, pilfering, and wanton destruction, the board of education has voted to revoke a 10 year lease granted NYA. Evacuation of the building is expected to be completed within 10 days.

Charges of incompetency in local NYA affairs were aired when the board of education heard a report from George Mehl, its superintendent of buildings and grounds, concerning the care of the school building under NYA direction. Some officials called the project a waste of taxpayers' money.

Boiler Goes Dry, Cracks.

Mehl told the board that his inspection revealed that a boiler in the school building had cracked due to lack of water. He said a boy who was supposed to look after the furnace had forgotten to attend to water in the boiler.

Other damage, he said, was due to negligence of NYA boys and girls and their supervisors working in sewing rooms and various trade shops in the building.

"Lead fittings in the toilet flush tanks were ripped out," Mehl reported. "All kinds of hardware, window shades and other school property were stolen. Large holes were punched in the walls, every toilet in the building was broken, staircases and railings were torn out. Much of the damage can't be repaired at this time because of the war.

NYA Does Nothing About It.

"There is no question in my mind but that the administrators of the project could see at various times the amount of damage that was being done, yet they apparently did nothing about it."

John Wright, state engineer for NYA, professed surprise when informed of the amount of damage caused to the school building.

2 YOUNG WOMEN DEFY BANDITS TO SAVE FUR COATS

Two young women saved their $300 fur coats yesterday by defiantly walking past two robbers, one of them armed, who accosted them as they were about to alight from the car of a friend.

The women, Miss Dorothy Buchanan, 27 years old, of 211 East Delaware place, and Miss Verna Simonton, 24, of 1330 North State street, are students at a fashion school.

They had just driven up in front of Miss Buchanan's home in the automobile of Raymond Smith, 1258 Lake Shore drive, an interior decorator. The robbers forced Miss Buchanan to surrender $25 from her purse and took $17 from Miss Simonton.

But when the bandits ordered them to surrender their coats they walked past them into the building. Smith, who lost nothing, reported the robbery to Chicago avenue police.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

CONTINENTAL OIL NETS $3.29 PER SHARE IN 1941

Union Bag & Paper Sales Set Record.

The Continental Oil company yesterday reported Consolidated net income of $15,398,082 for 1941, equal to $3.29 on each capital share. In 1940 the company reported a net income of $4,317,657, equal to 92 cents a share.

Gross operating income for 1941 was $106,526,802, an increase of 26.5 per cent over 1940. Dan Moran, president, said a larger volume of sales of crude oil and refined products accounted for about two-thirds of the increase, and slightly higher prices contributed the remainder. The company's sales of all refined products last year were 794,533,519 gallons, the largest in its history, and 90,216,115 gallons, or 12.81 per cent, more than in 1940.

Profits Gain Slightly.

Record sales and a small gain in net income last year were reported by Union Bag and Paper corporation, New York. Profit for 1941 was $2,168,313, equal to $1.70 a share against $2,134,391, or $1.68 a share, in 1940.

Net sales last year were $27,871,007, a gain of 26 per cent over the $22,081,033 of the preceding year. Shipments totaled 9 billion bags and 123,717 tons of pulp, board, and paper, Alexander Calder, president, told shareholders. Provision for federal taxes increased from $1,562,000 in 1940 to $3,313,692 in 1941.

Calder reviewed the many uses of paper in the war effort, asserting war demands on the paper industry have been heavy and that "there is every indication these demands will become even heavier as the war progresses." He said more than 100,000 tons of kraft pulp and paper products have been shipped to England under the lend-lease program.

Fairchild Engine Earns More.

Fairchild Engine and Airplane corporation, New York, reported its 1941 profits were $541,079, against $60,772 in the preceding year. A statement accompanying the annual report said employment of women in its factories had been so successful the number will be increased to 50 per cent of entire working personnel as military needs decrease availability of men.

W. T. Grant company, variety store chain, reported net earnings in the year ended Jan. 31 were $4,446,393.

CONSIDER SINGLE AGENCY TO RULE FOOD INDUSTRY

New York, March 29 [Special].—Establishment of a food administration, a single independent agency to coördinate and direct the operations of the food industry in the war effort, is considered by top government authorities and is likely to be announced in the near future, it was learned today.

Because of its vital place in the wartime effort the food industry, it was said, has become dissatisfied with the present situation under which the department of agriculture, the War Production board, and the Office of Price Administration, among others, take part in its direction. The industry is of such importance, its leaders believe, that the establishment of a comprehensive agency, comparable in scale to the WPB itself, is necessary.

MERCHANDISE CHAIN.

I would like to know to what extent McCrory Stores corporation has shared in the general upturn of retail business. What is this company's capitalization and funded debt? Are there two preferred stock issues outstanding? Where are the stores located?—A. O. B.

Answer: McCrory Stores corporation, operating an extensive chain of stores handling moderately priced merchandise, experienced a substantial growth in sales in 1941. Net income, however, recorded a relatively small gain by comparison. Taxes rose sharply. The company's paid taxes in 1941 of $1,876,500, compared with $578,600 in 1940. Results for a period of years follow:

1940...	46,207,992	2,332,511	2.00
1939...	43,193,608	2,231,012	1.95
1938...	40,068,193	1,765,063	1.48
1937...	41,001,242	2,168,621	1.89

The company has outstanding 60,000 shares of 5 per cent cumulative preferred, $100 par, and 990,253 shares of $1 par common stock. An issue of 6 per cent convertible preferred stock was redeemed in February, 1941. Funded debt consists of $3,000,000 of 3¼ per cent debentures, due in 1955, and $667,950 in mortgage and purchase money obligations.

Dividends have been paid on the common stock since 1936, the year following a reorganization in bankruptcy. The company paid dividends of $1.25 a share in 1941, the same amount in 1940, $1 in 1939, 75 cents in 1938 and 50 cents in 1937. A 25 cent quarterly dividend has been authorized for payment March 31.

Most of the merchandise handled by the McCrory chain is in the 5 cents to $1 range and a wide variety is offered. This includes dry goods, toilet articles, food, hardware, kitchen ware, and notions. In January this year, the company was operating 202 stores, about half of them in Pennsylvania and adjacent states. Several units are operated in southern states. General offices are in New York City.

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

What is meant by the term "commercial paper?"

Answer: Commercial paper generally includes all types of short term negotiable instruments which call for the payment of money and which may be used for borrowing purposes. This includes promissory notes, drafts, bills of exchange, acceptances, etc.

Corn Is Taking No. 1 Rank as Nation's Grain

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

Corn gradually has assumed the position of No. 1 grain on the Board of Trade and yesterday some interests were predicting that eventually it would sell higher than wheat.

"Corn is in the process of making a new name for itself," said E. C. Remick of Clement, Curtis & Co. "It is to occupy a new position in our agricultural commodity setup. Eventually corn will sell at much higher prices."

He said the uses of corn and the products that can be made from corn are numerous. They are increasing, he said, and many of them are indispensable to the war effort.

Believed Most Valuable Grain.

"Our export markets want the conversion products of corn such as meats, fats, and oils," he said. The flocks and herds of Europe have been decimated, and it will take years to rebuild them. Likely we will have a long continuing demand for products to take their place. That means corn, directly or indirectly, to a large extent.

"I believe corn now is our most valuable grain, bushel for bushel as well as in total volume, despite current price differences which might seem to indicate otherwise. Nor does this theory conflict with historical precedent, for corn has on occasion sold close to and above the price of wheat."

Buying Large Supplies.

With processors consuming corn at a record pace—a pace that is far overshadowed by the rate which farmers were converting the grain into pork, beef, milk, and eggs—Chicago grain dealers turned to the country shippers for record supplies of corn last week. They took more corn to be shipped to this market than has been booked in any week so far this year. Most of the dealers believed they will be supplying Canada's requirements shortly.

Altho grain futures moved erratically last week, price variations for the most part were small.

NEW 'ROOMETTE' SLEEPING CAR TO BE TESTED SOON

Pullman company announced yesterday that a new type of "roomette" sleeping car, has been completed at the Pullman car works and will be put into operation soon on a tryout basis.

E. E. Adams, vice president in charge of research, said the new lightweight sleeper is the result of efforts to produce a car that would combine passenger privacy with fare economy. The car, known as a duplex roomette, is designed to carry 24 persons in single occupancy rooms.

The company expects the charge for a roomette to be about 10 per cent higher than for a lower berth on a regular Pullman.

The 24 compartments are arranged on two levels, but the rooms on the upper level are only about two feet above those in the lower level. The arrangement permits the folding of the beds in such a way as to save space. The rooms in the higher level are up one step from the center aisle.

British Facing Control of All Textile Lines

LONDON, March 29 (AP).—The position of the entire British textile industry rapidly is approaching that point where supplies, from producer to distributor, will be controled and civilians will have to curtail their demands in proportion to the rise in direct war needs.

By summer, textile authorities say, every article of clothing except hats and shoes will have been subjected to restrictions under government plans for conserving man power and materials.

The most serious shortages now showing up are in all lines of girls' hosiery and baby linen, but some economies are expected in war uniform cuts.

Report on Textile Situation.

COTTON—Inadequacy in quantity and quality of coal is proving a hindrance to this trade which already has been much handicapped by labor troubles. There is a possibility of improvement, however, with the release of miners from the fighting forces.

Reports from Manchester said disposal of "frustrated" stocks and diversion of cargoes from Asia have been occupying attention most of the week. Shippers, meanwhile, have been wondering what they could do with fancy far east lines on hand. And buyers for home markets have been wondering where and when they would be able to place orders.

Fabrics for home dominions governments have been keeping some manufacturers busy but not much could be done with exports.

Rayon Output Below Needs.

RAYON—Current output of yarn is below consumers' needs and scarcity of yarn is keeping many looms idle. A tight hand is being kept on exports while most overseas markets able to trade want to buy because there is no foreign competition. South America leads in these transactions, chiefly in wide linings.

WOOL — Meager production of yarns and fabrics outside war requirements is an obstacle to new orders for civilian requirements. There has been no falling off in the quantity of wool passing thru earlier processes but employers are wondering when they will be able to get enough labor to clear the piled up government contracts.

A mannikin parade in Huddersfield of wool coats, suits, and frocks bore the stamp of work put in by the best of the country's designers. Lime green, powder blue, flame, orange, turquoise, gold, and wine were only a few of the many shades with a good proportion of cherry and pillarbox red.

Large Demand for Linen.

Those representing the women's section of the industry are considering modifications in styles but they are not expected to be as severe as men's because of the weight given the psychological factor of feminine sex decorative value.

LINEN—Belfast reported the trade outlook unchanged and pivoting on the raw material position with demand far outstripping possibilities of supply. The home market cupboard is bare and the Americas could get only a fraction of their needs.

After calculating what flax can be grown in Ireland in 1942 and adding probable British, Egyptian, and Canadian supplies, it is doubtful whether there would be enough to operate more than 30 per cent of Ulster's spindles.

Uniform and airplane cloth contracts now being placed should absorb most of the yarn stocks to the great relief of manufacturers who are bemoaning the heavy financial burdens involved in holding these stocks so many months.

Something approaching a famine has been reported in corsets. Customers are being told to "come back in May or June" when fresh stock is expected.

Kirkeby Sells Los Angeles Hotel for Million Dollars

Los Angels, Cal., March 29 [Special].—The sale of the Town House, one of Los Angeles' most fashionable hotels, to C. N. Hilton, head of a hotel chain, has been announced here. The price was reported about a million dollars. A. S. Kirkeby, head of a company that operates the Drake and Blackstone hotels in Chicago, was the seller. The Kirkeby company acquired the Town House in 1937.

CHICAGO AREA RAIL SHIPPING VOLUME TO RISE

About 886,000 Cars Needed in Quarter.

Chicagoland shippers will require approximately 886,000 freight cars to handle railroad traffic in the second quarter of this year, an increase of 5 per cent over the 844,048 cars actually loaded in the second quarter of 1941, the Midwest Shippers Advisory board estimated yesterday.

For the first time in many months, the shippers' forecast contains numerous commodities in which loadings will be substantially below the 1941 volume. This is the result of the war conditions which have caused a virtual stoppage in the movement of certain peacetime articles."

Included among the declines were: automobiles, down 66.7 per cent; building materials such as lime and plaster, 15 per cent; and agricultural implements, 30 per cent.

Military Items Not Included.

On the other hand, the forecast of the shippers does not include numerous articles being manufactured or assembled for military use. If military shipments were taken into account, the increase over last year probably would be more than the estimated 5 per cent, it was said.

Meantime, the effects of the stoppage in the movement in a large part of consumer goods is being felt by the railroads. Recent traffic reports indicate that car loadings are not increasing at the rate formerly expected. Some difference of opinion exists in railroad circles as to whether the movement of military goods will offset the loss in the business of moving civilian goods.

The Midwest board will hold a meeting at the Palmer House April 7 to discuss the second quarter outlook. J. Monroe Johnson, a member of the Interstate Commerce commission, will speak on "Vigilance."

Comparison of Loadings.

SMALL BUSINESS MEN COMPLAIN OF DRIVE FOR FUNDS

How so-called "liaison officers" for the Office of Production Management attempted to collect funds from small business men in return for Washington "favors" was revealed in Chicago yesterday.

A number of business establishments recently have reported the receipt of letters asking a "quota" of funds to pay for a "friend at court" in Washington, over the name of Donald B. Howard, of Minneapolis, and William Sentner of St. Louis. Some of those solicited were in attendance at the Midwest Emergency conference last Sept. 12 in the Morrison hotel.

Frederick A. Virkus, president of the Illinois Division of the National Small Businessmen's association, said he had heard of the letters and had informed Joseph L. Overlock of the War Production board, successor to the OPM. Solicitation is said to have stopped, and some of the contributions returned.

'Advice on Lawns.

THE annual spring repair work on lawns is underway at the Du Page county farm, and the gardener advises every one who has a lawn to start reseeding and fertilizing as soon as possible.

Most of the lawns at the farm are in good shape. In several spots where the shade is dense there are some bare spots that will need attention.

To repair established lawns the gardener uses a heavy rake to scratch up thin or bare spots in the grass. The soil is loosened to the depth of two inches and then reseeded and fertilized. If the soil is not fertile the gardener top dresses the bare spot with a light covering of rich, black dirt.

Recommends Fertilizer.

If fertilizer is used, a complete plant food type should be chosen—preferably one high in nitrogen. It should be spread over the lawn and allowed to soak into the ground with the aid of rain. If the fertilizer is put on early there is little danger of it burning new grass shoots.

The large shade trees on the farm homes seem to be natural enemies of a good lawn. Their large roots take a great deal of plant food and moisture from the ground, and the branches make such heavy shade the grass has a difficult time getting started.

A recommended grass seed mixture for shady spots on the lawn contains 45 per cent rough stalked meadow grass, 45 per cent fascue and 10 per cent annual bluegrass. This mixture possesses the ability to thrive under shady conditions.

If the area to be seeded is in dense shade then it will prove extremely difficult to start a lawn. Under these circumstances the gardener recommends growing lilies-of-the-valley or some low creeping green plant that will survive in darkness.

Often shady spots on the lawn will require reseeding each year. To help these spots, it is advisable to top dress the soil about the tree roots with manure or a commercial fertilizer. When loosening the soil preparatory to seeding, be sure not to disturb seedings that have already started to grow.

A good seed mixture for normal, sunny lawns contains 75 per cent rough stalked meadow grass and 25 per cent meadow fescue. Bluegrass may be added if the seed is to be planted in a sunny spot.

Replants Seedlings.

The gardener has been busy in the greenhouse the last few days repotting some horse chestnut seedlings. The seedlings were started from nuts gathered last fall. At Christmas they were started in sand flats. After they sprouted they were transferred to small, two and one half inch pots.

Now the seedlings are from six to eight inches tall and have outgrown the tiny pots. The gardener has been transferring them to four inch pots.

They will remain in these pots until they gain five or six more inches in height. They then can be planted outdoors in permanent locations. However, the danger of rabbits and mice killing them is too great so they will be placed in a propagating frame for protection. Here they will remain until they are four or five feet tall. They then will be set out.
